WE'LL DO THE LEGWORK

Whether you're contemplating the purchase of a new chair or the renovation of your entire house, it pays to ask an expert to do the legwork. Merkel's interior designers and sales consultants are experts in helping people find the furnishings that are right for the room, the right color and the right price. If you know what you want, our friendly courteous staff can save you hours of legwork by pre-shopping fabric and finish choices. If you are still in the planning stages, our designers can help with a masterplan that utilizes what you wish to retain of your present furniture, and provides for an organized acquisition of furnishings that will make your home the place of your dreams. And Merkel is your one stop resource for everything you need...from hardwood and carpet to window and wall coverings, from tables and chairs to lamps and pictures...all at competitive pricing.

101 THINGS TO DO in ANN ARBOR

A few of the town's particular pleasures

1. Eat raisin toast at Angelo's.

2. Take out-of-town visitors to the Cube in front of the U–M's Fleming Administration Building. Spin it.

3. Take the kids to the fire station and ask for a tour of the premises. (Make sure to ask a fireman to slide down the pole.)

4. Get married in the Nichols Arboretum.

5. Get remarried in the Nichols Arboretum.

6. Check out hat fashions on the women who work at Whole Foods.

7. Admire Joe Joe the juice man (at Joe Joe's Cafe) as he pours out one of his combo concoctions.

8. Buy an ice cream cone at Washtenaw Dairy, eat it on the bench outside, and have a Norman Rockwell moment.

9. Go to Great Harvest Bread Company for a free slice of warm buttered bread.

10. Sit on the Diag and feed the squirrels.

11. Check out the snow sculptures in front of Blimpy Burger "Cheaper Than Food!" on a snowy day.

12. Go fishing at Spring Valley Trout Farm.

13. Watch ex-U-M professor Bert Hornback as Charles Dickens reading "A Christmas Carol" at the U-M Museum of Art.

14. See Sleepy LaBeef in one of his semi-annual appearances at the Blind Pig.

15. Then go downstairs to the 8-Ball Saloon and shoot pool with Shaky Jake.

16. Go on the fall Old West Side Homes Tour. Fiercely covet the homes while engaging the owners in friendly conversation.

17. Observe the magnificent copper beech tree on Hill Street between Olivia and South Forest in every season of the year.

18. Adopt a pet at the Humane Society.

19. Warm—or burn—your mouth at Tios' monthly salsa and hot sauce sampling.

20. Pontificate to a captive audience at the beginning of a City Council meeting.

21. Spring for a romantic dinner for two at the A & W in Dexter.

22. Eat macaroni and cheese and homemade pie while totting up your bargains at the February Kiwanis Sale.

23. Rent a canoe and spend the afternoon floating down the Huron.

24. Cool off on the hottest day of the year browsing the tranquil stacks of the Ann Arbor Public Library.

25. See a wonderful film at the glorious Michigan Theater. Throw caution to the winds and ask for extra (real) butter on the popcorn.

26. Watch the sailboat regattas on Barton Pond on a summer Sunday morning.

27. Eat a fried egg sandwich while browsing the stalls at the Ann Arbor Antiques Market early on a Sunday morning. (Bring a napkin.)

28. Explore the beautiful Rackham Building with a creative and impressionable child.

29. Take the kids to see an exhibit on the Artrain.

30. Tour the Arb's peony garden in early June.

31. Go to Meijer at 4 a.m. with someone you love and buy a lot of stuff you wouldn't normally buy.

32. Rent a paddleboat with your sweetie at Gallup Park.

33. Pick through the perfectly good stuff left on the curb by departing U–M students at the end of every April.

34. Eat wild strawberries at Barton Park in June.

35. Go down to the Amtrak Station on Depot Street and watch the Lakeshore Limited roll in from the Windy City.

36. Treat yourself to a late lunch or go shopping in town on a football Saturday. (Timing is the key here.)

37. Sip ice cold cider and munch fresh, warm donuts at the Dexter Cider Mill on a snappy autumn day.

38. Shop at the finest yard sales in the free world.

39. Visit the magical Eberwhite Playground on a bright spring day. (If you're no longer pint-sized, watch your forehead as you negotiate the tunnels.)

40. Put on a scary costume and wander through the Old West Side on Halloween.

41. Head out to Fox Village Theater on a rainy afternoon and for $1.50 catch that movie you missed first time around.

42. Pose nude for a photo in front of a famous Ann Arbor landmark. Make cards from photos. Distribute cards to arty stores. Make money.

43. Bring friends and food to the top of the Washington Street parking structure on a moonlit night.

44. Let Ann Arbor history come alive (so to speak) on a Forest Hills Cemetery tour with Wystan Stevens.

45. Watch the U-M Marching Band practice on a fall afternoon at Elbel Field.

46. Take a docent-led tour of the U-M Museum of Art.

47. Stand with a bullhorn at the intersection of State and William and scream "Cross at the green, not in between!" at the throngs of students dazedly ambling into traffic.

48. Buy season tickets to the Performance Network.

49. Rent an one-hour outdoor soak at Oasis Hot Tubs in the middle of a blinding snowstorm. Bring a close friend.

50. Go to Value Village in Ypsilanti and buy cool used clothing for peanuts.

51. Visit Haenle Sanctuary at dusk in the fall and watch the sandhill cranes fly in.

52. Put a quarter in someone's expired parking meter. Smile sweetly at the ticket person.

53. Wake up the kids at 9 a.m. on a lazy Sunday and tune in to WCBN's Rug Rat Review, nicely irreverent stories, songs, and silliness for the short set.

54. Spend hours at the new Borders, wondering how you ever managed without it.

55. Go fishing in the Huron River. (You'd better have a license.)

Shopping can be fun and games.

Come in and try our toys! Ride a fire engine. Climb a giant wooden castle. Snuggle up to our mega-menagerie of stuffed animals. Learn to bead, braid and build.

We have the largest selection of quality toys in Ann Arbor. Whether you create, collect or construct, our assortment is incredibly complete and totally captivating!

56. Eat sushi at Miki with the expatriate Japanese crowd.

57. Volunteer at the Ann Arbor Hunger Coalition's free dinner program.

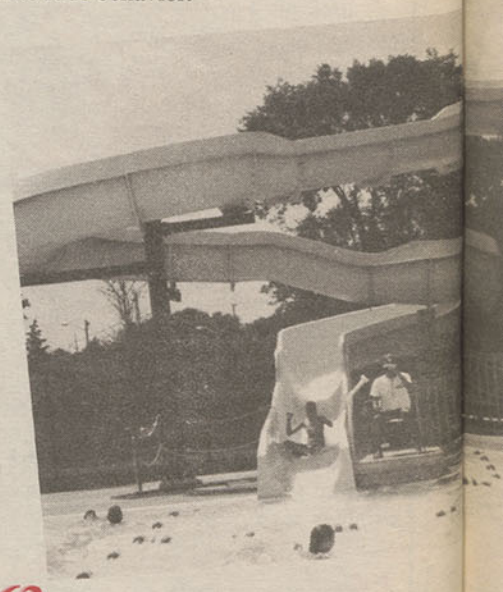
58. Ride in the Ecology Center Bike-a-Thon.

59. Walk in the Ann Arbor Aid for AIDS Walk-a-Thon.

60. Sing "Hallelujah!" at the annual community "Messiah" sing at St. Clare's Episcopal Church, open to anyone who wants to warble.

61. Dance outdoors to Big Dave and the Ultrasonics, then spread out a blanket and watch Dr. Seuss movies at the Top of the Park during the Ann Arbor Summer Festival. All for free.

62. Visit Zingerman's and see if it's possible to goad one of their employees into rude behavior.



63. Go down the water slide at Veterans Park Pool—the cheapest thrill in town.

64. Buy an expensive imported cigar at Village Corner.

65. Become a shaman or shamaness.

66. Recycle.

67. Begin therapy or bodywork (you're certainly in the right town).

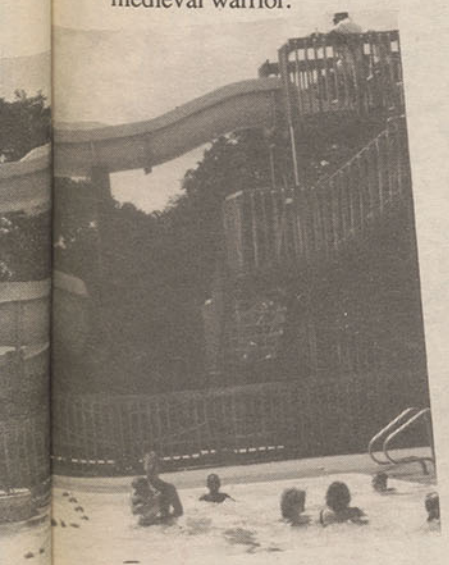
68. Visit the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum and use the periscope on the first floor to spy on the unsuspecting people upstairs.

69. Listen to heartfelt, awful, wonderful, angst-ridden, and whimsical verse at the monthly Poetry Slam, upstairs at the Heidelberg.

70. Order burgers and fries at the Fleetwood Diner at 3 a.m.

71. Breakfast on coffee and donuts with Ann Arbor's finest at the Washtenaw Dairy at the crack of dawn.

72. Join the Society for Creative Anachronism and redefine yourself as a medieval warrior.



73. Reach inward toward Nirvana.

74. Float serenely in warm saline solution at Vale Float Center. (Then get more therapy and bodywork.)

75. Proudly display your "I'd rather be in Ann Arbor" bumper sticker as you make courageous forays into the hinterlands.

76. Put on black clothes, then hang out at Liberty Street Video. Cruise the cult section, chat with the interesting clerks, meet someone.

77. Go to Dinersty with person you met at Liberty Street Video. Eat Thai noodles. Then eat breath mints.

78. Brave pigeon bombs to hear wandering minstrels late at night under the archway of Nickels Arcade.

79. Laugh at Judy Tenuta (or any number of big-name comedians) at MainStreet Comedy Showcase.

80. Audition for a play at Ann Arbor Civic Theater.

81. Get a tattoo.

82. Get a tattoo removed.

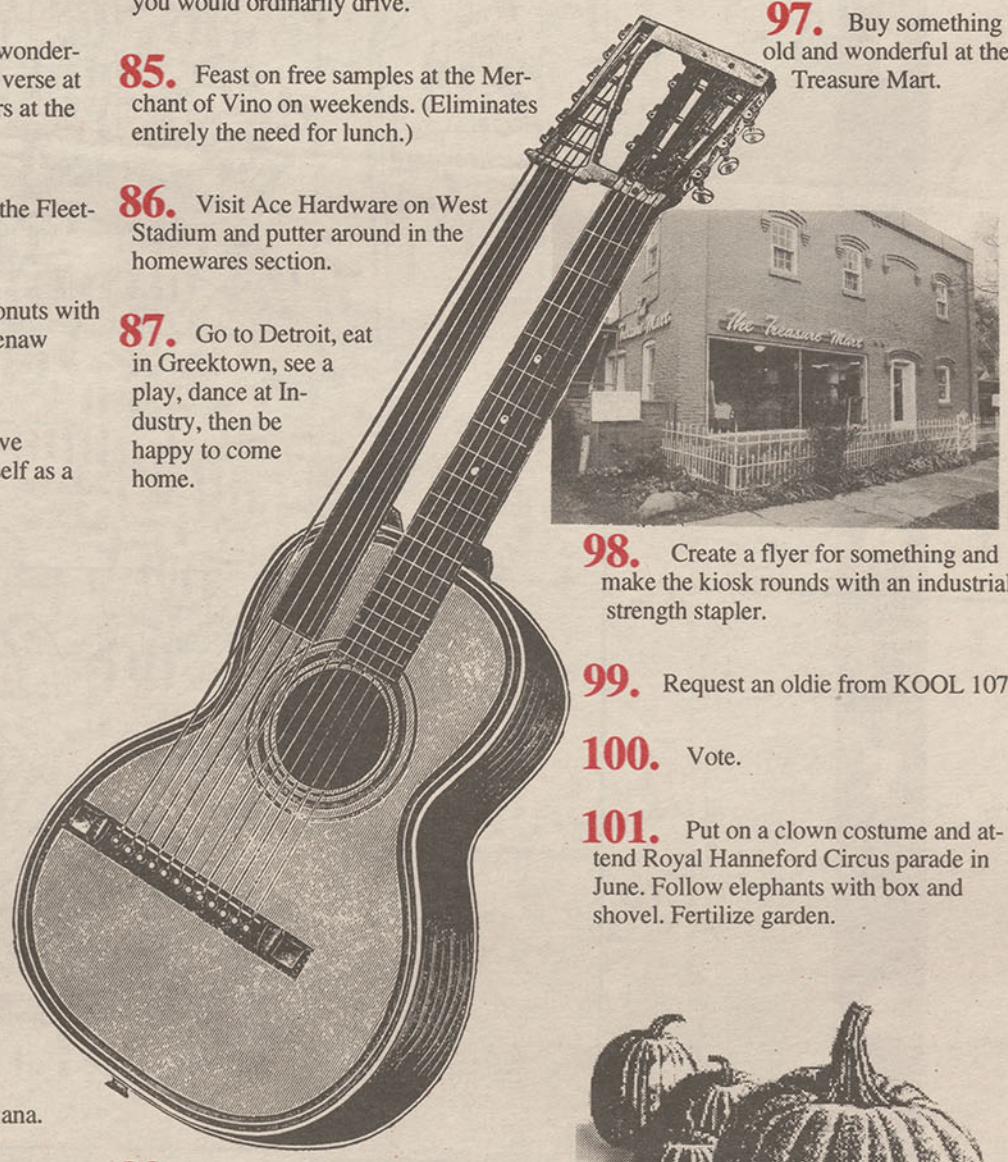
83. Listen to late-night jazz at the Bird of Paradise.

84. Take the AATA bus somewhere you would ordinarily drive.

85. Feast on free samples at the Merchant of Vino on weekends. (Eliminates entirely the need for lunch.)

86. Visit Ace Hardware on West Stadium and putter around in the homewares section.

87. Go to Detroit, eat in Greektown, see a play, dance at Industry, then be happy to come home.



88. Dust off your guitar, write a killer country song, then go the Ark's Open Mike Night (almost every Wednesday) and sing it for a small but supportive audience.

89. Wander through the Farmers' Market on a Saturday morning in early October. Buy a pumpkin.

90. Catch disco fever at the Nectarine Ballroom.

91. See a free "underground" student theater production in the Arena Theater of the U-M Frieze Building.

92. Collect local band names. We'll start you off: Whiptail, Fortune and Maltese and the Pallbearers, The Holy Cows, Crowbar Hotel, Restroom Poets, Milk and Cheese, Wild Sheep Riders . . .

93. Drink foofie coffee concoctions while reading post-structural literature and smoking those French cigs your friend brought back from Montparnasse.

94. Join a softball team.

95. See 30 pages of the oldest-known copy of the Epistles of St. Paul, at the Special Collections Library in the U-M's Harlan Hatcher Graduate Library.

96. Attend religious services: Buddhist, Christian, Jewish, Muslim, or Neopagan.

97. Buy something old and wonderful at the Treasure Mart.

98. Create a flyer for something and make the kiosk rounds with an industrial-strength stapler.

99. Request an oldie from KOOL 107.

100. Vote.

101. Put on a clown costume and attend Royal Hanneford Circus parade in June. Follow elephants with box and shovel. Fertilize garden.

HOME TOXIC MATERIALS

Remember to safely use household toxic products only as directed on package. Dispose of properly as described below or call the Washtenaw County Home Toxics Line at 971-7356. Buy least toxic products in the future.

Household Batteries. Put used, nonleaking household batteries in a clear plastic bag and place OUTSIDE of the curbside recycling bins or take to the Drop-Off Station.

Car Batteries. Take non-leaking car batteries to the Drop-Off Station or to local auto stores.

Used Motor Oil. Do not include any other fluids besides motor oil. Place in a see-through plastic milk jug with a screw-top lid or taped pop-top and place OUTSIDE of the curbside recycling bins or take to the Drop-Off Station. Several local service stations accept used motor oil as well.

For Other Toxic Products, such as leaky batteries, mixed motor oil, paints and pesticides, call the County at 971-7356.

Government

Republicans and Democrats seem more alike in Ann Arbor than they do in most cities, especially when they're talking about social issues. It's a rare GOP candidate who isn't pro-choice, and the city's 1991 domestic partnership ordinance, granting recognition to same-sex couples, passed by unanimous bipartisan vote.

The main issue that divides council is the cost and size of city government. Republicans tend to favor a government that costs less, even if it means getting fewer services in return. Democrats are far more likely to support activist city policies than tax cuts, though they, too, are wary of anything that might raise taxes.

That sensitivity to taxes—taught in years of council and millage elections—is yet another thing the parties have in common. This issue is likely to survive even the recent education tax shift, which replaced most local school property taxes with a bigger state sales tax. That's because Ann Arbor's school tax rates weren't as high as some districts', and thus didn't go down as much. Citizens still feel overtaxed—and because the city collects the entire property tax bill, it's the first place people think of when they fantasize about slashing government waste. In fact, eliminating city government entirely would reduce local property taxes by only one-third. The rest of the taxes go to Washtenaw County and to various school authorities.

Elections
New Elected Officials
Ann Arbor City Government
Court System
Washtenaw County Government
Township Governments

Elections

Ann Arbor holds city elections every fall on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November. National, state, and county elections are normally held on the same day, but only in even-numbered years. Township elections coincide with national presidential elections. School board elections are held annually on the second Monday in June. For all elections, polls are open 7 a.m.–8 p.m.

Residents may register to vote at the city clerk's office, the public library, Secretary of State offices, and through volunteer deputy registrars. To be eligible to vote, you must register your Ann Arbor address at least thirty days before an election. After registering, you will receive information by mail about where to vote. (See city clerk listing, p. 22.)

Primary elections for city, township, county, state, and national offices are held in August preceding the November general vote. In primary elections, voters may vote for the candidates in one party only. Also, in even-numbered years both political parties hold nominating conventions after the August primary to nominate state education boards (e.g., the U-M board of regents), lieutenant governor (if it is a gubernatorial election year), state supreme court justices, secretary of state, and attorney general. Would-be precinct delegates to the nominating conventions can file a petition with the county clerk. For more information, call the county Democratic Party headquarters (998–0345) or the county Republican headquarters (971–4622).

New Elected Officials

An amazing number of Ann Arbor's national, state, and county officials are up for reelection on November 8. To find out who your elected officials are after November 8, call the reference desk at the Ann Arbor Public Library, 994–2342. As of January 1995 you can also find this information (along with addresses and telephone numbers) in the new edition of Your Elected Officials, published and distributed free by the League of Women Voters. This booklet can be picked up at the Ann Arbor Public Library or obtained by writing to The League of Women Voters at P.O. Box 7353, Ann Arbor 48107.

Ann Arbor City Government

Who to Call

City Hall is located at 100 N. Fifth Ave., at Huron St. The mailing address is P.O. Box 8647, AA 48107.

For general information, call the information desk, 994–2700. If you have a question about a specific city service, call the department that provides it. The main functions of each department are outlined below, and a brief index of services and phone numbers is in the box on this page. Complaints about city services or employees are handled by the city clerk's office (994–2725). If you want to see changes made in any city law, rule, or procedure, call your city council representatives (see p. 27).

People with disabilities who need assistance with city services can call 994–2700 (TTD-equipped). With advance notice, the city will provide braille or voice-recorded documents to the blind (this can take up to two weeks) and interpreters for the deaf at public meetings.

City Council & Mayor

For information about City Council and issues currently before it, call 994–2885 or 994–2892. The council message line (994–3313) will relay your questions or comments to a specific council person. To learn who your representatives are, see the ward map and the list of current council members on p. 27.

City Council adopts the city's annual budget and determines city laws and policies. It is made up of eleven members: two from each of the city's five wards, plus the mayor. Serving on council is considered to be a part-time job: council members receive just $8,800 per year for their work.

Council members serve staggered two-year terms, so one seat in each ward is up for grabs in a partisan election every fall. The last five years have seen council shift from a 7–4 Republican majority to the current (summer 1994) 7–4 Democratic majority. But despite Ann Arborites' reputation for a high level of political involvement, council elections tend to generate little interest and low turnouts. In November 1993, with neither a mayoral race nor controversial issues on the ballot, the election drew just 11,353 voters. By comparison, 56,245 people voted in the November 1992 presidential election.

Regular city council meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. on the first and third Mondays of every month, in the council chambers on the second floor of City Hall. Additional special or working sessions usually take place on the second and fourth Mondays of the month. Citizens are welcome to attend both the meetings and the working sessions. Meetings are telecast live on the city's Community Access Television's Channel 10 and repeated twice each week: on Tuesdays at 1:30 p.m. and Fridays at 7:30 p.m. (see Media, p. 128).

The two party caucuses meet together the night before scheduled council meetings at 7:30 in the second-floor conference room above the fire station (across Fifth Avenue from City Hall). Caucus meetings are open to the public and provide a better forum than council meetings for citizens who want to talk directly with council members.

The public is welcome to speak to council, at the beginning of each council meeting, but only eight four-minute slots are available. You can sign up for one of these slots by calling the city clerk's office (994–2725) beginning at 8 a.m. on the day of the meeting. Would-be speakers should call early: slots often fill by 8:10 a.m. Speakers must announce the subject of their address when they sign up. Also, without having to sign up in advance, members of the public may address council at the end of council meetings, usually around midnight. Public hearings, at which anyone can speak without advance notice for up to five minutes, are held during council meetings on many proposed council actions. council meetings and notices of public hearings are published in the Ann Arbor News the Saturday before each meeting.

Mayor, third floor, City Hall. 994–2766. The mayor, elected in a partisan election every two years, presides over and is a voting member of city council. Republican Ingrid Sheldon was elected in April 1993 and will run for reelection in November 1994. The mayor appoints council committees, has the power to veto most council actions, has certain police powers in the case of an emergency, and acts as ceremonial head of the city. This is designated as a part-time position and pays $16,500 a year.

To become a member of any of the more than 100 city boards, committees, or commissions, request an application from the mayor's office. The city clerk's office maintains a list of all such groups that have openings.

City Administration

In the fall of 1994, many city departments are moving. Locations given here were correct as the City Guide went to press, but it would be wise to call to confirm the location of any office you intend to visit.

City Administrator, third floor, City Hall. 994–2650. Ann Arbor's administrator, currently Alfred A. Gatta, is responsible for seeing that the city bureaucracy carries out the policies established by council. He prepares an annual budget for adoption by council, and city department heads answer to him, either directly or through another department head.

Accounting Division, fifth floor, City Hall. 994–2730. This division of the Finance Department, formerly called the controller's office, is headed by Karen Lancaster. It manages the city's money and provides citizens with information on bond issues and the city's general financial condition.

Assessor, fifth floor, City Hall. 994–2663. This division of the Finance Department, headed by Jim Rushton, keeps tax and ownership histories of Ann Arbor real estate. Property taxes are based on an assessed value determined by this office; by state law, the assessed value is supposed to equal one-half the current market value of the property. However, under Proposal A, passed by Michigan's voters in March 1994, assessment increases are limited to 5 percent or the rate of increase in the Consumer Price Index, whichever is lower. After sale or transfer of the property, assessments are adjusted to 50 percent of market value.

Every year, the city assessor reviews the assessed value of all residential and commercial properties in the city. If a home owner wants to contest an assessment, or cannot afford to pay the full tax, he or she can appeal to the council-appointed Board of Review. The six-member board forms two panels that hear appeals once a year for at least four days, starting on the third Monday in March. Residents may address the board in person; nonresident property owners, seniors, or homebound people may mail their claims to the assessor's office. Last year the board reduced about 40 percent of the tax assessments it considered. It also has the power to increase the amount of an assessment under appeal, and does so occasionally.

Anyone who has recently purchased a home or paid off a mortgage should notify the assessor's office in writing. Failure to do this may cause the property tax bill to be sent to the wrong address; if taxes are paid late as a consequence, a penalty can be imposed.

The assessor's office can assist seniors and low-income families in applying for a Homestead Tax credit when they file their state income tax returns.

Businesses that are opening or closing should contact the city assessor about personal property taxes. Despite the name, the personal property tax is levied only on businesses.

City Attorney, third floor, City Hall. 994–2670. City Attorney Betty Schwartz provides legal advice to city council and city officials, prepares legal documents, represents the city and its officials in lawsuits, and prosecutes violations of city ordinances. If you have a question about the legality of something you want to do—or about something your neighbor is doing—as it pertains to the city code, call the city attorney. (To lodge a complaint against someone who you think is violating the city code, call the police.)

City Clerk, second floor, City Hall. 994–2725. City Clerk Winnie Northcross and her staff provide a variety of services to the public and to city council. The office issues licenses for bicycles ($2.50 onetime fee), dogs ($10 for up to two years), and peddlers ($35 per year); for local handicapped parking (short-term, within city limits only, no charge—state handicapped permits are available from Secretary of State offices); and for going-out-of-business sales ($110 for 30 days, renewable twice). Applicants must submit serial numbers for a bike license; state license plate numbers and a doctor's statement certifying disability for a handicapped parking permit; a rabies certificate for a dog license; and two passport-type photos for a peddler's license. Most other licenses and permits are issued by the city's Central Permit Desk (994–2674).

Domestic partnership certificates also fall under the city clerk's jurisdiction. Certificates allow couples who cannot or choose not to marry a way to publicly express their commitment, but they create no legal rights or benefits. To register under the domestic partnership ordinance, just pick up an application at this office, sign it in the presence of two witnesses, and get it notarized (the notary can be one witness). The charge is $20 for city residents and $25 for those outside the city.

This office also maintains records of city council acts (including members' voting records), which can be inspected by the public. Copies can be made for 25¢ a page. People who wish to speak at a city council meeting can reserve a time slot by calling the city clerk on the day of the meeting (see City Council, above). The city code and charter are available for inspection and copying at this office.

Ann Arbor residents can register to vote at the city clerk's office, at a Michigan Secretary of State office, or at any branch of the public library. If you are disabled or homebound, the city clerk will attempt to send a deputy registrar to your residence. (See Elections, above.)

A division of the city clerk's office, the Public Information Office (994–1766) publishes the city's newsletter, For the People, and produces occasional "Citybeat" programs on Community Access television. It also handles complaints and questions about compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act. If a city-owned building is not in compliance with the ADA, and someone complains, the problem will be addressed immediately. If a complaint is lodged against a non-city-owned building, it will be turned over to the Building Department which will attempt to act as a mediator to resolve the complaint. The city is not legally bound to force city residents to comply with the ADA. Despite its name, the public information office does not provide general information about city government; those inquiries should be directed to the information desk (994–2700).

Office of Cable Communications, second floor, Central Fire Station. 994–1833. Under administrator Harry (Hap) Haasch, this office, a division of the city clerk's office, regulates cable television locally and oversees Ann Arbor Community Access Television. It deals primarily with consumer issues and complaints. The Cable Communications Commission—the policy-making body for AACAT—meets the fourth Tuesday of every month in the fire station's second-floor conference room. When openings are available, applications for cable commission membership can be picked up at the mayor's office. The phone number for Community Access Television is 769–7422; for full information, see Media, p. 128.

Risk Management, lower level, City Center Bldg., 220 E. Huron. 994–6693. This office is headed by the city's risk manager, Dan Cullen. Anyone who wishes to file an insurance claim against the city (for example, if you believe your car has sustained damage from an encounter with one of Ann Arbor's infamous potholes) should call this office. It also handles all employee benefits and all workers compensation claims for city employees, and is responsible for the city's liability and property insurance coverage. A safety officer from this office conducts safety training for city employees.

Treasurer, first floor, City Hall. 994–2833. This division of the Finance Department is headed by Brenda L. Smith. The office is responsible for collecting city revenues, which include property taxes, parking fines, water and sewer bills, and all invoices generated by city departments. Citizens can pay their bills at the cashier's window in the lobby, at the drive-up window located on the north side of City Hall, or by using the drop box located at the south entrance (near the police information desk).

Property taxes are billed twice a year—in July and December. New this year, property owners were required to complete a Homestead Exemption Form with the assessor's office, before May 1, 1994. Property owners with approved homestead exemptions were taxed at a rate of $32.3136 per $1,000 assessed value. All non-homestead property owners were taxed at a rate of $35.3358 per $1,000 assessed value for the summer taxes only! The December rate, to be established in late November, was not available at our press time.

During the months of July and December, taxes may be paid at local Ann Arbor banks. Bills for summer property taxes not paid by the July 31 deadline increase by 1 percent if paid during August. The penalty climbs to 5 percent if the bill is paid during September or October. After October, unpaid summer taxes, plus penalties, are added to winter bills. Winter bills are due December 31; they go up 1 percent if paid in January and 2 percent if paid in February. The county assumes responsibility for collecting outstanding property taxes that are not paid by March 1.

Police and Fire

Police Department, first floor, City Hall. Emergency: call 911 anywhere in Washtenaw County. Ann Arbor residents will automatically be connected to the city's police and fire departments. The 911 phone number has multiple lines, so don't be reluctant to use it. It can be used in any situation, even nonemergency, which requires a car response. For other nonemergencies, call 994–2911. The complaint desk number is 994–2875; this is also the number to call to check on the status of towed vehicles. The department is currently being reorganized; if you have trouble reaching any of the programs or offices described below, call the city's information desk (994–2700) during the day or the police complaint desk after hours.

Led by Acting Police Chief Walter Lunsford, the Ann Arbor Police Department functions 24 hours a day, seven days a week. A community policing system, new in 1993, assigns a pair of detectives to each of four districts of the city. These detectives handle all incidents occurring in that district except domestic violence and youth-related calls. For information, or to contact your district's detectives, call 994–2880. Also, a uniformed officer is assigned to each of these districts as district coordinator; three of them are in satellite offices in their areas, and the fourth operates out of the police station in City Hall.

The youth and family services unit (994–2710) handles all incidents involving domestic violence or children. An officer from this unit can also address youth groups or talk to concerned parents. Other police numbers: special investigations unit (994–1839); embezzlement and fraud unit (994–2661).

In addition to law enforcement, the Police Department serves as a catch-all for services that the city's other departments do not provide. Lost and found is on the first floor of City Hall (994–2874). The department holds a police auction twice a year, or whenever the volume of found or confiscated goods becomes large. To find out how to take part in the Neighborhood Watch Crime Prevention program, call 994–8775. The Office of Disaster Preparedness (24-hour line, 761–2425) supplements police in the event of a disaster and notifies the public. For animal control, call 911 (emergency) or 994–2911.

Safety Town (994–2242, or 994–2111 when in session), which takes place at Abbot Elementary School, is offered every year in late June and early July to teach incoming kindergarten children about pedestrian, playground, and bicycle safety.

The crime prevention officer (994–2979) will survey your home and point out possible security weaknesses free of charge. The same advice is provided to businesses. The crime prevention office also runs the department's sexual assault awareness program (994–8779), which sends a speaker to schools, professional groups, and community groups.

Fire Department, 111 N. Fifth Ave. 994–2772 (for emergencies, call 911). Fire Chief: George Markus. The Ann Arbor Fire Department operates within Ann Arbor city limits. In cooperation with the public schools, fire prevention programs are conducted for children in grades three through six. The Fire Department owns a portable fire safety house that is used to educate adults and children on how to exit a smoky home, school, or workplace. The house is equipped with plenty of safe, nontoxic smoke. Talks on fire safety are also conducted in the house. Fire station tours are available by appointment year-round. Tours can be scheduled for 11 a.m. and after 4 p.m. daily and anytime on the weekend (call 994–4958). The department also routinely provides fire inspections of commercial properties and all new buildings, ensures that fire lanes are maintained during special events (such as the notoriously crowded Art Fair), and investigates all fires of a suspicious nature.

Cats stuck in trees are on their own. But, advises one fireman, they'll eventually come down of their own accord if whatever caused their flight is removed. "I've never found a cat skeleton in a tree," he says.

General City Services

Engineering Department, fourth floor, City Hall. 994–2744. Chief Engineer Sabah Yousif and his staff design and oversee new city subdivisions, road construction and resurfacing projects, and environmental projects, including the city's now-closed landfill. Residents of an area of the city that lacks an adequate sewer or a paved street can request improvements from this office or from the Utilities Department (994–2666). All work must be approved by city council. Do not call this office to report potholes (call 99–HOLES) or streets and sidewalks needing repair (call the Transportation Division, 994–2818).

Forestry Division, 415 W. Washington St. 994–2769. City Forester Bill Lawrence and his crew from the Forestry Division of the Department of Parks and Recreation plant trees on lawn extensions and care for them at no charge. Home owners who want a tree larger than those normally supplied can choose one and have it added to an extension, but they must pay for moving it. Trees are planted in the fall and the spring. Call by March for spring plantings, by August for fall plantings. The Forestry Division also inspects public and private trees for disease, cares for the public ones, and provides advice for the owners of private ones for a $25 fee. Advice on shrubbery is also available. Tree clinics (no charge; call for location) are held once a month in May, June, and July in city parks. Foresters examine leaves, bark, or twigs brought to the clinics and provide information and advice.

Department of Parks and Recreation, fifth floor, City Hall. 994–2780. Under Superintendent Ron Olson, this department runs the city parks, swimming pools, golf courses, and ice rinks as well as the skateboard ramp at Veterans Park, several community centers, and assorted other facilities. Brochures describing park facilities are published in early spring and early fall and mailed to all Ann Arbor households. For detailed descriptions of city parks and recreational facilities and programs, see Recreation, p. 141.

Reservations for park shelters may be made in this office. Applications must be made a week in advance and must be accompanied by a nonrefundable fee of $10 for picnic areas or $15 for park shelters. There is also a refundable $25 cleaning/damage deposit. The city does not allow alcohol in any city park without a permit; if you intend to drink, request permission when you reserve the park shelter or picnic area.

Solid Waste Department, City Center Bldg., 220 E. Huron. 994–2807. Directed by John Newman, this department coordinates the weekly and special collection of trash and the seasonal collection of yard waste and Christmas trees. It also provides commercial recycling services and oversees curbside recycling. Trash must be placed at the curb in 30- to 35-gallon maximum capacity cans or plastic bags that weigh 50 pounds or less each. Persons with a physical handicap can arrange to have garbage containers carried to the street at no charge. Yard waste is collected from April 1 through November 30. Use 30- to 35-gallon containers with a "compostable" sticker on them (available from this department) or 30-gallon paper bags. Brush and tree limbs up to six inches in diameter must be cut into three-to-four-foot lengths and tied into bundles not more than 18 inches in diameter or 50 pounds in weight. Plastic bags are not accepted for yard waste. During the fall, street leaf pickup is coordinated by the Transportation Division (see below). Large items, including furniture and appliances, are collected by appointment. Fees are $15 for most appliances and $30 for each four cubic yards of other debris. Call to arrange pickup. The Recovery Center, 4120 Platt Rd., 994–2723, accepts old appliances (fee: $15), bulk materials (fee: $25/cubic yard), and yard waste (no charge to residents). Municipally produced compost is sold at $1/bushel or $12/cubic yard. Limited amounts of wood mulch are available free.

Recycling collection and processing is contracted to Recycle Ann Arbor. General recycling guidelines are listed in the ad on p. 20. Telephone books are collected, mixed with newspapers, during the months of November and April. In July 1994, the city added office paper to home collections. Office and school-type paper can now be recycled in brown paper bags folded over and taped, and with the words "office paper" written on them. Office paper includes white and colored stationery and envelopes; letterhead; bond, copier, lined notebook, ditto, and computer paper; windowed envelopes; and plastic labels. Staples are OK, but thermal FAX paper, rice paper, and crayon marks are not. Business recycling collection is available: call 994–4176 for information. Twice a year, the Solid Waste Department sends a newsletter on recycling and solid waste collection to all city households.

Transportation Division, lower level, City Center Bldg., 220 E. Huron St. 994–2818. This division of the Public Service Department, managed by John Avendt, provides a variety of services. It oversees on-street parking and some surface lots (see Parking and Transportation, p. 29) and maintains the city airport grounds. It also coordinates leaf pickup, scheduled twice for each neighborhood in the fall; snow removal is done from most streets when necessary in the winter (sidewalk snow removal is the responsibility of the property owner). Leaves should be raked into the street for pickup during the fall only. Dates of leaf removal are listed in the Ann Arbor News and in For the People (the city's newsletter) and shown on local cable television. The rest of the year, yard waste is collected by the city's composting program (see Solid Waste Department, above).

For emergency street cleaning, such as for broken glass, call 994–1617 weekdays or 994–2911 (the Police Department) weekends.

Street and sidewalk maintenance. For pothole repair, call 99–HOLES. For fallen street signs or sidewalk repair, call 994–2818.

Streetlights and traffic signals. For inoperative streetlights or traffic signals, call 994–2818. Neighbors can petition to request additional streetlights and traffic signals. The city welcomes streetlight requests but fulfills only a limited number due to budget limitations. On-street parking modifications can also be requested by petition.

Utilities Department, fifth floor, City Hall. 994–2666. For after-hours emergencies, call 994–2840. This department, headed by Frank Porta, provides water, sewer, and storm water service to Ann Arbor and parts of the surrounding townships. It also offers emergency services (for water-main breaks, for instance) 24 hours a day. Residents of an area of the city that lacks an adequate sewer or a paved street can request improvements from this office or from the Engineering Department (994–2744). For all Ann Arbor buildings, water costs $1.47 per 100 cubic feet (about 750 gallons). Sanitary sewer service costs $1.92 per 100 cubic feet. Storm water service costs $10.05 per quarter per dwelling unit for single family and duplex residences. The average three-month bill (including water and storm and sanitary sewers) for one residence is about $112, less a 10 percent discount if paid by the due date.

Planning and Building

Building Department, fourth floor, City Hall. 994–2674. Department head Jack Donaldson and his staff enforce city building codes, inspect rental housing, and enforce city ordinances regarding yard care (or neglect).

Building permits are required for any new construction that affects the structure of a building, outdoor decks or fences, or any other improvement estimated to cost more than $600. Permits can be obtained by submitting an application form (available at this office) and two drawings of the proposed work to the Building Department. Applications are reviewed for compliance with code and safety requirements. Fees are based on the cost of the work.

Rental properties are routinely inspected once every two-and-a-half years. (Tenants can request inspections for specific problems.) Buildings will not receive certification unless requirements are met or waived. Uncertified buildings cannot be rented. Code requirements are sometimes waived after an appeal to one of four boards: housing, zoning, sign, or building. Property owners can file a substantiated claim for waiver with the Building Department. The board will accept or reject the request after discussing it at a monthly public meeting.

The Central Permit Desk issues permits including noise permits for commercial areas (noise levels in residential areas must be kept below 61 decibels between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m.), solicitation permits, and permits for street closings (such as for a block party). In addition, this desk conducts exams and issues licenses for workers in various skilled occupations, including appliance installer and journeyman electrician.

Historic District Commission, 312 S. Division St. 996–3008. This commission administers 14 historic districts, including the Old West Side, the Old Fourth Ward, Washtenaw/Hill, Main Street, State Street, and a Landmark Historic District. It has jurisdiction over buildings that have been designated as historic sites and can prevent or control changes to the exteriors of those buildings. Commission personnel also have a vast knowledge of the histories of city buildings and obligingly handle inquiries about them. The commission meets in city council chambers (second floor of City Hall) at 7:30 p.m. on the second Thursday of every month. The public is welcome, and the meetings are telecast live and replayed on cable Channel 10.

Planning Department, third floor, City Hall. 994–2800. The Planning Department, headed by Karen Popek Hart, acts as the administrative staff for the Planning Commission, a nine-member citizen body appointed by the mayor and city council. The commission makes recommendations to council on proposed site plans, zoning changes, and modifications of the city's master plan. All commission actions include at least one public hearing.

Council usually follows Planning Commission recommendations, but sometimes overrules it on controversial issues. The commission has final say on minor modifications for site plans and on special-exception uses (such as sorority houses in single-family areas) as defined by city zoning ordinances. The department makes demographic information available to the public and sells the city's basic planning documents for a small fee ($2–$10). In addition, planning staff is sometimes available to make presentations to local groups.

Individuals concerned about a development proposal are encouraged to call, stop by, or write to the Planning Department. You can also state your concerns or objections when the Planning Commission holds its public hearing on the issue. Strong debate is common at these hearings. Public hearings and action meetings are held the first and third Tuesdays of every month at 7 p.m. in council chambers (second floor). These meetings are telecast on cable Channel 10, and agendas are published in the Ann Arbor News and telecast over Channel 10 beginning the Thursday before the meeting. A working session is held the second Tuesday of every month at 7 p.m. in City Hall's fourth-floor conference room.

Human Services

Community Development Department, lower level, City Center Bldg., 220 E. Huron St. 994–2912. Under director Eileen Ryan, this office provides funds for a number of community development and service projects. Low-income home owners and landlords who rent to low-income families can apply for low-cost loans for home improvements at this office. Community development also handles city funding of public services, including legal aid, emergency food programs, crisis intervention, dental services, child care scholarships, and services for seniors, the homeless, and the mentally ill. Contact the office for a list of currently funded programs. About half of the money for these programs comes from the city's general fund; the other half comes from federal block grants.

Housing Commission, 727 Miller Ave. (Miller Manor). 994–2828. Commission-owned housing is available to seniors, people with disabilities, and low-income families. Expect a wait of a year for senior housing and disabled/handicapped housing, and a year or longer wait for low-income family housing. The commission accepts applications at times announced in the classified section of the Ann Arbor News. Rent is set at 30 percent of a tenant's income. Miller Manor, at 727 Miller Rd., has 105 apartments for seniors and persons with disabilities; and Baker Commons, at 106 Packard St., has about 64. Housing for families and people with disabilities is spread across the city, often in duplexes and townhouses with room for two to four families. The commission runs about 340 units in all. This office also handles the Section 8 federal subsidy program, under which tenants pay 30 percent of their income for rent of privately owned apartments. Again, check the News classifieds for application dates.

The city's new voting system speeds election results.

Human Resources Department, Suite 340, City Center Bldg., 220 E. Huron St. 994–2803. This dual-purpose department is directed by Thomas White. The Personnel Division takes applications for all city jobs. New city job openings are posted every Tuesday afternoon. (Cable Channel 10 also displays job announcements on the message generator during off-air time.) Advice on equal opportunity employment for adults and youths is also available. The Human Rights Division handles complaints about discrimination in employment, housing, and public accommodation and other violations of the city human rights ordinance. A separate seven-member Human Rights Commission, appointed by the mayor and city council, monitors problems with discrimination in Ann Arbor and makes recommendations to council and other bodies (such as the school board or the U-M) on ways to eliminate it.

The Ann Arbor City Code

Cars, bikes, skateboards, and pedestrians. Except where it is specifically prohibited, turning right on a red light is legal after stopping and yielding to pedestrians and oncoming vehicles. It is legal to turn left on a red light onto a one-way street under the same circumstances.

It is illegal to drive past stopped school buses that are displaying two alternating flashing red lights. It is legal for pedestrians to cross the street on a red light or a "don't walk" signal as long as there is no danger or obstruction of traffic. It is illegal to get into or out of a vehicle that is moving. It is illegal to drive "in such a manner as to splash snow, rain, water, mud, dirt, or debris" onto pedestrians.

Roller skates, sleds, coasting wagons, toy vehicles, or "similar devices" are not allowed on streets, except to cross. Bikes on the roads more than half an hour after sunset or before sunrise must have headlights and rear reflectors, and "every bicycle shall be equipped with at least one effective brake." City council also has banned skateboarding in city parking structures, in Liberty Plaza, and on certain downtown sidewalks. The U-M Diag is off-limits to skateboarders as well.

Pets. Dog owners must have their dogs under "reasonable control" (that is, leashed or confined) at all times. They are also required to clean up after their dogs on both public and private property.

Owners of all pets must provide proper food, drink, and shelter from the weather for their animals, as well as the medical attention necessary to prevent the animals from suffering. Animals may not be left confined without adequate ventilation. This includes being left inside a car with the windows up.

Domestic violence. Ann Arbor's domestic violence law requires police to arrest people suspected of spouse abuse if there is reasonable cause to believe the abuse took place, without requiring that the other spouse press charges and without waiting for a complaint. Both of the people involved are offered counseling.

Landscaping. Home owners are prohibited from growing vegetation (such as hedges) higher than 36 inches if that vegetation is within 25 feet of an intersection. Trees within that distance must be trimmed to provide clear vision of the intersection. No weeds, grass, or "other vegetation" higher than 16 inches is allowed to cover a lawn, or the city will mow your lawn for you—and give you the bill. "Fences charged or connected with an electrical current" are prohibited.

Boom boxes. In city parks, it is illegal to "use any device transmitting electronically amplified sound, including, but not limited to, radios [and] tape recorders."

Liquor. The city code states that "[no] person shall consume liquor on the public streets" or in any business not licensed for on-premises liquor consumption. Certain events with outdoor liquor sales are exempt. Alcohol is not allowed in any city park unless a permit is obtained in advance.

Begging. "No person shall beg in any public or private place." Tickets are issued to those caught breaking this law, but patrollers suspect that offenders merely stop when police are in the area.

Marijuana. Under the provisions of a charter amendment passed by voters in April 1990, possession of small amounts of marijuana (one ounce is a rule-of-thumb limit in general use by the city government and police) is a civil infraction carrying a penalty of $25 for the first offense, $50 for the second offense, and not less than $100 for the third offense. State law makes possession or sale of any amount of the drug a criminal offense. The city of Ann Arbor can choose to follow either its own law or the state law, according to its judgment in any individual case, so the above fines don't always apply. On U-M property, the university's police force follows state law.

Food vendors. Mobile food vendors, such as hot dog sellers, must change locations every five minutes or risk being ticketed.

Landlords and tenants. The city produces a booklet entitled Rights and Duties of Tenants. City law requires that landlords distribute it to their tenants; failure to do so is punishable by fines of up to $500. The booklet outlines city tenancy laws, reflecting in its composition the succession of Democratic and Republican administrations that have governed Ann Arbor in recent years: one section was written by "tenant advocates," and a rebuttal from "landlord advocates" was added later.

Court System

General information about the judicial system is available toll-free anywhere in Michigan through Tele-Court, (800) 968–5669, an information line funded by the State Judicial Institute and administered by the State Court Administrative Office. Via Touch-Tone phone, citizens can learn about the state's various courts, jury duty, victims' rights, wills, and many other issues.

U.S. Courts, 200 E. Liberty St., in the Federal Building. 741–2380 (clerk of court). The U.S. District Court hears all civil and criminal cases involving federal law, and civil cases between citizens of different states in which the suit is more than $50,000. (Suits for less are handled in the state court system.) Most of the appointed federal district judges for southeastern Michigan serve in Detroit. Judge George La Plata is the designated judge for Ann Arbor. Also serving the court is Steven D. Pepe, magistrate judge. The Federal Building also houses the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, which hears appeals of federal district court decisions. Judge Ralph B. Guy presides. Judge Charles W. Joiner, senior district court judge, also sits by designation on the court of appeals.

Circuit Court, 101 E. Huron St. 994–2550. The five-judge 22nd Circuit Court is the general jurisdiction trial court for Washtenaw County. Presiding judges are Melinda Morris, chief judge (up for reelection in November 1994); Donald E. Shelton, chief pro tem (running for the Michigan Supreme Court in the November 1994 election); William F. Ager Jr. (retiring in November 1994); Patrick J. Conlin; and Kurtis T. Wilder. Circuit court judges are elected for six-year terms.

The circuit court has a broad range of authority in criminal, civil, and domestic relations cases. It has jurisdiction over all criminal felonies in the county, all civil cases in which the amount in dispute exceeds $10,000, domestic relations cases, including divorces, and equity jurisdiction matters. The court also hears appeals of cases from state district court. The 22nd Circuit Court is one of four pilot sites currently authorized by the Michigan Supreme Court to design and implement a unified court system that clears away jurisdictional boundaries between district, probate, and circuit courts.

Friend of the Court. General bookkeeping: 994–2466. Enforcement: 994–8211. Account information: 994–9261 (automated Touch-Tone line; have your case number ready). The Friend of the Court assists the circuit court in domestic relations cases; investigates and makes recommendations in contested child custody, visitation, and support cases; enforces support and visitation provisions ordered by the court; and mediates in child custody and visitation disputes. Child support payments may be made at the Friend of the Court office (8:30 a.m.–12:30 p.m. and 1:30–4:45 p.m.) and at any Society Bank branch office (generally 9 a.m.–4 p.m.; $2 service charge for paying at bank).

Circuit Court Probation. 994–2530. A unit of the Michigan Department of Corrections, this office provides support services to the circuit court judges, including pre-sentencing investigations, supervision of people assigned to do community service, probation, delay of sentence, and electronic monitoring.

Probate Court. Estate and Mental Health Division, 101 E. Huron St. 994–2474. Juvenile Court Division, 2270 Platt Rd. 971–2240. The probate courts operate on the county level and, in general, hear cases concerning those who cannot care for themselves—the mentally ill, orphaned and dependent children, juvenile delinquents, and the estates of those who have died. The Estate and Mental Health Division, John Kirkendall presiding, settles the estates of those who have died, determines inheritance tax, appoints guardians for minors and legally incapacitated persons, and decides whether people are mentally ill and require hospitalization. This division also handles marriage ceremonies and change of name hearings and is a depository for wills. Judge Nancy Francis holds court in the Juvenile Court Division (971–2240), which hears cases concerning children under the age of 17. The court investigates cases to determine the measures necessary to protect and treat children in their own homes, and in group homes, foster homes, or restraint facilities. It also authorizes adoptions (971–2639) and hears juvenile traffic cases. Juvenile court also provides parenting classes, youth sex offender treatment, sports and summer camps, and family programs. The operation of the Juvenile Detention Home and detention alternatives is under the authority of the county Board of Commissioners (below).

District Courts, first floor, County Courthouse, 101 E. Huron. 994–2740. District Court No. 15, handling cases within the city of Ann Arbor, includes the Civil Division (994–2749); the Criminal Division (994–2747), which also covers drunk driving cases; the Probation Department (994–2751); and Traffic Violations (994–2745). Judges are elected to six-year terms. Judges Elizabeth O. Pollard, Ann Mattson, and Timothy P. Connors preside. (Mattson and Connors are up for reelection in November 1994.)

Small-Claims Court (994–2749) is a section of the civil division of the district court. Suits are restricted to claims under $1,750, with a limit of $400 for car accident claims. Suits can be handled without a lawyer by filling out a claim form (25¢ each), reading the provided pamphlet, paying a fee ($17 for claims under $600 and $32 for larger claims, plus a certified mail fee of $5 to serve an individual, $2.50 to serve a business), and appearing on the scheduled court date. A wait of about one month for a court date is common. Landlord-tenant disputes over security deposits and other money matters can sometimes be tried without lawyers, depending on the details of the case. There is a $32 to $84 fee, and disputes filed by Wednesday are generally heard the following Tuesday.

District court cases outside the Ann Arbor city limits are heard elsewhere. Pittsfield and Ann Arbor townships fall under the jurisdiction of District Court No. 14-A-1 (4133 Washtenaw Ave., 971–6050, Judge Betty Widgeon, up for reelection in November 1994) and Scio Township under that of District Court No. 14-A-3 (122 S. Main St., Chelsea, 475–8606, Judge Kenneth Bronson, up for reelection in November 1994).

Washtenaw County Government

The general information line for Washtenaw County is 994–2400. TDD relay service for the hearing impaired: 994–1733. The county's mailing address is P.O. Box 8645, AA 48107. County offices are scattered throughout Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. Downtown Ann Arbor locations include the County Courthouse at 101 E. Huron St., the County Administration Building at 220 N. Main St., and the Courthouse Annex at 110 N. Fourth Ave. The sheriff's department is in the Service Center at 2201 Hogback Rd., and all Human Services groups are located in Ypsilanti, at 555 Towner Blvd.

This is a guide to the structure of county government. Specific county services are also listed in Community Services (p. 111), Health Care (p. 93), and Recreation (p. 141).

Washtenaw County, one of the first counties in Michigan, was established in 1822 and fully organized by 1827. An agent of the state government, the county government carries out responsibilities of the state. But it also has independent executive and, in a few cases, legislative powers.

The county has overlapping jurisdiction with the governments of the cities and townships within it. For instance, Ann Arbor has its own city charter and its own police force. Although the county sheriff's department provides law enforcement for the entire county, it usually is active only in areas that do not have their own police forces. The county does, however, prosecute all crimes, such as murder or arson, that fall under state law. County government also carries out state law by issuing marriage licenses, recording births and deaths, and conducting the circuit courts, which operate under state laws. The county funds departments that provide services to all citizens, such as the Human Services Group and the Department of Social Services.

Board of Commissioners, 220 N. Main St. Commission information: 996–3055. Meeting changes: 994–1914. Agenda information tape: 994–2401. The chief policy-making body of county government, the board has fifteen members, elected to two-year terms. Their duties include the adoption of countywide ordinances; oversight of county operations and facilities; adoption of the annual budget for county government, including all county departments; apportionment of property taxes for the operation of county government; and establishment of and appointments to county boards, committees, and commissions. Commission working sessions are held the first and third Thursdays of the month at 6 p.m.; board meetings are first and third Wednesdays at 7:15 p.m., preceded by a ways and means committee meeting at 7 p.m. In summer, all meetings are held the first week of the month only.

County Administrator, 220 N. Main St. 994–6451. Appointed by the Board of Commissioners, administrator Robert Guenzel is responsible for the overall management of county departments, agencies, and offices. This includes the financial duties formerly handled by the controller. The county administrator also assists the board with policy making and acts as a liaison with other units of government.

County Clerk/Register of Deeds, 101 E. Huron St. 994–1638. This combined office is headed by an elected official, currently Peggy Haines. She and her staff maintain official county records (births, deaths, marriages, divorces, military discharges, assumed names, concealed weapons permits); provide administrative services in the issuance of passports; provide administrative assistance to the county and serve as clerk of circuit court; monitor the conduct of elections; and maintain all county property records.

Marriage licenses are $20 ($30 for out-of-state residents). A health certificate (available from local physicians and clinics), a valid state identification, a certified birth certificate, and a divorce certificate (if one of the partners has been divorced within the last year) are required.

County Law Library, 101 E. Huron St., basement. This small library houses a collection of state and federal cases and statutes. It is open to judges, lawyers, and persons doing business with the courts. Patrons should know their way around a law library because there is no librarian. Open during courthouse hours (generally 9 a.m.–5 p.m.).

County Treasurer, 101 E. Huron St. 994–2520. The elected custodian of county funds, treasurer Nancy L. Davis receives county revenues (taxes and fees), invests funds, collects delinquent property taxes, collects inheritance taxes, keeps records of tax histories, and sells tax liens against real estate on which taxes have gone unpaid for at least three years.

Drain Commissioner, 110 N. Fourth Ave., Suite 202. 994–2525. The elected drain commissioner, Janis Bobrin, handles problems such as pollution and storm water management and develops water and land use strategies for flood and erosion control. The drain commissioner has jurisdiction over many urban and most outlying storm drains and waterways within the county and is responsible for preventing or abating storm drain pollution, providing information on water quality to the public, and responding to pollution emergencies.

Emergency Management, 2201 Hogback Rd. Business: 971–1152. Emergency: 911. This office, managed by Marc Breckenridge, coordinates the dissemination of vital information during emergencies, including severe weather, fires, floods, and spills of hazardous materials, and responds to large-scale disasters in the county. When necessary, the office works cooperatively with the city's Disaster Preparedness Office (761–2425) to provide mutual aid and resources. Emergency Management also serves as an advisory source to the Emergency Broadcast System, the county apex of which is WAAM Radio, 1600 AM. County residents should tune to WAAM for information during an emergency.

Environmental Coordination Office, 110 N. Fourth Ave. 994–6361. This office, directed by Rebecca Head, coordinates county programs and offices that deal with environmental issues, including hazardous materials and hazardous waste reduction. It handles emergency incidents involving hazardous materials, provides water resource protection, and educates the public.

Environmental Services, County Service Center, 4101 Washtenaw Ave. Public Health: 971–4542. Building Inspection: 971–1441. This office, managed by Dick Fleece until a director is appointed, provides public health and safety services. Environmental Health inspects public buildings and facilities outside the city of Ann Arbor for water supply and sewer disposal, does radon and other indoor air testing, and runs the Home Toxics Reduction Program for hazardous household waste (971–7356). Building Inspection performs electrical, mechanical, and plumbing inspections and provides soil erosion control.

Human Resources, 220 N. Main St. Verna McDaniels and her staff supply postings and applications for county jobs in the ground-floor lobby of this building. New postings go up every Monday. The job line (994–2409) is a recorded list of available jobs.

Planning Department, 110 N. Fourth Ave., 4th floor. 994–2435. Planning Director Mark McFadden and his staff provide services to both the county administrator and the Washtenaw County Metropolitan Planning Commission. The department offers professional planning advice to the administrator and to county departments and agencies, and serves as the staff for the planning commissioners (who are appointed by the board of commissioners for three-year terms). With the planning commissioners, the department develops master plans for county land use and undertakes surveys of the economic, social, environmental, and physical development of the county. The office is also an official U.S. Census repository and provides census information (at a small fee) to citizens, organizations, businesses, and developers.

Prosecuting Attorney, 101 E. Huron St. 994–2380. Prosecuting attorney Brian L. Mackie and his assistants are responsible for the prosecution of criminal cases in the county that fall under state law. The prosecutor, an elected official, is the chief law enforcement officer for the county. The prosecutor must authorize, in writing, any criminal prosecution. The prosecutor also represents all children in divorce cases, enforces child support, and handles juvenile court administrative matters. Call 994–2385 for questions about child support. Staff of the Victim Witness Assistance Program (936–3026) inform victims of their rights and about the status of their cases.

Public Defender, 101 E. Huron. 994–2244. Reporting to the board of commissioners, Public Defender Lloyd Powell and his staff provide legal counsel to indigent and partially indigent people facing charges in criminal or civil cases, including felonies, juvenile cases, and civil Friend of the Court child support and contempt proceedings. The public defender is appointed by the courts and does not take outside cases.

Public Works, 110 N. Fourth Ave. 994–2398. The Department of Public Works, supervised by Dan Myers, manages county programs involving solid waste disposal. It also assists local units of government in meeting future water and waste water treatment needs throughout the county, oversees the county's recycling program, and provides information on recycling and composting.

Road Commission, 555 N. Zeeb Rd., P.O. Box 1528, AA 48106. 761–1500. Although the streets in many new suburban developments are privately owned, most paved and dirt roads in outlying areas of the county are still maintained by road commission personnel, supervised by Bob Poland.

Sheriff, 2201 Hogback Rd. 971–8400. For all emergencies, call 911. Jail information: 971–8426. Sheriff Ron Schebil, an elected official, enforces all criminal, civil, and traffic laws of the county and conducts investigations of unusual, violent, or accidental deaths. The sheriff executes the orders of the courts, arrests and detains accused offenders, manages the county jail facilities, and coordinates various law enforcement activities of the county and the state. The sheriff provides support and coordination to local police departments, which may duplicate some of the sheriff's duties. In outlying areas of the county, the Sheriff's Department responds to calls for assistance and provides uniformed road patrols.

Township Governments

The townships surrounding Ann Arbor have all grown explosively in recent years. At times they have squabbled with the city over the linked issues of development, annexation, and utilities. The various townships maintain different levels of services, leaving Washtenaw County to provide the ones they don't offer. Significant portions of three neighboring townships are included in the Ann Arbor public school district:

Ann Arbor Township, offices at 3792 Pontiac Tr. 663–3418. Police and fire: call 911. The township employs a full-time police officer, contracted through the county sheriff's department. To reach this officer on nonemergency matters, call the township offices at 663–3418. Other services: Assessor, 663–3418; Building Inspector, 663–1855; Rubbish/Recyclables Collection, 663–3418; Treasurer, 663–1699; and Utilities, 663–1855.

Pittsfield Township, offices at 701 Ellsworth Rd. 996–3000. Police and fire: call 911. The nonemergency police and fire number is 996–3063 (public safety). Other services: Assessor, 996–3159; Building Dept., 996–3000; Clerk, 996–3191; Planning Commission, 996–3000; Recreation Dept. (the township maintains several parks), 996–3056; Treasurer, 996–3190; Utilities, 996–3007 (for water and sewer emergencies after hours, call 996–3195); and Zoning, 996–3000.

Scio Township, offices at 827 N. Zeeb Rd. 665–2123. Police and fire: call 911. The nonemergency number for the Fire Department is 665–6001. The county sheriff's office number is 971–8400; the Scio sheriff's substation is 994–8109. The Township Hall houses Assessor's, Clerk's, and Treasurer's offices; the Development Authority and Planning Commission; and Utilities and Zoning offices. All can be reached at 665–2123. Township residents may deposit recyclables at the 24-hour drop-off station behind the township offices. ■

Parking and Transportation

WM. JORDAN

Amtrak has three eastbound and three westbound trains passing through Ann Arbor every day.

Ann Arbor leases all but one of its parking structures and its three largest parking lots (Ashley behind Kline's, the Public Library lot, and Huron-Ashley) to the Downtown Development Authority. The DDA, in turn, has a three-year management and rehabilitation contract with a private company, National Garage. National Garage has switched all of the lots and most of the structures it manages to attended operation. This not only allows parkers to avoid expired meters, and the tickets that go with them, but it also allows downtown merchants to validate their customers' parking coupons. Approximately 100 stores, restaurants, and theaters currently do this. The attended lots and structures charge from 8 a.m. until 11 p.m.

Parking close to the U-M's central campus is still very tight. Visitors to the U-M and shoppers on South University need extra time and patience to find a convenient space. Even the Fletcher Street parking structure, where it used to be easy to find a spot, is completely utilized, forcing the designation of a number of its spaces for U-M dental school patients only.

Public transportation in Ann Arbor is funded through a dedicated millage for the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority (AATA). In addition to an extensive line bus system, the millage funds a wide variety of late-night, senior, and handicapped transportation alternatives, which are detailed under special services, p. 34. Parking and transportation information is divided into the following categories:

City Parking

Parking Lots and Structures

See map on p. 31.

The Ann Arbor Parking Operations Office, 994–2707, continues to supervise all smaller metered lots, on-street parking, and one city-owned structure (at Washington and First, it is exclusively for holders of monthly parking permits). The three major surface lots and the other seven parking structures are managed by National Garage (761–7235).

City lots and structures are designated by white signs with a large green P inside a green circle. There are 4,796 off-street spaces in city-owned lots and structures. About 2,500 of these are generally occupied all day by monthly parking permit holders (see below).

City Council continues to set parking rates, and no increases have been scheduled. Attended and metered structures cost 40¢ an hour except for the Maynard Street and the Fourth-Washington Street structures, which are 30¢ for the first hour, 40¢ for the second, and 50¢ for each hour over that. Lot parking costs 50¢ an hour. Hours of operation are posted at each facility.

City Parking Meters

The city also maintains 1,513 metered curbside spaces in the downtown-campus area that cost 50¢ an hour. Most on-street meters need to be fed between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Pay attention to the maximum time allowed by the meter—that is the maximum time you are allowed to park there; returning to feed the meter for more time is illegal.

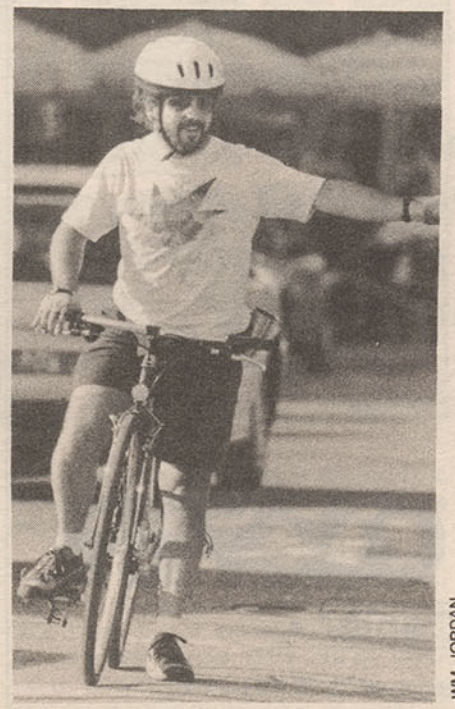
For a small fee and a deposit, metered parking spaces can be reserved for private occasions such as weddings. Call 994–2707. Businesses can also temporarily reserve spaces for construction access or other needs.

Parking Violations

The fine for an expired meter is $3 if paid within one hour, $5 if paid within two weeks. After that, the cost jumps to $10, and it can go as high as $20 if the ticket is ignored. (Tickets issued at U-M meters cost less; see below.) Other penalties, including additional fines and auto impoundment, are invoked if a driver has four or more unpaid tickets. Fines for most other parking violations are $10 if paid within two weeks. For parking in a handicapped parking zone, the fine is $75.

The Parking Violations Bureau, on the first floor of City Hall, is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. Pay parking tickets by mail or drop them off at the drive-through window on the north side of City Hall. To pay expired-meter fines within the one-hour time limit during nonbusiness hours, go to the first floor of City Hall (open 24 hours), where there is a time stamp and a drop box.

Tickets can be appealed to the Parking Violations Referee, in person or by mail, by claiming unusual circumstances and providing an explanation. The referee will investigate the claim and issue a ruling. About 30 percent of all the appealed tickets are waived or reduced by the referee. Don't expect to have an expired-meter fine dismissed because a meeting or class let out late! Determined challengers can appeal decisions to District Court.



WM. JORDAN

Sixty percent of city residents report that they own bicycles, and half of those say that they ride every week.

Parking Quirks

Ann Arbor enforces its parking laws aggressively, so it pays to be aware of a few quirks of the local system. Backing cars into the spaces in lots or structures is not allowed. It is illegal to park at a meter longer than the number of hours the meter is set to measure. In the central business district, parking is not allowed between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m., to allow for street cleaning. Straddling two street parking spaces or parking on the dividing line in a parking lot can earn a ticket. You may also be ticketed if you park more than 12 inches from the curb. Cars that appear to be abandoned may be tagged with a towing sticker. If they aren't moved within 48 hours, they may be towed and impounded.

Handicapped Parking

Handicapped parking spaces in public and private lots are set aside for use only by vehicles with handicapped permits or license plates. These spaces are usually marked by the symbol of a person in a wheelchair. Vehicles with handicapped permits or plates can also park in curbside loading zones, and at street meters without paying, and are not subject to posted time limits.

The Michigan Secretary of State (offices are at 2121 W. Stadium Blvd. and 2730 Carpenter Rd.) issues handicapped permits and license plates for the permanently disabled. An application must be completed by the handicapped individual's physician. Applications are available at either Secretary of State's office.

The city issues a temporary handicapped sticker of its own. It's available at the city clerk's office on the second floor of City Hall and requires a physician's statement certifying disability. The sticker is valid only within the city limits and is not recognized by the U-M, even in its hospital lots. City personnel advise acquiring the state permit instead.

Parking Permits

There are 2,629 parking permits available that allow all-day parking in specific lots and structures in the city system, although they do not guarantee the availability of parking spaces. National Garage now manages the parking permits for all available city spaces with the exception of the lot at First and William (see below). Permits for National Garage-managed spaces cost $60 a month ($65 for nonresidents). All permit parkers also need a key-card, for which a refundable $15 deposit is charged. Permits are issued on a first-come, first-served basis, and availability of spaces changes daily. National Garage advises individuals to call for space availability before applying. Applications and initial payment for these spaces must be made at the National Garage office (761–7235) on the first floor of the Ann-Ashley parking structure, 220 North Ashley, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. or by appointment.

The cost of a permit in the city-managed lot at First and William is only $40 a month ($45 for nonresidents). Call the city's Parking Operations Office (994–2707) for permit availability, which is limited. Permits for this lot must be purchased at Parking Operations Headquarters, 415 West Washington (second floor), during the first and last weeks of the month (Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–3:45 p.m.), or on Fridays (11 a.m.–2:45 p.m.) throughout the month.

University of Michigan Parking

U-M Parking Services, 508 Thompson St. 764–8291. University parking facilities are identified by blue and white signs that list restrictions and hours of operation. The U-M has two types of parking lots—lots with metered spaces open to the public (marked Visitor) and lots for staff permit parking only. The U-M has 1,650 metered visitor spaces spread out between the Central, Medical, Athletic, and North campuses (with the majority on North Campus). There are also 2,000 cashier-controlled visitor spaces in the Taubman (Medical Campus) and Fletcher (Central Campus) parking structures. The cost of parking at a U-M meter is 50¢ an hour (the same as the city rate). Hourly fees at the Taubman Structure total $4.50 per day; hourly fees at Fletcher total $5.75 per day. University police officers usually patrol its parking system; the tickets they issue are payable to the City of Ann Arbor, but the city returns the revenue to the U-M. Tickets issued at U-M meters are $2 if paid within an hour, $3 if paid within two weeks. After that the cost jumps to $8 and can go as high as $18 if the ticket is ignored.

The U-M issues parking permits of several kinds. Eligibility for all of these permits is based upon whether an employee is full-time or part-time. There are 8,532 staff-paid parking permits, which allow use of all U-M parking structures and U-M lots. As of September 1, 1994, these staff-paid permits cost $362 per year for eligible faculty and staff (those who work at least half-time and receive university benefits), and $442 per year for non-eligible faculty and staff (those who don't receive benefits).

Reduced-rate parking permits, which cost $109 per year for qualifying employees, allow parking in areas of lots designated "reduced rate" on the North and Athletic campuses. Free transportation by U-M buses is provided from these lots to Central Campus. A limited number of these permits is reserved for students. U-M student parking permits, which cost $189 per year, go on sale Thursday, September 8, 1994, from 6 to 9 p.m., at the Parking Services office, 508 Thompson Street. Permits are issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Students must furnish proof of enrollment.

Other U-M commuter lot parking permits are free and can be obtained at any time from the U-M Parking Services office. These permits allow parking in areas of lots designated for commuters on both North and Central campuses, and at the U-M satellite lot near Briarwood Mall. Commuters from this lot (and from the AATA Park-and-Ride lots at Pioneer High School and at the Maple Village shopping center as well) can show their U-M student or staff ID to AATA bus drivers and receive free transportation to and from the Central Campus.

Visitors to the U-M can purchase daily parking passes at the Thayer Street parking structure for $5.75. The Fletcher Street parking structure has attended spaces available to visitors (they are not time-restricted), which cost $5.75 a day. At the U-M Medical Center Taubman structure, visitors can park for $4.50 a day. No reservations are accepted for any of these facilities. On Central Campus, a good place to search for short-term parking is at the metered visitor lot adjacent to the Thompson Street parking structure.

Transportation

Airports and Airport Transportation

Ann Arbor Airport, State and Ellsworth roads. 994–2841. Ann Arbor Airport is the ninth-busiest airport in Michigan, with over 100,000 takeoffs and landings annually. Operating 24 hours, the airport handles business, corporate, and private flights and provides air ambulance service, flight instruction, fixed-wing air charter service, and, new this year, helicopter charter service. Repairs, service, fuel, and hangar rentals are available. A 24-hour courtesy phone in the terminal building lobby connects directly to area hotels, cab services, and aviation services. The airport is located south of the city, near the Briarwood business district. Access to downtown Ann Arbor is available by bus, taxi, limousine, or prearranged car rental.

Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport (DTW). (313) 942–3550. "Metro" is a major airport (over 23 million passengers in 1993) offering regional, national, and international flights. It's a hub for Northwest Airlines and is serviced by 13 other regularly scheduled domestic and international airlines and a number of charters and air taxis. For specific flight information, call the individual airlines or a travel agent.

Metro is located off I-94 at the Merriman Road exit, approximately 25 miles east of Ann Arbor. The Merriman Road–Metro Airport exit lets out onto Rogell Drive, which circles Metro's facilities. The International Terminal is the first one off to the right (turn right at the traffic light). Just past that turnoff, Rogell Drive splits into upper and lower levels. The upper roadway goes to departure/drop-off areas and the lower goes to arrival/pickup areas. The first building on both levels is the modern, concrete Davey Terminal (north terminal), occupied by Northwest and KLM. Just beyond that is the Marriott Hotel, and at the south end of the Rogell loop is the old turquoise L. C. Smith Terminal (south terminal), which houses all other domestic airlines servicing Metro.

Metro Airport provides a 24-hour, toll-free Parking Hotline with up-to-the-minute traffic and parking conditions: (800) 642–1978. It is advisable to call, especially during busy holiday seasons. Over 250,000 cars park at Metro each month.

To save money and hassle, be sure you are driving into the type of parking lot appropriate for your trip. Because it charges hourly rates and is located closest to the terminal buildings, short-term parking is convenient for brief visits, such as dropping off or picking up passengers; it is not recommended for long-term or overnight parking. The most economical flat-rate parking at Metro can be found in the Green and Yellow long-term lots on East Service Drive, to the far left off Rogell Drive, at $6 per day. All parking lots at Metro provide free shuttle service to the terminal buildings.

A popular option is the parking deck because it is covered and offers hourly rates up to six hours and a flat rate of $9 per day. The deck is currently under construction. To reach the Davey Terminal from the deck, take elevators or escalators to the 4th level. A glass-enclosed, temperature-controlled pedestrian bridge, equipped with a moving walkway, will glide you to the terminal. To reach the Smith Terminal from the deck during construction, find the express shuttle on level one.

Valet parking for a $12 daily flat rate is available off inbound Rogell Drive just past the traffic light at the entrance to the Yellow lot. Ten percent discounts are available for corporations that register with the valet service in advance: (313) 942–4865. Handicapped parking at Metro is available with wheelchair-equipped vans that meet you at your car upon arrival and at the terminal upon return. Call to arrange service: (313) 941–6855.

There are five private parking lots with over 10,000 parking spaces on Middlebelt and Wickham roads with 24-hour shuttle service to Metro terminals. Cost is between $4.50 and $5.20 per day. Contact Airport Parking, (313) 729–3999; Park-N-Go, (313) 729–3999; U.S.

Parking in Central Ann Arbor

Park, (313) 946–9360; Airlines Parking, (313) 728–6066; or Express Parking, (313) 326–4530. A free parking lot brochure is available from Metro's Community Relations office: (313) 942–3558.

Transportation to Metro from Ann Arbor is provided by the Commuter Transportation Company, (800) 488–7433 or 763–8587 (U-M Michigan Union Ticket Office). Dark blue vans and large white buses with an airplane insignia on the side provide service seven days a week between Metro Airport and all area hotels and motels. Reservations are required for pickup from hotels and must be made at least three hours in advance. With reservations, transportation is available 24 hours a day. At least one van leaves from the U-M Michigan Union every hour on the quarter-hour from 5:15 a.m. to 7:15 p.m. (After 7:15 p.m., the Union stop is made only by prior reservation.) From Metro, vans leave both the north and south terminals (lower level) once every hour from 7 a.m. to midnight. The one-way trip takes about an hour and fifteen minutes (construction at Metro, traffic, and frequent stops are reasons the trip takes this long). Tickets can be purchased at the U-M Michigan Union Ticket Office (basement level) for $14 one way or $26 round-trip. At most area hotels, at Metro, or from the driver, tickets are $15 one way or $27 round-trip.

Door-to-door transportation to Metro is provided by Transit Passenger Services, 769–2135. Service is available by reservation only, 7 a.m.–10 p.m., at a one-way rate of $15 for one person. It costs $35 to rent the whole van for as many people as can fit, making this a deal for families or students traveling in groups. All four local limo companies (see below) offer service to and from Metro Airport at costs that vary depending on the type of vehicle and the company hired.

Bicycle Transportation

Ann Arborites do a lot of two-wheeled traveling. City surveys have found that approximately 60 percent of the city's residents own a bicycle, and half the owners report riding at least once a week. Even among the 60-and-over age group, an impressive 20 percent classified themselves as bicycle riders.

It's possible to reach almost any part of the city on the marked network of street, sidewalk, and park bike lanes and paths. (See map on p. 143.) The city has bike lockers at three locations: City Hall, the Amtrak Depot, and the Fourth and Washington parking structure. Lockers offer bike commuters a low-cost way ($45 for the whole year) to keep their bikes safe and dry while at work. Call the city's Bicycle Program at 971–5471 for bike locker rental information. The city's Bicycle Master Plan, adopted in 1992, outlines goals to further enhance bicycle travel and safety through low-cost construction and maintenance of bicycle facilities, safety education programs, and improved enforcement of current bicycle laws. Contact the assistant city bicycle coordinator, Anne Becker (971–5471), with questions or suggestions.

Bicycle registration is required in Ann Arbor. The lifetime fee is $2.50, and you can register at the city clerk's office (City Hall) or at bicycle shops around town. Report stolen bicycles to the Ann Arbor Police Department (994–2875). Bicyclists must give pedestrians the right of way and follow the same laws as motorized vehicles when riding on the street, including coming to complete stops at all stop signs and using a headlight after dark. Cyclists can expect to receive tickets for ignoring these rules. The Department of Parks and Recreation's Bicycle Program (971–5471) offers bicycle safety courses, effective cycling classes, and maintenance clinics. Call for more information. Bicycle rental is available at Gallup Park (662–9319).

The Student Bike Shop at 607 S. Forest Ave. (662–6986) offers bike rentals for time periods from two hours (at $4.50 per hour) to one month ($45) for a single-speed, three-speed, five-speed, ten-speed, or hybrid bike. Prices are somewhat higher for mountain bike rentals. A cash deposit is required.

Buses

Ann Arbor Bus Depot, 116 W. Huron St. 662–5511. Open 9 a.m.–6:30 p.m. Mon.–Sat. Closed Sundays and holidays (buses do operate on those days, but tickets must be purchased in advance). Greyhound Bus Lines operates out of this terminal, providing service throughout Michigan ($9 to Detroit) and the U.S. Call for a schedule of arrivals and departures. The bus depot accepts all major credit cards, but not personal checks.

Ann Arbor Transportation Authority (AATA), Blake Transit Center, 331 S. Fourth Ave. 996–0400. Open 7:30 a.m.–9 p.m. Mon.–Fri., and noon–6 p.m. Sat. (opens at 8 a.m. during the winter). AATA Headquarters, 2700 S. Industrial Hwy. (973–6500). Open 8 a.m.–5 p.m. weekdays. The city's primary means of public transit, AATA buses run along 12 Ann Arbor routes, eight Ypsilanti local routes, and three routes between the two cities, carrying over four million passengers a year. An AATA local route is within a quarter-mile of 93 percent of all Ann Arbor residents. The fare is 75¢ (dollar bills are accepted, but no change is given), and transfers, good for two hours after issue, cost a nickel (request transfers when boarding). Children under five ride free. A roll of 20 tokens costs $13, a ten-ride pass costs $6.50, and an unlimited-ride monthly pass costs $25. Tokens and passes are available at the Blake Transit Center, AATA headquarters, and at some area businesses and banks. Half-fare ID cards are available to handicapped persons, seniors ages 60–64, students (grades K–12; valid only during the school year, weekdays 6 a.m.–6:45 p.m.), and low-income persons. Seniors age 65 or older can ride free with a Good As Gold AATA ID card. Service hours for most routes are 6:45 a.m.–10:15 p.m. weekdays and 8 a.m.–6:15 p.m. weekends. There is no bus service on major holidays. For information on routes, schedules, and discount fares, call 996–0400 (24 hours).

Chelsea-Dexter–Ann Arbor Express (AATA). 996–0400. Small buses run between Chelsea, Dexter, and Ann Arbor. The fare is $1 between Ann Arbor and Dexter and $1.75 between Ann Arbor and Chelsea. The Dexter-Chelsea local costs 75¢. Transfer to AATA local routes costs a nickel. AATA half-fare cards are honored. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 6:50 a.m.–7 p.m.; Sat. 8:45 a.m.–5:20 p.m. On Saturdays the route ends at the Dexter Library and does not continue on to Chelsea. No Sunday service.

University of Michigan Bus System. 764–3427. Bus service is free for U-M students, faculty, and staff. No pass is necessary to ride. Commuter buses run between Crisler Arena, Central Campus, and the Medical Center at 15-minute intervals between 6:45 a.m. and 6:15 p.m., Monday through Friday, excluding holiday periods. North Commuter buses service the Child Care Center lot near the corner of Huron Parkway and Glazier Way, the Fuller-Mitchell lot, the Medical Center, and Central Campus at 15-minute intervals, Monday through Friday, starting at the Child Care Lot at 6:45 a.m. The last run from Central Campus is at 6:15 p.m. The North Commuter does not operate during holiday periods. Bursley-Baits buses run September through April and connect the Bursley and Baits housing facilities with the Medical Center and the main bus stop on Central Campus. Northwood buses connect the Northwood housing facilities with the Medical Center and the main bus stop on Central Campus while also providing service to the North Campus Commuter lot on Hubbard near Huron Parkway and the Fuller-Mitchell lot. Both the Bursley-Baits route and the Northwood route run at ten-minute intervals between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. The North Campus route provides evening, weekend, and holiday service to North Campus. It is a combination of the Bursley-Baits and Northwood routes. It operates during weekday evenings beginning at 7 p.m. and running at ten-minute intervals until midnight, and then at 20-minute intervals until 2 a.m. (3 a.m. on Fridays). During weekends and holiday periods, service is provided generally at 20-minute intervals from 7 a.m. until 2 a.m. (3 a.m. on Saturdays). During university holiday periods, except Christmas recess, the North Campus weekend schedule is in effect. For Christmas recess service information, call U-M Transportation Services at 764–3427.

Limousines

Four limousine companies serve the Ann Arbor area: Arbor Limousine Service (663–3388), Executive Limousine (971–9240), Golden Limousine (668–8282), and World Class Coach (482–7142). Sedans, town cars, and stretch limos are available at an average cost of $40–$45 per hour, but limo services suggest looking at the car before renting since quality varies in this unregulated industry.

For other private transportation services, see the Yellow Pages.

Taxis

The three local taxi companies offer 24-hour local service, service to Metro Airport ($26–$35 from downtown Ann Arbor), or service to anywhere you want to go (New York City may be the record). The maximum meter rate allowed by the city is $1.45 to start, $1.35 per mile, and $18 per hour for waiting time. Ann Arbor Taxi Service (741–9000), Veterans Cab (662–4477), and Yellow Cab, (663–3355), all charge $1.45 to start and $1.35 per mile.

Train Service

Amtrak, 325 Depot St. 994–4906 (depot), (800) 872–7245 (tickets and reservations). Rail service to Detroit, Birmingham, and Pontiac and bus service to the Toledo Amtrak station connect to rail points east. Rail service to Jackson, Kalamazoo, and Chicago connects to points west. Three trains depart daily in each direction. In 1993, smoking was prohibited on all trains. Reservations are recommended, although they aren't always necessary for coach seats on the Chicago train. Round-trip to Chicago is $44–$58 depending on the day of the week. Amtrak accepts all major credit cards and personal checks with a major credit card and driver's license. Metered and long-term parking is available at the adjacent Amtrak lot. Depot hours: daily 7 a.m.–midnight.

Special Services

Late-night Transportation

Emergency Escort Service (U-M). 763–1131. Provides rides, in emergency situations only (e.g., transport to the hospital), between 2 a.m. and 7 a.m. daily for university students, faculty, and staff.

Medical Campus Night Ride Home (U-M). 936–7890 (hospital security). Faculty, staff, and students on the medical campus can call and request a free cab ride home, or to the Glazier Way or Fuller/Mitchell commuter lots, between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. seven days a week. Users of this service must show U-M ID.

Night Ride (AATA/Yellow Cab). 663–3888. This is a shared-ride program that uses either a lift-equipped van or cabs. Service is within the city limits only. Response time is anywhere from five to 40 minutes (20 minutes average), and it is a good idea to allow about an hour for travel time. Fare is $2 per person, regardless of destination. Reservations (all trips must be requested by phone) can be made anytime during the day for service that evening. Hours: Daily 11 p.m.–6 a.m.

Nite Owl (U-M). 763–6453. White mini-buses with glowing "Nite Owl" top lights provide this service for U-M students, faculty, and staff. The service has two routes. The north route serves the Medical Campus and the Hill-area residence halls. The south route serves Oxford Housing, Central Campus residence halls, and the Athletic Campus. The transfer point is the Undergraduate Library on South University. Buses run every 30 minutes and are equipped for disabled passengers. Hours: Daily (except holidays) 7 p.m.–2 a.m. Sept.–Apr., when school is officially in session.

Safewalk (U-M). 936–1000. The U-M's nighttime safety walking service provides two-person teams (either a co-ed or two-woman team) to accompany people walking within a 20-minute radius of Central Campus. Safewalk is located in the first-floor lobby of the Undergraduate Library. People can call or stop by for service. Hours: Sun.–Thurs. 8 p.m.–2:30 a.m. and Fri. & Sat. 8–11:30 p.m. (fall and winter); Sun.–Thurs. 9–11:30 p.m. only (spring and summer). To serve the North Campus area, Northwalk (763–WALK) provides a safety walking service to people within a 20-minute radius of Bursley Hall, except for the Northwood Family Housing area. Hours: Sun.–Thurs. 8 p.m.–2:30 a.m. and Fri. & Sat. 8–11:30 p.m. (Sept.–Apr. only).

Senior Services

Catch A Ride (CAR), Child and Family Service of Washtenaw, 118 S. Washington, Ypsilanti. Call AATA, 973–1611, to schedule a ride. Provides door-to-door van service by reservation to elderly and disabled individuals. The service costs $1.50 per ride and runs between 6:15 a.m. and 6:15 p.m.

Good As Gold Card (AATA/Yellow Cab). 973–6500. The Good As Gold ID card is available from the AATA to persons age 65 and older. Good As Gold is a 24-hour shared-ride cab service operated by Yellow Cab. Fare is $1.50 anywhere within the city limits. There is a 50¢ charge for each additional passenger and the number of passengers per car is limited to three. Hours: 6 a.m.–11 p.m. daily. Good As Gold card-holders can ride AATA buses free. Persons 60–64 can ride AATA buses for 35¢ with an AATA half-fare ID card. Both cards are available at Blake Transit Center on Fourth Avenue between William and Liberty between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. weekdays.

Michigan Department of Social Services—Washtenaw County, 22 Center St., Ypsilanti. 481–8398. Volunteers transport elderly Department of Social Services clients to their medical appointments free of charge. Advance reservations are required. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–5 p.m.

Neighborhood Senior Services, Senior Health Building (Catherine McAuley Health System), 5361 McAuley Dr., P.O. Box 995, AA 48106. 712–7775. This advocacy organization provides transportation and accompaniment for seniors to or from the doctor, the bank, or the grocery. Hours are flexible, but travel must be arranged between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Cost-sharing contributions are encouraged, but no fees are charged.

Senior Ride (AATA). 996–0400. Provides group trips for seniors living in senior housing complexes to grocery stores and local events. Call at least two weeks in advance to arrange.

Services for the Handicapped or Disabled

Ann Arbor Transportation Authority (AATA). 973–6500. Nearly all AATA buses are equipped with a wheelchair lift or ramp and can accommodate one wheelchair user. The AATA recommends calling a day in advance to ensure that an accessible bus will be operating on the needed route at the needed time.

A-Ride (AATA/Yellow Cab). 973–6500 (general info and AATA ID cards), 973–1611 (reservations). A-Ride operates primarily within the Ann Arbor city limits, although limited service is also available for persons in Pittsfield Township. Users must have a special AATA ID card. Medical certification of disability is required to obtain the card. Door-to-door shared-ride service is provided in lift-equipped vans or cabs. The fare is $1.50; coupons (ten for $15) can be bought from the AATA. Reservations can be made up to two weeks in advance of the trip. Hours: 7 a.m.–11 p.m. daily.

Catch A Ride (CAR), Child and Family Service of Washtenaw, 118 S. Washington, Ypsilanti. Call AATA, 973–1611, to schedule a ride. Provides door-to-door van service by reservation to elderly or disabled individuals. The service costs $1.50 per ride and runs between 6:15 a.m. and 6:15 p.m.

Health Van (Huron Valley Ambulance). 971–3015. Provides nonemergency transportation for seniors and those in wheelchairs, using radio-equipped vans with mechanical ramps. Trained technicians provide door-to-door service. Reservations suggested as soon as date of trip is known, since service is on a first-come, first-served basis. The base rate is $30 each way within Washtenaw and western Wayne counties. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 6:30 a.m.–5:30 p.m. No weekend service.

Michigan Department of Social Services—Washtenaw County, 22 Center St., Ypsilanti. 481–8398. Volunteers transport disabled or handicapped Department of Social Services clients to medical appointments free of charge. Advance reservations are required.

University Special Transportation (U-M–Ann Arbor ParaTransit), U-M Haven Hall. G-625. 763–6453. UST provides accessible transportation to U-M students, faculty, and staff through a combination of lift-equipped transit coaches, small buses, and cabs. Service is available 363 days a year, 24 hours a day, to and from campus destinations. For eligibility information, call Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–4 p.m.

Ride Sharing

Ride Board (U-M). Located in the basement of the Michigan Union. People seeking or offering long-distance rides can sign up, in person only, to find other drivers and riders.

Ridesharing (AATA). 973–6500. A free service to help commuters who work in Washtenaw County get into van pools and car pools. AATA's TransPlan offers planning assistance to employers and their commuting employees who are looking for alternative methods of travel to and from work. ■

THE ART OF SOUND.

Car audio can be mysterious. Explaining it is more difficult than merely selling it. Making sure the system you select will exceed your expectations is a challenge. In fact, we make a considerable effort to ensure that you get the best possible car stereo components and installation for your audio dollar. Because we're more interested in doing it right than just doing it. All this emerges from our own preferences and experience as installers. Some would say that we have a passion for great car audio. Others are amazed to find that we actually care about them. Stop in for a free audio system evaluation, and find out about our 90-day road test. We make car audio simple.

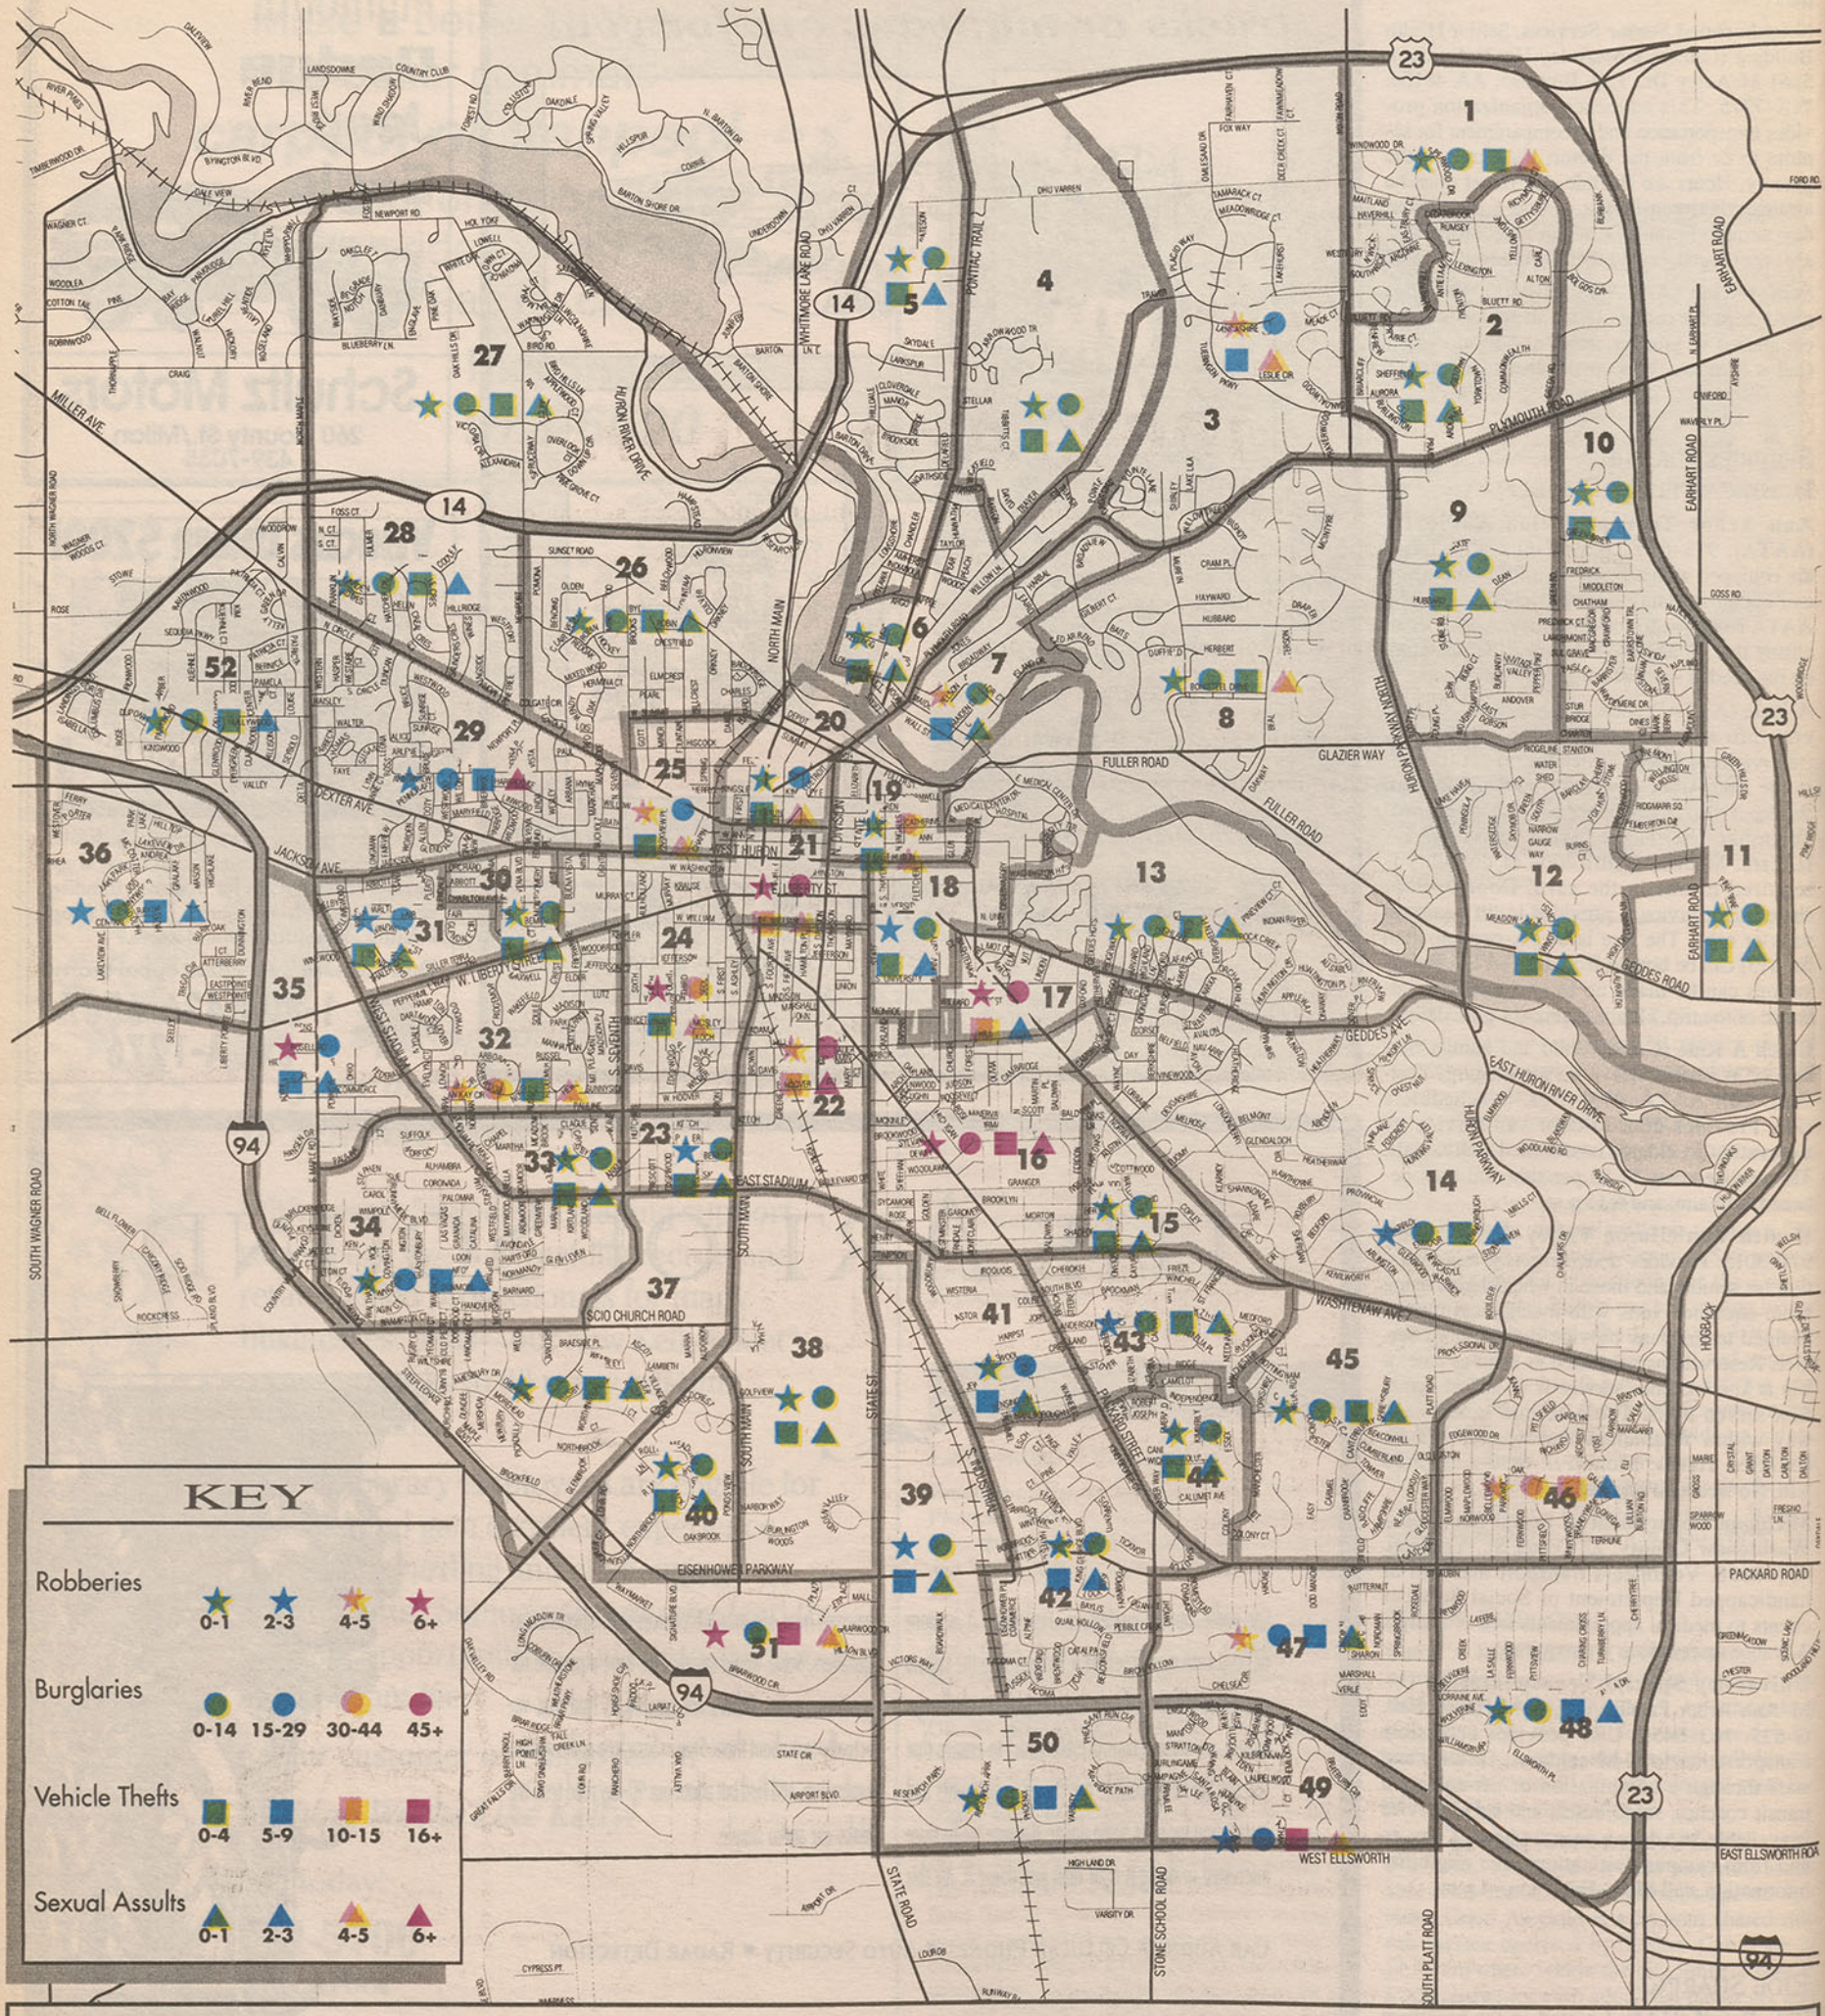
Crime Map: June 1993–May 1994



This map compiles data from monthly Ann Arbor Observer crime maps between June 1993 and May 1994. Unlike the monthly map, symbols denote ranges (see key at left), rather than individual crimes. Also, symbol locations denote the total number of crimes committed within each of the city's 52 neighborhoods during the year, rather than the exact location of specific crimes. The map is based on data provided by the Ann Arbor Police Department. Totals include attempts.

As usual, the densely packed student neighborhoods near the U-M campus recorded the highest overall crime totals. But not all criminal activity was centered there. The Briarwood Mall area suffered almost as many auto thefts as some areas of campus. The densely settled Northwood V/Vintage Valley neighborhood reported the lowest crime rate in the city limits.

The good news? Ann Arbor still has considerably fewer violent crimes than most American cities. You, at least, are safer than your car stereo is.

EDWARD SUROVELL CO. / REALTORS RELOCATION SERVICES

The Best Thing Going!

Helping people move is at the heart of what we do. And the fact that we do it extremely well — with skill and commitment — has made us a leading area real estate firm.

For the past two years, the Edward Surovell Company's Relocation Department has won national recognition, earning the coveted PHH Five-Star Circle of Excellence Award. So you know you'll receive outstanding service from our full-time relocation staff and 80 sales associates.

We go the extra mile for you, offering personal get-acquainted tours of the area, special assistance for every member of the family, and a long list of other services. We'll handle all the details you would expect and some you wouldn't, such as arranging for temporary housing or introducing you to the local schools. We can even help locate rental housing if you prefer not to purchase a home immediately.

We're also a great resource for people leaving the area. HOUSING

For most people, Ann Arbor's character is defined by its small-town core, with its neat, individualized turn-of-the-century houses closely packed together. But in fact, four out of five Ann Arbor homes were built after 1940, and most new housing built in recent decades has been in the form of apartments and condominiums.

Until the mid-1980's, most Ann Arborites owned their own homes. Now renters are in the majority, and with little room left in the city for new subdivisions, that trend is continuing. According to the city's unpublished 1992 Household Survey, the most recent available, only one neighborhood saw an increase in the percentage of home owners between 1990 and 1992: Scarlett/Mitchell, where buyers are snapping up homes in the relatively inexpensive Turnberry subdivision as quickly as they can be built. Realtors sell houses in an astoundingly wide range of prices, reflecting the diversity of the home owners in this city. Between mid-1993 and mid-1994, the extremes were defined by a small ranch on Champagne Drive that sold for $45,000, and a historic mansion by the Huron River that fetched $950,000.

Other noteworthy trends: the number of households with children at home is declining (only Maplewood, Huron Highlands, and North Central reported increases in the 1992 survey), while Ann Arbor's senior population has grown significantly (up 23 percent between the 1980 and 1990 censuses). And at least among the households that responded to the city's survey, median income jumped dramatically between 1990 and 1992—from $36,000 to approximately $45,000.

Neighborhood numbers are keyed to the map on this page. Home price information (current as of July 1994) was provided by Gail Sinelli of the Michigan Group, Tracy Koe of the Charles Reinhart Company, and Dawn Foerg of the Edward Surovell Company. All prices quoted represent an approximate range.

For neighborhoods outside the city limits but within the boundaries of the Ann Arbor school district, see "The Suburbs," p. 58. For a detailed street map of both the city and nearby residential areas, see pp. 16–17. For listings and maps of major apartment and condominium complexes, see p. 59 (Apartments) and p. 73 (Condominiums).

Demographic data are listed in symbols at the end of each neighborhood section. The information comes from the city's unpublished 1992 Household Survey; samples from some areas were small, so the survey provides only an approximate guide. The key to the symbols is as follows:

Median Household Income

$25,000–$49,999	$$
$50,000–$74,999	$$$
$75,000+	$$$$

Percentage of Households with Children

16%–30%	CC
31%–45%	CCC
46%+	CCCC

Percentage of Renters

City Neighborhoods

1 & 2: Northbury/Chapel Hill & Orchard Hills/Maplewood

Before sewers were extended out Plymouth Road during construction of the U-M's North Campus in the 1950's, much of this area northeast of the Plymouth and Nixon intersection was the Bolgos family's farm and dairy. The gently rolling hills were originally a pile of sand and gravel left behind 13,000 years ago by the retreating Wisconsinan glacier. Today it's a well-manicured mixture of subdivisions, condominiums, and apartment complexes. Plymouth Road itself is lined with offices, shopping centers, and research facilities.

The Northbury condominiums lie east of Nixon Road just north of Clague Middle School and Logan Elementary. There are many children in the complex (their parents are often business professionals and U-M faculty and staff), as well as retired people. To the north lies the huge Windemere Park luxury apartment complex.

The Chapel Hill area east of Green Road is a diverse community of townhouse condominiums and single-family homes. Homes here range from $95,000 to $125,000. With its neat lawns and recent renovation work, Chapel Hill prides itself on its upkeep. The turnover rate for residents is fairly high, reflecting the large percentage of U-M students, staff, and foreign visitors. A significant segment (about half) of Chapel Hill residents are seniors. The playground and open areas of adjacent Sugarbush Park are popular with Chapel Hill families, typically professional working couples.

The Orchard Hills, Maplewood, and Bromley single-family subdivisions make up the Orchard Hills/Maplewood neighborhood. Bromley's houses are slightly smaller, Maplewood's somewhat newer.

Orchard Hills/Maplewood is fairly stable, with many younger families with children at home and an extremely high home ownership rate (94 percent, the third highest in the city). The family orientation makes for a very social atmosphere, with numerous block parties, cookouts, and even parades. The Orchard Hills Athletic Club on Yorktown has a pool that is a social hub for area members. The family atmosphere continues in the Bromley subdivision, which also has its own swim club, Dolfins Pool. Its 231 homes are built around Bromley Park and are adjacent to the Thurston School Nature Center. It also boasts an extremely active home owners association.

Prices for houses in the three subdivisions range from $120,000 to $200,000 and up. Median household income in 1992 was well above the citywide median. Both neighborhoods are located in Ann Arbor's Second Ward. Northbury children attend Logan Elementary; all others go to Thurston. Clague is the middle school, and the high school is Huron.

3: Traver/Willowtree

The Traver/Willowtree area is dominated by apartments, including Willowtree, Willowtree Tower, and Parc Pointe on Plymouth Road; Parkway Meadows (which includes a group of senior buildings) near Nixon; and Traver Ridge off Traver Road. The terrain is hilly; many of the complexes abut a stream now mostly funneled into underground pipes. The Traver Lakes development includes single-family homes and some condos. Traver Vistas, north of Placid Way, is made up of single-family homes. After many years in the planning, the new Foxfire development north of Dhu Varren Road is under construction, with a planned total of 361 homes.

The neighborhood has many open areas and ponds throughout; residents frequently walk or jog through what is still a peaceful area, despite recent development projects like the new Traver Village shopping center on Plymouth Road. Residents of Traver Ridge, Traver Lakes, and Traver Vistas all belong to an association that shares the clubhouse, pool, and tennis courts at the Traver Lakes condos.

Single-family colonials in Traver Lakes and Traver Vistas cost from $125,000 to $185,000. Foxfire homes sell for $160,000 to $250,000. Traver/Willowtree is located in the First Ward. Schools are Logan and Northside elementaries, Clague Middle School, and Huron High.

$$, CC, RRRR.

4: Leslie Park/Arrowwood

The Leslie Park/Arrowwood neighborhood lies between Pontiac Trail to the west and Leslie Park and the Leslie Park Golf Course to the east. The hilly terrain is pocked with gravel pits left by the flowing waters that carried away the sand and silt of a receding glacier.

For many years, the area's chief housing source has been the 350-unit Arrowwood Hills Cooperative, a low-income townhouse complex built in the late 1960's, which accounts for this area's $15,000 median income, the lowest in Ann Arbor. Now as the city extends its water and sewer lines into the northern part of this neighborhood, along Dhu Varren Road, it's gaining new developments like the 35-home Orchard Place subdivision off Pontiac Trail.

With a wide racial and ethnic mix, Arrowwood has a diverse but cohesive atmosphere; members participate in many shared programs and have cooperative garden plots. Cash-poor U-M graduate students often join the co-op's long waiting list. The Leslie Park/Arrowwood neighborhood is home to Ann Arbor's second-highest concentration of households with children. Arrowwood children are bused to King, Logan, or Thurston elementary schools; all others attend Northside Elementary. Clague is the middle school, and the high school is Huron. This neighborhood is located in the First Ward.

$, CCCC, RRR.

5: Huron Highlands

Huron Highlands is located on a high ridge overlooking the Huron River valley and the downtown skyline between US-23/M-14 and Pontiac Trail. The ridge is the northern portion of the Fort Wayne moraine, the foundation of the high bluffs that rise from the Huron north and west of Ann Arbor.

Single-family ranches built in the late 1960's are priced at $89,000 and up; despite their nearly identical appearance, their well-treed, quiet setting keeps them in great demand among first-time home buyers. There are also a few more substantial contemporary homes dotted throughout this neighborhood, which sell for as much as $200,000. There are few renters, and families predominate.

Despite its proximity to the downtown area, Huron Highlands is a quiet, stable neighborhood. Residents tend to be either professional younger families or retired people who greatly value their seclusion. Children attend Northside Elementary, Clague Middle School, and Huron High. Huron Highlands, like Leslie Park/Arrowwood on the other side of Pontiac Trail, is located in the city's First Ward.

6: Northside

This area immediately north of the Huron River flourished in the 1830's but soon became a quiet backwater as the growth of the U-M focused development south of the river. Today, apartments and small, moderately priced ($85,000 and up) ranches share the neighborhood with some of the city's oldest surviving houses.

Many of the older houses are now rented, and there are also newer apartments, including the Shoreview complex on Kellogg and the Crossings of Michigan townhouses on Longshore Drive. There is a moderate student presence in this pleasantly diverse area. One of the few stably integrated neighborhoods in Ann Arbor, Northside is located completely within Ward One. Schools are Northside Elementary, Clague Middle School, and Huron High.

$$, CC, RRR.

7: Broadway/Riverside

This neighborhood just north of the Huron River adjacent to Northside includes the spot where several Indian trails once met at a ford on the Huron River. That same clustering effect is visible today where Broadway, Plymouth Road, Maiden Lane, Wall Street, Moore Street, Swift Street, and Pontiac Trail all converge near the Broadway bridge. Known as Lower Town in Ann Arbor's early days, the neighborhood contains the city's oldest commercial structure, the 1832 Anson Brown Building at Swift and Broadway.

Cedar Bend Drive, located near the crest of the Broadway hill, offers a spectacular view of the Huron River valley below and of the U-M Medical Center across Fuller Road. It follows one of the high river terraces left behind by the meandering Huron, which flows past Wall Street and Maiden Lane along Fuller Road. Extended river terraces just west of Fuller Pool, toward the U-M's North Campus farther to the east, border a pre-glacial lake bed.

Broadway Hill distinctly separates the Broadway and Riverside areas. Located north of the crest, the Broadway area combines rental housing with older single-family houses on large, well-kept lots on and near Cedar Bend. There has been a recent increase in the rehabilitation of older homes, and more families with young children have moved into the area. Single-family homes vary from small ranches that start at about $100,000 to large, stately homes in the Cedar Bend area that are priced in the $300,000 range.

Apartments and condos line the valley to the south. Young professionals and U-M graduate and medical students, plus a small concentration of retirees, predominate in the Riverside complexes, which include the Island Drive and Medical Center Court apartments off Maiden Lane. Riverside, with its transient population, has much less community activism than the Broadway area.

The high-rise Riverside Park Place condominiums are located at 1050 Wall Street along Riverside Park—the 1875 site of the Alber & Co. Blacksmith and Wagon Shop. The Riverhouse condos face Island Park a little downriver. Broadway/Riverside residents vote in the First Ward. Schools are Northside Elementary, Clague Middle School, and Huron High.

$, C, RRRR.

8: North Campus

The area south of Plymouth Road and west of Huron Parkway is dominated by the U-M's North Campus, a mixture of classroom and research buildings, residence halls, and apartments and townhouses for married students. The U-M's School of Music stands on a sand and gravel floodplain terrace created by meltwater streams that ran off part of the Defiance moraine, which can be traced as far south as the Ohio city for which it was named, to form a glacial lake. The area near Arbor Crest Cemetery (east of Beal Street on Glazier Way) is also sand and gravel, part of it from glacial meltwaters, some of it from the Huron River. Now, the hilly glacial landscape is well manicured, but retains many woodsy patches.

The Huron River Plaza apartments and high-rise Huron Towers on Fuller Road augment the U-M's Baits and Bursley dorms and U-M married housing on Cram Circle and McIntyre to create a densely settled neighborhood dominated by students. Almost all of the residents in the North Campus neighborhood are renters. But the family housing gives this a very different demographic profile from the older student areas near campus. Here, 70 percent are family households and 42 percent of survey respondents have children.

Most of the few houses in the North Campus neighborhood were custom-built in the 1950's along Fuller Road and Glazier Way. They sell for anywhere from $200,000 to $600,000 or even more. The 1836 Orin White House, at 2940 Fuller Road across from Huron High, with its distinctive herringbone-patterned stone facade, is on the National Register of Historic Places.

Most North Campus children are bused to Angell, Logan, and Northside elementaries. Clague and Tappan are the middle schools. The high school is Huron. North Campus east of Murfin Avenue is located in the Second Ward; residents living west of Murfin Avenue vote in the First Ward.

$, CCC, RRRR.

9: Northwood V/ Vintage Valley

Northwood V is a large complex of townhouses for married U-M students. Half the residents come from other countries, and nearly all have young families. Vintage Valley is a subdivision made up of expensive custom-built homes; prices average about $330,000. The recently built Woodlands subdivision, located near Vintage Valley in the hilly, wooded area just north of Glazier Way, is even more expensive: custom-built houses there sell for $450,000 and up. The Oslund semidetached condominiums are located on the north side of Glazier Way at Huron Parkway.

The vast economic differences notwithstanding, these adjoining areas share an overwhelming emphasis on family: in the 1992 survey of thirty-one households in the neighborhood, the Northwood V/Vintage Valley neighborhood recorded the highest percentage of households with children—77 percent—in the entire city. Children living in Northwood V are bused to Northside Elementary; other neighborhood children attend King. Clague is the middle school, and Huron is the high school.

Northwood residents considerably outnumber those in Vintage Valley (renters predominate heavily in the neighborhood as a whole), which probably explains why its median income is relatively low. Northwood V/Vintage Valley is located in the Second Ward.

$$, CCCC, RRRR.

10: Glacier Highlands/ Greenbrier

The Glacier Highlands subdivision is set on terraces formed by the drainage of the Huron River along the eastern edge of Green Road south of Plymouth (near Glazier Way). The sandy and silty loam soils in the area, which are part of the Defiance moraine, support large stands of oak, hickory, and other hardwoods.

Moderately winding streets are bordered by the manicured lawns of 15- to 20-year-old single-family colonials that sell for $195,000 to $260,000. The Earhart Knolls homes, recently constructed off Glazier just west of Earhart, can cost $300,000 or more. Farther north, off Green Road, is the 501-unit Greenbrier apartment complex and the Greenbrier subdivision. The colonial, Cape Cod, and tri-level houses that line the subdivision's wooded streets cost from $160,000 to $200,000.

Even with the large number of renters in the Greenbrier and the newer Woods of Earhart apartments, the median income level is above the city average. Residents here vote in Ward Two. Children attend King Elementary, Clague Middle School, and Huron High.

CONSTRUCTION/MORTGAGE LOAN PROGRAM

Take Out the Mortgage You Can Build With.

Building your dream home can be exciting. But it can seem complicated, especially if you have to get two separate loans: one for construction, another for your mortgage.

The NBD Construction/ Mortgage Loan Program combines construction financing and a mortgage in one convenient package.

With an NBD Construction/ Mortgage Loan, you pay only one set of closing costs. And you can get the convenience of a single interest rate.

After the closing, you simply request disbursements to finance construction. You'll also save money as you build. Because from the day you close until your home is finished, you only pay interest on the amount of money you draw against the loan.

So call an NBD Mortgage Representative. Arrange an appointment to find out more about the NBD Construction/Mortgage Loan Program.

Take the first step toward making the home of your dreams a reality. By getting the mortgage you can build with.

11 & 12: Earhart/Concordia & Geddes Lake

South of Glazier Way on Ann Arbor's far eastern side are the heavily wooded Earhart, Earhart West, and Watershed subdivisions and the Geddes Lake co-op townhouses. Built on hilly sand and gravel terraces that were shaped 13,000 years ago by streams flowing off the Defiance moraine, these neighborhoods range from contemporary custom-built homes on big lots in natural settings to neatly landscaped townhouses and condominiums. The heavy ground cover shelters a surprising amount of wildlife.

Earhart/Concordia's median household income is approximately $80,000, the third highest in Ann Arbor, reflecting the area's home prices—$250,000 to $525,000 for homes ranging in age from new to twenty years old. The Geddes Lake units, across Huron Parkway from Huron High and due west of Waldenwood, sell for $60,000 to $110,000.

East of Earhart Road, in a wooded, hilly, natural setting, are the Earhart Village condominiums. They were built about twenty years ago in varying floor plans. A clubhouse and pool provide a focal point for residents, many of whom are prominent figures in the city and the U-M. The area is home also to three new luxury condominium complexes—the Heritage Ridge single-unit condos, at Geddes and Huron Parkway, Ridgemaar Square, just off Earhart Road, and Oak Ridge, a three-story building on the southeast corner of Huron Parkway and Glazier Way.

The Watershed subdivision, south of Glazier just west of Watershed Road, features recently built single-family houses (which start at about $275,000) and condos. Adjacent Earhart West houses are about ten years old and slightly larger, the majority costing from $300,000 to $400,000.

Not surprisingly, given the presence of the Glacier Hills Retirement Center, 35 percent of Earhart/Concordia's households have residents over age 60. Both areas are located within Ward Two. Schools are King Elementary, Clague Middle School, and Huron High.

Earhart/Concordia: $$$$, CC, R.

Geddes Lake: $$$, CCC, R.

13: Geddes/Arboretum

Once known for its oak and hickory forests atop the Defiance moraine, and now known for its huge, U-M/city-owned park, the Geddes/Arboretum area south of the Huron River is made up of large and stately older homes built in the 1920's and 1930's, along with some modern custom-built houses toward the river, a few fraternity and sorority houses, and some apartment buildings near the university. The majority of the neighbors are longtime residents, with some recently relocated younger families. Geddes/Arboretum is home to many prominent U-M professors.

Houses are priced anywhere from $225,000 to $700,000 or more for the recently built contemporary homes on Riverview. This is one of the half-dozen most affluent neighborhoods in the city, even after figuring in the moderating influence of student housing for the nearby U-M Central Campus. Geddes falls within the Second Ward. Schools are Angell Elementary, Tappan Middle School, and Huron High.

$$$, C, RR.

14: Ann Arbor Hills Area

This neighborhood includes the whole area west of US-23 and north of Washtenaw up to Geddes Avenue and Huron River Drive. Winding, heavily wooded streets characterize the western portion, located just north and east of Washtenaw Avenue west of its split with Stadium Boulevard. Situated here are the Ann Arbor Hills, Tuomy Hills, and Woodhaven Hills subdivisions. Homes range in price from $200,000 to $700,000. The architecture is varied, and many of the houses sit in isolated splendor on one-third to full acre lots.

Residents describe the neighborhood as friendly and quiet; neighbors are often seen walking along the shaded, winding roads. The mazelike streets are easy to get lost on. The Ann Arbor Hills area is home to a large number of U-M faculty and staff. Although it has a substantial segment of seniors, it has seen an increase in younger families over the last decade. New single-family houses currently under construction will expand Woodhaven Hills farther east on Overridge toward Huron Parkway. With units costing $200,000 and up, Huron Chase is a pricey new 50-unit condominium development just off the parkway itself.

The area east of Huron Parkway includes large older single-family homes along Chalmers and Woodland roads, and the small Thornoaks subdivision, consisting of smaller, custom-built homes constructed in the 1950's and 1960's. Houses in Thornoaks are priced from $160,000 to $300,000.

Ann Arbor Hills is the city's wealthiest neighborhood, with a median household income of approximately $90,000—a little richer than the exclusive Newport area on the city's northwest side. It also is home to many people over age 60, the second-highest percentage in Ann Arbor. Residents vote in the Second Ward. Schools are Angell, Burns Park, and King elementaries, Tappan and Clague middle schools, and Huron High.

Hermitage Road in Ives Woods (15)

15 & 16: Ives Woods & Burns Park

An older, established neighborhood, Ives Woods has one of the highest median household incomes in Ann Arbor. Homes nestled within this neighborhood's tree-lined streets sell for $250,000 to $600,000, and the city's 1992 survey uncovered no renters at all. Many families (37 percent) have children at home. Schools are Burns Park Elementary, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High.

Just west of Ives Woods, slightly more modest homes mark the boundary of the Burns Park neighborhood. This neighborhood centers around the park itself, which began in 1890 as the home of the Washtenaw County Agricultural and Horticultural Society's fairgrounds. Moderately expensive single-family homes favored by academics are found in the eastern half, with student rental property dominating the area west of Packard. (On both sides of Packard, though, the proportion of student housing drops off sharply as you leave the campus area.) The North Burns Park area, north of Wells to Hill Street, also has a high student presence. Larger fraternity, sorority, and cooperative houses and apartment buildings blend surprisingly well with older houses occupied by longtime residents and families.

Sixty percent of the residents of Burns Park are renters—which probably explains why what many in town think of as a posh faculty ghetto reports a below-average median household income relative to the city as a whole.

Houses in the Burns Park area sell for $110,000 to well over $350,000. Ives Woods lies completely in Ward Three. Burns Park residents vote predominately in Ward Three, but those west of Packard (and a few campus neighborhoods east of Packard) vote in Ward Four. Schools are Burns Park Elementary, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High.

Ives Woods: $$$$, CC, R.
Burns Park: $$, CC, RRR.

17 & 18: South University & Central Campus/ Medical Campus

A wide range of housing can be found in these student-dominated neighborhoods bordering the U-M's Central and Medical campuses. Generally, these are older neighborhoods, dating back to the late 1800's and early 1900's. In the 1960's, apartment buildings replaced many of the older houses before zoning restrictions effectively ended new construction near campus.

Fifty-five percent of all households in South University are comprised of unrelated adults—the highest percentage in the city. Central Campus/Medical Campus is also a popular student area; the sample from the 1992 survey turned up no home owners at all. The median household income here and in the neighboring Central Campus/Medical Campus neighborhoods is under half the citywide average. The city's 1992 survey of 94 households in the two neighborhoods found a median annual household income of just $20,000—the second lowest in the city. The survey also turned up no households with children in the Central Campus/Medical Campus area. The southern half of the South University area is located within Ward Three; the northern half is in Ward Two. The Central and Medical campus areas vote in Ward One, and the households surveyed in those areas didn't include a single person over the age of 60. Schools are Burns Park and Angell elementaries, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer and Huron high schools.

19 & 20: Old Fourth Ward & North Central

The Old Fourth Ward and North Central areas sit side-by-side on the southern slopes of the Huron River valley—the Old Fourth Ward to the east, between Glen and Division streets, and North Central running from there to the Ann Arbor Railroad tracks just west of Main.

To newcomers, North Central is an exciting urban neighborhood, its quaint old homes just a few minutes' walk from the Farmers' Market, Zingerman's, and downtown. Longtime residents, who remember when it was poor, polluted, and racially segregated, are amazed at its newfound cachet. For years, this was one of the few areas in town where blacks could buy homes, and it still houses a racially and economically diverse population, including city workers and retirees, U-M faculty and staff, professionals, and an increasing number of young families. Houses sell here in the $110,000 to $120,000 range. Though big new houses and condos are conspicuous on a few of North Central's streets, 75 percent of the households in the last city survey were renters.

Homes in the Old Fourth Ward vary greatly. There are nineteenth-century historic structures along North Division and many superb Victorian houses in the Kingsley area. These are interspersed with the squat brick apartment buildings that replaced many older houses in the 1960's. Today, over 97 percent of the households in the Old Fourth Ward are occupied by renters, mostly U-M students. Children are bused to Haisley Elementary and attend Slauson Middle School and Pioneer High. Both the Old Fourth Ward and the North Central areas are located within the First Ward.

tween the Defiance and Fort Wayne moraines. When the Huron-Erie lobe of the Wisconsinan glacier was in place 13,000 years ago, the Huron River was diverted to the west and flowed through the center of town toward Saline, leaving a flat lowland area in its path.

The first house in Ann Arbor, built in 1824 by one of the city's founders, Elisha Rumsey, was at the corner of Huron and First streets. As the downtown grew, it—and almost all other housing in the present downtown area—was demolished for commercial construction. It's only in the last decade that rehabbers have begun to rescue a few of the long-vacant upstairs apartments in many downtown commercial buildings. More recently, they have been joined by a significant growth in owner-occupied housing, with construction of the Sloan Plaza condos on Huron, conversion of the Tower Plaza apartments to condos, and the handful of condos on top of One North Main. Downtown is also home to quite a few U-M students living in old houses within a few blocks of the State Street edge of campus.

Overall, 60 percent of the area's households contain just one person—the highest percentage among Ann Arbor neighborhoods—and not a single survey respondent in 1992 had children at home.

In the South Central area, toward Hill Street, a bluff descends from the Downtown area to Allen's Creek, a tributary (now hidden in a storm sewer) of the Huron River. The land rises again across the railroad tracks, part of the slope of the Fort Wayne moraine.

South Central is largely student housing: 96 percent of all households rent; 54 percent are shared by unrelated adults; and just 5 percent of the neighborhood households have residents over age 60. Median household income is rising slowly Downtown, while income remains low in the South Central area. The northeast corner of the Downtown area is located in Ward One; the remainder of Downtown votes in Ward Five. The majority of the South Central area is located within Ward Four, but small portions vote in Wards One and Five. Schools are Mack and Haisley elementaries, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

Spring Street in Mack School/Sunset (26)

23: Allmendinger

This neighborhood is bounded on the east and west by Main and Seventh streets, and on the north and south by Pauline and Stadium. Although a few houses date to the 1920's and 1930's, most were built after World War II. Single-family bungalows, small ranches, and a few story-and-a-halfs in the area range from $95,000 to $150,000. Home ownership is the norm here, and families are fairly common. Allmendinger Park, on Pauline, is a center of activity throughout the year with its softball diamonds, a playground, tennis and basketball courts, and picnic facilities. Its huge groves of lilacs on the perimeter are a special treat in May.

The area is located within the Fourth Ward. Schools are Mack Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

John Street in South Central (22)

24: Old West Side

The Old West Side's tree-lined streets, particularly near Seventh and Liberty streets, stand on the silty clay soil of the Fort Wayne moraine. As the land slopes down to the east toward Ashley Street, it changes to sand and gravel near where the Huron River once flowed southwest through downtown.

This area, much written about in city histories, has the distinction of being placed on the National Register of Historic Places, not just for its architecture, but for its overall historic character. A few of its houses are over 125 years old and can be seen in photographs taken in the mid-1800's. Most, though, are small Victorians with one or two finely crafted details. Many residents have painstakingly restored their homes, and show them off in an annual homes tour. With its modest yet beautifully individual homes and its tree-lined streets, the Old West Side offers a much sought-after small-town quality.

Part of the charm and character of the Old West Side is the mix of people—students, professionals, families, faculty, and retirees—who live comfortably here in the German-built Victorians, and in some newer two-story colonial and custom-built houses and scattered apartment buildings. Prices run anywhere from $90,000 to $225,000.

The Old West Side, like many Ann Arbor neighborhoods, is seeing an increase in the number of affluent young professional families. The small student presence is concentrated around First Street in small apartment buildings. Owner and rental households are evenly split (the 204-unit Nob Hill apartment complex is unobtrusively integrated into the neighbor-

25: West Park/Miller

In this area, Miller Road starts its steep ascent onto the Fort Wayne moraine. Part of this hilly terrain is dominated by one of the city's best-known parks, West Park, established in 1910. At manholes in the park, you can hear the gurgle of a tributary of Allen's Creek as it flows through a storm sewer on its way east to join the main stream near the Ann Arbor Railroad. Today, 63 percent of households are renters; the remainder own small frame houses that sell for around $85,000 to $150,000.

Thirty-three percent of the area's households are families. Thanks in part to the presence of Miller Manor, the city-owned apartment building for seniors and the disabled that towers over the northern edge of West Park, and the Lurie Terrace senior apartment complex on its south side, 37 percent of households have residents over age 60.

Until the city passed a fair housing ordinance in the 1960's, most of Ann Arbor's black residents were steered to the Miller area and the adjoining North Central neighborhood across the Ann Arbor Railroad tracks. Always racially heterogeneous, in recent years the Miller area has become more economically varied, as low-key young professionals and families found they liked the neighborhood's American small-town look and neighborly sociability.

This neighborhood includes precincts in wards One and Five. Schools are Mack Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

26: Mack School/Sunset

Houses come in all sizes and shapes in this immensely varied neighborhood: big nineteenth- and early twentieth-century houses, modest ranches, and even prefab steel Lustron homes can be found in the area south of Sunset and east of Newport; prices start at $100,000. Secluded, custom-built contemporary houses north of Sunset start at $160,000 to $200,000.

The neighborhood is marked by the impressive hills of the Fort Wayne moraine. Hunt Park at Spring Street and Sunset offers a splendid view of the downtown area. Another notable landmark is the city's water treatment plant, high on a hill on the south side of Sunset near Newport Road, which pumps water from the Huron River at Barton Pond to Ann Arbor residents. This is the city's highest point.

Mack School/Sunset is comprised mostly of owner-occupied households. It is located in Wards One and Five. Schools are Mack and Wines elementaries, Forsythe and Slauson middle schools, and Pioneer High.

$$$, CCC, R.

27: Newport

On the city's far northwest side, the spacious Newport area offers custom-built single-family colonials, ranches, and condominiums in an almost rural setting bounded by the Huron River on the north and east. Developed on former farmlands, these affluent subdivisions are dominated by family-minded professionals and business executives. Median income for this neighborhood is the second highest in the city.

The Newport West condominiums are off Newport just north of M-14 and adjacent to Bird Hills Park. Farther down Newport Road just north of Bird Road is the new Newport Hills subdivision, which when completed will include 73 single-family dwellings. Still farther down Newport Road, near the Huron River, is the posh River Ridge subdivision. One-of-a-kind homes, set back off winding streets, sell for $240,000 to over $400,000. Large custom-built homes along Blueberry Lane and west of Newport are comparably priced.

Renters are rare to nonexistent in Newport, which has a median household income of approximately $85,000. This neighborhood lies within the First Ward. Schools are Wines Elementary, Forsythe Middle School, and Pioneer High.

$$$$, CC, R.

28 & 29: Garden Homes/ Crescent & Haisley/ Veterans Park

These neighborhoods in the Miller, Jackson, and Stadium/Maple area are dominated by moderately priced ranches, Cape Cods, and small colonials. Some are less than ten years old; others have been around for half a century.

Garden Homes' bi-level and ranch houses are in the $90,000 to $110,000 price range. The Martin Acres subdivision, within the Hatcher-Saunders Crescent loop, has ranches and tri-levels for $90,000 to $150,000. Home owners make up 86 percent of this neighborhood's households. Residents vote in the Fifth Ward. Schools are Wines Elementary, Forsythe Middle School, and Pioneer High.

Haisley area ranches, like those in Garden Homes, cost between $80,000 and $120,000. In the nearby Wildwood area between Dexter and Miller roads, two-story traditional houses sell for $110,000 to $180,000. Median income here is just above the city's average of approximately $45,000.

The Haisley neighborhood is within the Fifth Ward. Schools are Haisley and Mack elementaries, Slauson and Forsythe middle schools, and Pioneer High.

Haisley/Veterans Park: $$$, CC, RR.

30 & 31: Virginia Park & Winewood/Thaler

Between Jackson and Liberty from Crest Street west to Stadium, homes go from old to relatively new in a fairly steady progression on the slightly rolling crest of the Fort Wayne moraine. The transformation recapitulates the west side's gradual expansion away from the downtown core. Virginia Park is the eastern and older section, running from Crest to Glendale; Winewood/Thaler continues west from there to Stadium, where its western edge is lined with small commercial buildings.

The Virginia Park area has many two-family duplexes, particularly on Bemidji Street. Most were built in the 1960's and sell for about $110,000 to $150,000. The newly constructed duplexes at the south end of Glendale start at $110,000. There are also older single-family homes and Cape Cods in this area, priced from $90,000 to $160,000. Sixty-three percent of Virginia Park's households own their own homes.

In the city's 1992 survey, 62 percent of Winewood/Thaler's households were renters. (The 75-unit Charlton and 120-unit Westwood

32: Eberwhite Woods

Named for Eber White, an early farmer in the area who helped fugitive slaves escape to Canada, Eberwhite Woods is one of the loveliest neighborhoods on the west side of town. It's made up of several small subdivisions, along with rental property in the Pauline-Arbordale-Northwood area.

Most of the houses in this area were built between 1915 and 1935. Rolling tree-lined streets are showcases for a variety of two-story traditionals. The smaller houses, which are rarely available, are priced around $115,000; larger ones sell for up to $190,000.

Dover Parkside, a subdivision along Dartmoor Street, was built in the 1960's by George Airey, who also developed subdivisions in the Dicken neighborhood. Just west of Dover Parkside, south of Liberty and east of Stadium, are the new Ridgewood condominiums. Houses sell in the $140,000 to $230,000 range.

Eighty-two percent of the Eberwhite Woods households are home owners; 26 percent are seniors; and 36 percent have children at home. This neighborhood lies completely within Ward Five. Schools are Eberwhite Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

33 & 34: Pauline/Stadium & Dicken

This flat area at the base of the Fort Wayne moraine was farmed up into the early part of this century. Today, it is dotted with heavily landscaped subdivisions and a sprinkling of wooded areas near Pioneer High School and Greenview Park.

Most of the houses in the Pauline/Stadium neighborhood were built in the 1950's and 1960's. Ranches sell for $105,000 to $140,000 and colonials in the Meadowbrook Avenue area cost $150,000 to $180,000. There are two good-sized rental complexes in this neighborhood—the Stadium and Wyndham Hill apartments.

Families constitute 51 percent of the Pauline/Stadium households. Median income is slightly lower than the city's average. Schools for the Pauline/Stadium neighborhood are Eberwhite Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

Across Stadium to the southwest, in the family-oriented Dicken/Vernon Downs area, 94 percent of the residents own their homes. Houses vary from 25-year-old ranches like those on Norfolk and Suffolk to the spacious ranches and two-story colonials in the Barnard Heights subdivision near Dicken School. The smaller ranches, many constructed by builder George Airey, start at about $100,000; prices in the area range up to $165,000. Median income is considerably higher than in nearby Pauline/Stadium, partly owing to Dicken's lack of apartment buildings. Dicken has Ann Arbor's third-largest number of households with persons over age 60 (41 percent). Both neighborhoods are in the Fourth Ward. Schools are Dicken and Lawton elementaries, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

Pauline/Stadium: $$, C, RR.

Dicken: $$$, CC, R.

35: South Maple

Located on the city's far west side, just east of I-94, this area is dominated by condominiums and apartment complexes concentrated in a dense cluster around the intersection of Pauline and Maple. Walden Hills, a recent condominium conversion, is just north of Pauline and west of Maple, with units starting at $49,000. Across the road, the contemporary Walden Village condominiums on Pauline Court are set back behind a berm that makes the units barely visible from the road. Also off Pauline are the Park Place and adjacent Hillcrest apartments. Across South Maple, from the east, are the 167-unit Surrey Park apartments, the Pine Lake Village Cooperative, and the South Maple public housing project. Country Village, west of I-94 near the High Point Center, is a recent development that has added 22 single-family homes to the area.

This area is in the Fifth Ward. Elementary schoolchildren in the Pine Lake Village co-op are bused to Lawton School. Otherwise, schools are Dicken Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

$$, CC, RRR.

36: Lakewood

The city of Ann Arbor's westernmost subdivision is bounded by I-94, Liberty Road, and Wagner Road. Near the Fort Wayne moraine, overlooking the kettle-hole lakes of Dolph Park, the Lakewood neighborhood has a rare blend of residents—both professionals and blue-collar workers.

Older colonials and newer custom-built trilevels and ranches (some built in the 1920's), border the wooded areas near First and Second Sister lakes; they sell in the $90,000 to $230,000 range. Smaller ranches that went up in the 1940's, 1950's, and 1960's start at $100,000. The recently constructed 180-unit Liberty Pointe condominiums are just west of I-94 on Liberty. Newly built homes in the Liberty Glen subdivision range from $160,000 to $220,000.

Lakewood is home to a number of U-M faculty and staff as well as retired people. Families are common in this neighborhood: 84 percent of the households surveyed in 1992 were families, and 31 percent had children at home. Lakewood neighborhood is located within Ward Five. Schools are Dicken Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

$$$, CCC, R.

37: Lansdowne

The Lansdowne subdivision sits on slightly rolling terrain on either side of Seventh Street south of Scio Church Road. Its meticulously kept lawns and large, modern homes make it Ann Arbor's model of a classic suburb. Some newer streets still have the characteristic openness of a new suburb, but others are now lined with mature trees.

Lansdowne's families tend to be older than their neighbors in the nearby Churchill Downs

REAL ESTATE MATTERS

How to Choose a REALTOR®

When buying or selling a home, you need a skilled person to help. How can you find the best one for you? Someone to trust, whose integrity and ethics are beyond question. A person you can really communicate with, in the initial stages and later when in serious negotiations. Someone with expertise in the task.

I suggest that you evaluate Realtors® for yourself–no one else can look out for your interests. Interview several agents before choosing one to work with exclusively. Some questions to ask:

How long have you been in the business? Do you work full-time, year-round in real estate? Are you a member of the Ann Arbor Area Board of Realtors®? (This group provides the only access to the Multiple Listings Service.)

What is your specialty? What geographic area? Are there any kinds of transactions you prefer not to deal with? Do you make referrals to other Realtors® who specialize in such matters?

Is there teamwork in the company? Will other agents help in an emergency—when you are away for a few hours or days? Do you inform each buyer of all appropriate homes, so that both buyer and seller have the best chance of connecting? Or are buyers pressured to select only from your company's listings (which make more profit for the company, but doesn't serve the seller or the buyer?)

Is there real communication with the agent? Does he/she really listen to you, or just give speeches? Is there empathy with your needs, wants, and lifestyle?

Other considerations may be important to you. We can discuss them and decide whether to work with each other, or perhaps I can refer you to a trusted colleague. Please do not hesitate to call on me today.

Kimberly Road in Kimberly Hills (44) and Meadowbrook subdivisions. Houses are generally about 25 years old, although some date back to the mid-1960's and a few are newer. They vary from ranches, colonials, and tri-levels to traditionals, with prices ranging from $170,000 to $300,000 or more.

The Churchill Downs subdivision west of Lansdowne is made up of slightly newer and less expensive single-family ranch, colonial, and tri-level houses in the $125,000 to $180,000 price range. Like Lansdowne, it is popular with families.

The Meadowbrook Village apartments and Meadowbrook subdivision, built in the mid-1980's, are located on the west side of Ann Arbor–Saline Road just north of I-94. The houses are single-family bi-levels and ranches priced from $110,000 to $150,000. Occupants range from retirees to young families. The Meadowbrook apartments feature unusual floor plans designed for unrelated people who live together: in two-bedroom units, both bedrooms have adjoining baths, and they sit at opposite ends of the apartment with common living areas in between.

Home owners (78 percent) dominate the neighborhood's demographics, and many families have children at home. Lansdowne residents vote in the Fourth Ward. Schools are Lawton Elementary, Slauson Middle School, and Pioneer High.

$$$$, CCC, R.

38 & 39: Hidden Valley & Boardwalk

These neighborhoods, just north and east of Briarwood, have only a smattering of houses off Main Street, on Valhalla near Scio Church, and on Golfview past Ann Arbor–Saline Road. Housing here is dominated by the 324-unit Hidden Valley apartment complex on South State and, off South Main, the 108-unit Burlington Woods complex (which includes apartments and townhouses) and the luxurious new 208-unit Harbor House apartments.

In the city's last household survey, 100 percent of the households were renters, 57 percent were single-person households, and only 3 percent had children. Median income was slightly below the city average. Both the Hidden Valley and Boardwalk neighborhoods are located within the Fourth Ward. Schools are Pattengill and Bryant elementaries, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High.

$$, C, RRRR.

40 & 51: Cranbrook & Briarwood

These neighboring areas were once dense woods and open fields. Since Briarwood's completion in 1973, they have been transformed into a profusion of commercial, office, and residential developments.

As recently as 1986, Cranbrook Tower for seniors was the only housing in this area. But the construction in 1987 of the roughly 300 apartments and townhouses in Woodland Meadows, located at the corner of Main Street and Ann Arbor–Saline Road, marked the beginning of an apartment boom in the neighborhood. Four more large residential projects followed, most recently the 139-unit Brookhaven Manor luxury senior development. In all, the area added well over 1,000 apartments, including the luxurious Signature Villas and Briar Cove apartments. It's now adding detached units as well, with the 140-unit Oakbrook condominiums between Ann Arbor–Saline Road and Main Street.

Two percent of the area residents questioned in the city's 1992 Household Survey were home owners, and 63 percent of households had at least one resident over age 60, the highest percentage in the city. Both the Cranbrook and the Briarwood neighborhoods are located within Ward Four. Schools are Pattengill and Bryant elementaries, Slauson and Tappan middle schools, and Pioneer High.

Cranbrook: $$, CC, RRRR.

Briarwood: $$, C, RRRR.

41: Woodbury Gardens/ Rosewood/Jewett

Moderately priced houses built in the 1940's and 1950's are mixed here with modern apartments. The Woodbury Gardens complex features a clubhouse, one-, two-, and three-bedroom apartments, and townhouses. The complex takes its name from the U-M Botanical Gardens, which were located in the Stadium/Iroquois area from 1915 until their move to Dixboro Road in 1959.

This area's western border along South Industrial is home to numerous small commercial and industrial businesses that spill over into the western end of Rosewood and Jewett streets. Along the eastern ends of the tree-lined streets there are single-family ranches and small Cape Cods that sell for $65,000 to $115,000.

Seventy percent of households are renters, and 25 percent have children at home. The neighborhood falls within the Fourth Ward. Schools are Bryant/Pattengill and Burns Park elementaries (the latter for Iroquois Place residents only), Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High.

$$, CC, RRR.

42: Georgetown/Pine Valley

These two subdivisions stretch southwest from Packard Road across Eisenhower Parkway all the way to I-94. Single-family houses in these areas are a mix of tri-levels, ranches, colonials, and Cape Cods.

The ranch houses that dominate the Pine Valley neighborhood northeast of the Georgetown shopping center are priced from $120,000 to $200,000. Georgetown's homes, to the southwest, are somewhat larger and sell for $130,000 to $200,000. The 164-unit Pine Valley apartments and townhouses and the 168-unit Spruce Knob apartments are also located in this neighborhood.

Sixty-three percent of these households are owner-occupied, 62 percent are families, and 33 percent have children at home. Schools are Pattengill and Bryant elementaries, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High. Twenty-three percent of the residents are over age 60. Median household income is above the city average, despite the presence of the large apartment complexes.

Both Georgetown and Pine Valley subdivisions have winding, tree-lined streets. Georgetown has the advantage of a semi-private golf course, a private pool, and a tennis court. Functioning as Georgetown's social hub, the country club heightens the neighborhood's strong sense of cohesiveness; many residents feel that Georgetown is one of the most sociable neighborhoods in Ann Arbor. This area lies in the Fourth Ward.

$$$, CCC, RR.

43 & 44: Pattengill/St. Francis & Kimberly Hills

Southeast of the Packard-Stadium area, on what was once prime farmland, are a number of neighborhoods built shortly after World War II and on into the 1950's and 1960's.

The Pattengill/St. Francis neighborhood is fairly evenly divided between home owners and renters in the large Arbor Hills and the Ann Arbor Woods apartments. The older and smaller bi-level and ranch houses in Ann Arbor Woods start at $110,000, with newly constructed houses selling for as much as $350,000. The Nature Cove condominium complex is located off St. Francis Street. In the 1992 household survey, median household income was just above the citywide average.

In Kimberly Hills, 71 percent of the households own their residences. Eighty-three percent are families, and 44 percent have children at home. Retirees live in 18 percent of the households surveyed. New and old houses of varying architecture occupy tree-lined streets. Older homes are in the $150,000 to $225,000 price range. This area is home also to a 134-unit upscale apartment complex, the Ponds at Georgetown, on Packard Road across from the Georgetown shopping center. To the east is Hearthstone, a 65-unit subdivision still under development off Gladstone; homes there run from about $200,000 to $280,000. Farther east, construction is under way on the Woods of Ann Arbor, with 28 luxury condo units.

Both neighborhoods are located within the Third Ward. Schools are Bryant/Pattengill elementaries, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High, except that children living on Manchester and Colony attend Allen Elementary and Huron High.

Pattengill/St. Francis: $$$, C, RR.

Kimberly Hills: $$$, CCC, RR.

45: Allen School/Buhr Park

This neighborhood is bounded by Packard on the south, Platt Road and Huron Parkway on the east, Washtenaw to the north, and Manchester to the west. It is the home of Buhr Park, with its much-used swimming pool and ice rink, and Cobblestone Farm.

Houses, which are generally on gently rolling terrain, range from tiny brick-trimmed frame ranches built after World War II ($90,000 to $125,000) to large colonials and tri-levels built in the 1960's that can sell for as much as $160,000.

The Allen School/Buhr Park neighborhood lies in the Third Ward. Families are numerous. Schools are Allen Elementary, Tappan Middle School, and Huron High.

$$$, CC, R.

46: Forestbrooke/ Pittsfield Village

This heavily settled neighborhood is bordered by Huron Parkway and Platt Road on the west and Packard on the south. The northern Washtenaw Avenue border is packed with commercial businesses, with US-23 marking the eastern edge.

The two-, three-, and four-bedroom townhouses along and off of Pittsfield Boulevard were built in 1943 as a self-contained new rural village. McKinley Properties took over the 422-unit complex in 1986, fixed up the aging units, and simplified its name from Pittsfield Village to The Village. McKinley is in the process of selling off units to individual owners as "market rate co-ops."

West of Pittsfield on the streets between Platt and Parkwood is the Darlington subdivision. Small starter homes (Cape Cods, ranches, colonials), some of them 50 years old, sell in the $60,000 to $110,000 range. Forestbrooke, built in the 1960's east of Pittsfield, has a mixture of ranches, colonials, Cape Cods, and trilevels going for $90,000 to $135,000. The many children in the area enjoy a neighborhood pool and swim club.

Recent city surveys have shown a strong shift toward home ownership here as the Village townhomes sell off. Fully 80 percent of residents are now home owners. This neighborhood lies in the Third Ward. Schools are Pittsfield Elementary, Scarlett Middle School, and Huron High.

$$, CC, R.

47 & 48: Brown Park & Scarlett/Mitchell

Young families find this area on the far southeast side of town, just north of I-94, appealing: the prices are right, and shopping and schools are nearby. Small three-bedroom ranches in both areas, built in the 1950's and 1960's, range in price from $65,000 to $110,000. A few two-story colonials in the Scarlett/Mitchell area, built in the 1960's, cost between $80,000 and $150,000.

The Brown Park area has a slightly higher percentage of renters (59 percent) than the Scarlett/Mitchell area (52 percent). The difference is due to the 281-unit Mill Creek townhouses on Birch Hollow east of Stone School Road, and the 112-unit Homestead Commons apartments off Eisenhower near Packard Road. However, Scarlett/Mitchell's home ownership is rising fast as buyers snap up bargain-priced homes ($110,000 to $135,000) in the 210-home Turnberry subdivision on Packard Road just west of US-23.

In the Scarlett/Mitchell area, the Colonial Square Cooperative, on Wolverine and Williamsburg off Platt Road, offers rental townhouse units that are shared by both professionals and blue-collar workers. Colonial Square has a higher initial member buy-in fee than most other co-ops in town, but it also has the lowest rents. With one-bedroom units renting for under $200, it's no surprise that this close-knit co-op has a long waiting list.

Both neighborhoods sport large numbers of families and a moderate contingent of children. Median household income is below the citywide average in both neighborhoods.

Scarlett/Mitchell and Brown Park are both located within Ward Three. Schools are Mitchell Elementary, Scarlett Middle School, and Huron and Pioneer high schools.

Brown Park: $$$, CCC, RRR.

Scarlett/Mitchell: $$, CCCC, RRR.

49: Bryant

The Bryant neighborhood, just off Ellsworth and Stone School roads, is built on open and slightly rolling terrain, with young trees taking hold on many of the streets. The neighborhood is almost entirely made up of the Arbor Oaks subdivision along Champagne off Stone School Road and the Forest Hills and University townhouses co-ops that sit north of Ellsworth Road between Stone School and Platt roads. All three developments were built in the late 1960's and early 1970's as federally supported low-cost housing. Arbor Oaks houses are small two- and three-bedroom ranches, most without basements, that sell for $45,000 to $70,000, making them the least expensive single-family homes in the city. Median household income is low for Ann Arbor, approximately $33,000 in 1992.

The city's third-highest concentration of children is found here: 57 percent of the surveyed households have children at home. The Bryant neighborhood lies in the Third Ward. Schools are Bryant and Pattengill elementaries (Braeburn Circle children are bused to Allen Elementary), Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High.

The Research Park/Pheasant Run neighborhood lies across Stone School Road from the Bryant neighborhood. It is an intensely research- and commercial-oriented area, with a single residential complex. The 472-unit Pheasant Run apartments, just south of I-94, house 100 percent of the neighborhood's residents. Median income is a little below average and schools are Bryant and Pattengill elementaries, Tappan Middle School, and Pioneer High. Research Park/Pheasant Run is located in the Fourth Ward.

52: Abbot School

This neighborhood lies on the far west side of town in the V-shaped area formed where M-14 and I-94 converge; Maple Road is its eastern edge. It includes the north end of the Stadium/Maple commercial strip, older homes south of Dexter Road, and the Hollywood Park subdivision to the north.

In Hollywood Park, off Maple along Hollywood and Sequoia Parkway, most of the houses are single-family two-story colonials, Cape Cods, ranches, and tri-levels, costing between $105,000 and $150,000. Farther west, out Dexter Road, houses come in a variety of ages and styles and sell for $70,000 to $150,000. South of Dexter Road just east of I-94 is the recently completed 168-unit Arbor Landings apartment complex. The Kelly Green condominiums are on Miller Road between Maple and M-14.

The Abbot School neighborhood is largely occupied by families—66 percent in the most recent survey. This neighborhood lies within the Fifth Ward. Schools are Abbot Elementary, Forsythe Middle School, and Pioneer High.

The Suburbs

Ann Arbor is still the demographic giant of Washtenaw County. With 109,592 residents in the 1990 census, it's home to 39 percent of the county's population. But growth is spilling over the freeway loop that marks the city's political boundary, and its dominance will inevitably dwindle as the county enters the twenty-first century. Already, the fastest population growth is occurring in nascent suburbs beyond the city. While the number of Ann Arbor residents increased minimally in the 1980's, the once wide-open townships surrounding the city have skyrocketed in population: between the 1980 and 1990 censuses, Pittsfield Township's population rose 36 percent. For Ann Arbor Township the figure was 38 percent, and for Scio Township the gain was a whopping 70 percent. Other nearby townships have experienced similar gains.

Ann Arbor Township/ Western Superior Township

These areas north and northeast of the city are thinly settled with expensive homes on large, semi-rural lots. That low-density development seems to suit existing residents just fine, but it's by no means clear that they can indefinitely resist pressures for more intense settlement, given their proximity to freeway access and to the burgeoning western Wayne County suburbs of Detroit. Ann Arbor Township is already home to two huge office parks on Plymouth Road west of Dixboro: the Ann Arbor Technology Park and Domino's Farms, the sprawling, Frank Lloyd Wright–influenced headquarters of Domino's Pizza. Development of expensive single-family homes remains very active in this area.

The 100-home Tanglewood community is located near the split between Plymouth and Ford roads. Recently built multi-story contemporary dwellings sell in the $250,000 to $600,000 range. The nearby hamlet of Dixboro has a small core of historic homes; they rarely come on the market, but one that did in 1993 sold for around $110,000. Smaller and newer Cape Cods on Dixboro's side streets sell for about $115,000.

South of Dixboro and the tech park are three major new residential developments. Laurel Gardens is a luxury condo development with semi-detached one- and two-story units in several different sizes. Farther south, near the intersection of Dixboro and Geddes roads, are the Arbors condominium project and the large Village Green luxury apartment complex.

South off Geddes Road, private drives wind away to the carefully isolated riverfront retreats of the wealthy. The elegant Towsley Farms and Geddes Glen developments offer homes in the $500,000 to $900,000 range. Farther north, off Gale Road, is the retreat-like Matthaei Farm community, with homes starting at $310,000; building sites are also available for $89,000 and up.

Schools for this area are Logan and King elementaries, Clague Middle School, and Huron High.

Pittsfield and Lodi Townships

South of Ann Arbor, the Briarwood area boom is moving out into Pittsfield Township. Big office parks have sprung up on State Road south of I-94, while the Ann Arbor–Saline Road–I-94 intersection has become a major retail area. South of I-94 off Oak Valley Drive, a new road connecting Scio Church and Ellsworth roads, lie the Oak Meadows and Weatherstone condominiums and the sizable colonial homes of the Briar Hill subdivision, which run from $200,000 to $365,000. The 168-unit Valley Ranch apartments are farther east on Oak Valley.

South on Lohr, past Ellsworth, is the massive new Stonebridge golf course and housing development. Plans call for 711 detached condominiums and single-family homes in this one-square-mile area. Prices for the condominiums start at $189,000; prices for the homes range from $260,000 to $650,000. Many of the sites back up to the golf course. Construction started in 1991 and is scheduled to continue through 1998. Two small developments are under way off Waters Road west of Ann Arbor–Saline Road, and more major projects are in the works between Ann Arbor and Saline.

Farther west in Pittsfield and neighboring Lodi townships, settlement remains sparse. Dotted with ranch houses and the occasional horse farm, the dirt roads in this part of the county look much as they did two or three decades ago.

Large areas of Pittsfield and Lodi townships are served by the Saline school district. Children in the new Stonebridge development, which lies right on the line dividing the Ann Arbor and Saline districts, attend Ann Arbor schools. Those students living in western Pittsfield (west of US-23) and Lodi townships who attend Ann Arbor schools are assigned to Lawton and Bryant elementaries, Slauson and Tappan middle schools, and Pioneer High.

East of Packard Road, Pittsfield Township is rapidly filling in with mostly modestly priced housing and apartment complexes. This area has become a sort of bedroom community for an increasingly hard-to-afford Ann Arbor, as well as Ypsilanti and points east. Saline Meadows on Michigan Avenue east of US-23, is a recently finished 148-lot mobile home park for home owners on a tight budget. Homes sell for $27,000 to $50,000 and lots rent for $265 to $285 a month. The older 122-lot Coachville trailer park is located on Carpenter Road just south of Packard with homes from $5,000 to $13,000 and lots rent for $237. Both parks have a fairly high turnover rate, making lots available on a regular basis.

The subdivision near Golfside and Ellsworth roads is composed mostly of small ranches, with a few large new houses mixed in. Prices range from $120,000 to $180,000. Homes along Golfside Road overlook the Washtenaw Country Club golf course. The new University Palisades subdivision off Ellsworth between Carpenter and Golfside roads offers ranches, colonials, and split-colonials, priced from about $170,000 to $200,000.

The Carpenter School neighborhood between Washtenaw Avenue and Packard Road east of Carpenter Road was one of the first parts of this area to be built up after World War II. The homes are mostly small frame structures and ranches that sell for $90,000 to $125,000. Farther south and east are smaller new developments and many apartment buildings.

Elementary schoolchildren are bused to Carpenter, Angell, Mitchell, Allen, and Pittsfield schools. The middle school is Scarlett; the high school is Huron.

Scio Township

This township directly west of Ann Arbor is bisected by Jackson Road, a fast-growing industrial and retail corridor. North of Jackson Road, major development is centered in the heavily rolling terrain near the Huron River. The River Pines and Timberwood subdivisions off Huron River Drive near Wagner Road include many homes that have sold for upwards of $300,000. Away from the river, the Parkridge Estates project, under construction off Wagner Road north of Miller, will include homes in the same price range. South of Miller on Wagner, homes in the new Scio Hills development sell for $215,000 to $290,000.

Older semi-rural subdivisions and individual houses are clustered on or near Dexter and Miller roads. These are mostly 15 to 25 years old and come in a wide variety of sizes, styles, and prices.

Scio's southern half is less thickly settled. Individual developments dot the landscape, often situated atop one of the rolling hills that cover the area. The Uplands of Scio Ridge, off Wagner Road north of Scio Church Road, includes homes from $210,000 to about $375,000; lots are also available. Two more major projects are Saginaw Hills, on Liberty Road west of Wagner Road, and the Polo Fields off Park Road near Zeeb. Farther out, Scio's still-numerous dirt roads are dotted with individual country houses, large and small.

The Parkwood condos, on Zeeb Road between Jackson and Park, sell for about $150,000 to $180,000. Smaller housing complexes (some with small older homes under $100,000) line Jackson Road, interspersed with strip centers and light industrial buildings. A major reservoir of affordable housing is Scio Farms Estates, a mobile home park off Jackson Road. All 853 lots were quickly filled after it opened in 1986. Homes resell at $25,000 to $65,000, and lot rents start at $255 a month.

Elementary schools for northern Scio Township are Abbot and Wines; students living south of I-94 attend Lawton. Middle schools are Forsythe and Slauson and the high school is Pioneer.

Barton Hills/ Northfield Township

Barton Hills, an enclave of 135 households on the north shore of the Huron River, is the most exclusive and expensive community in the Ann Arbor area. Thanks to its secluded location and semi-private legal structure, it stays out of sight and largely out of mind for most Ann Arborites.

Barton Hills was originally planned as a preserve of executive mansions by Detroit Edison, which in the 1920's laid out the beginnings of the community on land it owned north of Barton Dam. Today, Barton Hills is legally a village, but its streets and shared facilities are owned by a private home owners' association. As a result, Barton Hills is legally off-limits to outsiders; large signs at the village entrance on Whitmore Lake Road announce "no thoroughfare." Those with business in the village may enter, and membership in the magnificent Barton Hills Country Club is open to anyone with money to join. Those who opt for a social membership (which does not include golf course privileges) face a very short waiting list; a full residential membership involves a one-year wait.

Most of the village's formidable mansions, often in the English Tudor and cottage styles, were constructed during the 1930's. Architect-designed modernist showpieces from the 1950's and 1960's are also common, and a small amount of construction continues even today. The heavily wooded lots are several acres each. Home prices range from $300,000 to $800,000 and higher.

Despite their close proximity to downtown Ann Arbor, the portions of Northfield and southern Webster townships north and west of Barton Hills have long resisted development. But as the northern reaches of the city fill in, back roads here are increasingly dotted with large new homes. Older housing here for the most part is limited to farmhouses. Only a small number of these remain in the Ann Arbor school district, and they tend to turn over quickly when they do become available.

Schools for Barton Hills and the northern townships are Wines Elementary, Forsythe Middle School, and Pioneer High.

Apartment Guide

Rents and amenities at 107 apartment complexes. Complexes are grouped by location: central or outlying (see map p. 59). The central area is considered to be within walking distance of either downtown or one of the three U-M campuses.

Rents are current as of mid-1994. Year of construction is noted when available, and whether units are furnished (F) or unfurnished (U). Apartment complexes that allow pets are noted. Landlords often charge an additional fee for pets, in the form of either a security deposit or a monthly surcharge.

To locate a complex on the map, use the number and coordinates at the end of each listing. For example, the note 1, E4 at the end of the listing for Arbor Valley Apartments indicates that the complex is number 1 on the map and is located at the intersection of column E and row 4.

Talk with the decision maker.

When you call Countrywide's Branch Manager in our Ann Arbor office, you get the person with local authority to say "OK" and expedite processing, approval and funding of your loan locally.

We offer an aggressive product line — fixed-rates, adjustables, FHA/VA, jumbos, even balloons — and House America,® our low-to-moderate income program for first time buyers and others who might not have qualified in the past.

With Countrywide's Lock N' Shop,℠ you can house hunt with confidence knowing your rate is guaranteed. The rate can't go up, could even go down. And best of all, there are no extra points or fees for this guarantee.

Condo Guide

Features, prices, and monthly association fees at major condominium projects (over 20 units) in the Ann Arbor school district. Many smaller complexes have no management staff; when no phone number is listed, contact your realty agent to learn if any units are for sale. Monthly fee information is listed where available.

Prices are either estimates by local realty agents or developers' list prices, both as of July 1994. To locate a complex on the map, use the number at the end of each listing.

Clonlara School

Ann Arbor's progressive alternative since 1967 offers students, elementary through high school ages:

- a chance for their own opinions to be heard and respected
- a life experience beyond the "three R's"
- a chance to live and learn without coercion

Clonlara School offers the parent(s):

- a voice in the educational process
- an opportunity to directly participate in the process
- the chance to experience "school" as an extension of the home

Openings available for fall registration for all students 8 years to 18 years of age.

EMERSON SCHOOL

THE ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL FOR GIFTED AND TALENTED STUDENTS

Grades K-8

Students at Emerson School receive a strong academic education from an exceptional staff of caring teachers who support, challenge, inspire and encourage each individual to develop self-trust and the motivation for high personal standards both academically and socially. Emerson is a place where excellent teaching, exciting curriculum, and safe supportive environment enable students to take charge of and enjoy their own educations.

Trust, caring and respect for self and others are a focus of the Emerson program. Emerson respects and celebrates individual, intellectual, and cultural differences in all members of our community. We also value the training of students' hands and hearts for caring for others through a program of active school and community service.

We offer ...

A high quality Montessori program

- Children score 2-3 years above grade level. The longer children stay in school the better are their results.
- About 90% of our children return each year.
- Our teaching staff averages 18 years of experience.
- We do more with computers than any other school in the country. Computer to child ratio is 1 to 4.

Go Like the Wind! Montessori School

3540 Dixboro Lane, Ann Arbor, MI 48105
(1/2 mile from Domino's Farms)

Unique program

- A spiritually positive, morally safe environment.
- Our scholarship program helps deserving children and keeps a good social balance.
- Small school community atmosphere. Many opportunities for parent involvement.

A Go Like the Wind! education.
Think of it as a present you give to your child's future.

Public Schools

Public Schools Administration

Ann Arbor Public Schools administrative offices are located at 2555 S. State St. (994–2200). Superintendent John Simpson's office number is 994–2230. The schools' recorded transportation information hotline is 994–8683. (For school bus route information, call 994–2330.) Data on enrollment and principals are current as of July 1994. Alternative or open programs operate at Bach Elementary, Middle Years Alternative (housed in Forsythe Middle School), and Community High School. The Roberto Clemente Center also operates an alternative program for high school students. Contact schools directly for more information.

Each of the public elementary schools in Ann Arbor offers extended care for children before and/or after school. Contact individual elementaries directly.

To locate a school or child care center on the map on p. 77, use the number and coordinates at the end of each listing. For example, 1, B3 at the end of the listing for Abbot Elementary School means that the school is represented by the number 1 on the map and can be found at the intersection of column B and row 3.

Preschools

Preschool and Family Center, 344 Gralake Ave. 994–2303. Housed in the former Lakewood School, this public preschool for 3- and 4-year-olds from low-income families offers Head Start, preschool, and parents' programs. See listing under full-time child care centers.

Child Care Programs

The child care centers in this listing have been approved and licensed by the Michigan Department of Social Services (Washtenaw County). Ann Arbor also has approximately 350 smaller licensed day care homes, most caring for six or fewer children. Contact the Child Care Network or the Day Care Homes Association of Washtenaw County (see below) for listings.

All of the public elementary schools in Ann Arbor offer before-school and/or after-school care for children in grades K–5; for information and locations, contact individual schools. Those private schools offering extended care before or after school are noted in the list above with this symbol: ◷ For children and people ages 3–26 with developmental and physical disabilities there is an after-school program, the Just Us Club, at High Point Center, 1819 Wagner Rd. Call Mary Brady at 994–8100, ext. 1699, between 2 and 6 p.m.

The child care section has three parts. The first section lists community resources to help parents locate appropriate child care facilities. The second section lists child care centers offering full-time care. The third section lists centers offering only part-time care (including co-op nurseries). Costs quoted for full-time care centers are for a three-year-old child attending the center for full days, Monday through Friday. This figure represents the average cost of care at most Ann Arbor centers. Costs for younger children are usually higher; costs for older children are usually lower. Part-time centers and co-op prices are less standardized, reflecting each center's specific program. All centers take applications at any time, unless otherwise noted.

To locate a child care center on the map on p. 77, use the number and coordinates at the end of each listing. For example, the note 49, G6 at the end of the listing for Ann Arbor Hills Child Development Center means that the center is represented by the number 49 on the map and can be found at the intersection of column G and row 6.

B.A. indicates that all teachers at the center hold at least a B.A. in child development or a related field.

Drop-in indicates that drop-in child care is available.

◷ indicates centers that offer care before and/or after school hours for an additional charge over the standard weekly rate.

TT indicates that children must be toilet trained before enrollment in the program.

Values Guide Our Philosophy of Education

As a parent, you're the most important influence on your child's future. But what about other people in his or her life?

At a Catholic school, your child will receive an outstanding academic foundation from people who share your values. Nationally, Catholic school students outperform others on tests for math, reading and science. They also lead in graduation rates, and they're the most likely to go on to college.

Catholic school students also receive a solid moral and spiritual foundation. After all, Catholic schools have always believed Christian teachings belong in school.

Father Gabriel Richard High School prides itself on continuing in that Catholic Tradition, offering a quality college preparatory Catholic Education.

To learn how you can make this fine Catholic High School your choice for education, please call or write us today.

PETER YATES

Orchestra director Dan Long

Kids come first. The music is second.

"This is my thirty-second year of teaching," Dan Long says. "I have not worked once in my whole life."

Slauson Middle School's orchestra director radiates energy and good humor. "Your enthusiasm and your energy level has to be at a certain height, and your students will never reach that level," he explains. "If you're at a subdued level, they will be below that."

The six-foot-four, fifty-four-year-old teacher ("Long Mr. Long," one student calls him) has been Slauson's music man for twenty-seven years. He also teaches at Eberwhite and Lawton elementary schools. By now, a few of his current students are the sons and daughters of earlier students. He has taught thousands of children, and he says he remembers all of them.

Long is proud that several former students have gone on to play in professional orchestras or have become teachers themselves (one, Steve Roberts, is band director at Huron). And he tries to introduce all of his students to the larger world of music. He talks about the lives of famous composers, requires his students to listen to tapes of music and write their own "reviews," and encourages them to attend local concerts. (During intermissions at Hill Auditorium, Long always stands in the same spot so that his pupils can find him to talk about the concert.)

Yet as much as he loves music, Long says it comes second in his teaching philosophy. His students come first. "We must make sure we teach the whole child and not just the subject," he says.

"Children come in today with all the baggage and burdens. The latchkey children, the divorces, the drugs, AIDS. The list goes on! And we wonder why we don't have their undivided attention to B flat.

"Music is so personal! If you haven't got things right within you, how can you play wonderful joyous stuff?"

The music teacher knew his calling by the time he was a senior at tiny Mullen High School in rural Nebraska. He majored in instrumental music at Chadron State Teachers College in Nebraska and taught in a one-room schoolhouse in the town of Hay Springs, Nebraska, before attending graduate school at the University of Colorado in Boulder. In one class, there were only two students enrolled—Long and Kay Wardell, the woman he eventually married. Now Kay Long, she teaches music at several elementary schools in Ann Arbor. The couple has two grown children, Erik and Krista, both former students of their dad's.

Long says that his students know he can be stern on occasion. A few parents do, too. At the end of the year, Long awards each student a certificate—and he always encloses a congratulatory letter from the student's parents. Long makes certain that every student receives that letter. One time, when a student's mother had not written a letter, he even went to her home. "We sat at the kitchen table," he says, "and she wrote it."

Rec & Ed (994–2300) offers teen aerobic classes year-round.

Floor Hockey

Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation (971–6337) sponsors floor hockey leagues beginning in November for ages 5–12. Children ages 5 & 6 play Softee Hockey. Games are played on Saturdays. Call for current fee structure and times. The Jewish Community Center offers floor hockey instruction for ages 6–10 and sponsors a league in the fall. Call for fees and times.

Football

The Jewish Community Center (971–0990) offers football instruction for youth in the fall. Call for information.

Golf

The Department of Parks and Recreation (994–2780) offers combined instruction and league golf for ages 8 and up at three skill levels. Registration is held throughout April and classes begin in mid-June. Fees vary.

Gymnastics

Rec & Ed (994–2300, ext. 237) sponsors gymnastics classes year-round for boys and girls ages 4–14 (fee range is $24–$48). The Ann Arbor YMCA (663–0536) also offers gymnastics instruction year-round for ages 3 and up.

Two large private gymnastics centers are located in Ann Arbor. Gym America (4611 Platt Rd., 971–1667) offers gymnastics classes for kids age 3 and up for all levels of experience. A competitive team and a summer camp program are also offered. Call for fee and schedule information. The Jewish Community Center (971–0990) utilizes Gym America on Wheels to provide instruction for beginning and experienced gymnasts ages 3–10. The Michigan Academy of Gymnastics (3630 Plaza Dr., 761–7610) offers four gymnastics programs: preschool movement and gymnastics, developmental gymnastics (beginning through advanced), girls' competitive gymnastics, and cheerleading. Summer camps are available. Call for tuition.

Hockey

The Ann Arbor Amateur Hockey Association (996–8606) sponsors numerous age-group hockey leagues for boys and girls ages 6–18. Seasons run from October to May. Play is at Buhr Park Rink and Veterans Ice Arena. Fees are about $200 per player. Hockey instruction for beginners ages 6–12 is offered in the fall through the Department of Parks and Recreation (994–2780).

Drop-in hockey is available at Buhr Park (Department of Parks and Recreation, 994–2780) from November through March, weather permitting. Call for specific times; drop-in youth cost is $2.25.

Ice Skating

Instructional skating for preschoolers through adults is offered at Veterans Ice Arena (761–7240) through the Department of Parks and Recreation from September through the spring. The city also has skating lessons for beginning- or intermediate-level school-age children at the Buhr Park outdoor ice rink (971–3228) during the winter ($31 fee). The Jewish Community Center (971–0990) offers instruction during the winter months at Buhr Park's outdoor rink for ages 4–6. The Ann Arbor Figure Skating Club (668–6082) and the Department of Parks and Recreation (994–2780) provide instruction for ages 4 and up at Veterans Ice Arena. Call for fees and class offerings. Open skating is available at Veterans Arena, Buhr Park, Yost Ice Arena (U-M), and at other parks around the city. (See Recreation, p. 141.)

Martial Arts

The Ann Arbor YMCA offers classes in Aikido, Choi Kwang Do, Judo, Tibetan Martial Arts, and Karate for youths age 6 and up year-round. Many different experience levels are offered each session. Rec & Ed (994–2300, ext. 237) offers Tae Kwon Do classes year-round for beginning and experienced youths ages 7–12. The Jewish Community Center (971–0990) offers instruction in Korean-style Karate for youths age 6 and up. Call for fees.

Ann Arbor also has many private martial arts studios. See the Yellow Pages for a complete list.

Skateboarding

The Department of Parks and Recreation (994–2780) maintains a skateboard ramp at Veterans Park from mid-April to mid-October. Skateboarders must come equipped with helmets, knee pads, elbow pads, shoes, their own boards, and parental signed waivers (available at the ramp and at the Department of Parks and Recreation). The ramp is open Mon.–Fri. 3–7 p.m. when school is in session. On weekends, holidays, and during the summer, the hours are noon–7 p.m. Cost is $1.50 per day for children; memberships are available for avid users. Skateboarding is not allowed in some areas of downtown and in parts of the U-M Central Campus.

Sledding and Tobogganing

The Department of Parks and Recreation recommends sledding at Beckley, Buhr, Leslie, and Veterans parks, and at Huron Hills and Leslie Park golf courses (please avoid the greens). Burns Park provides a small hill for younger children. All sites are unsupervised. Sledding is not allowed in Nichols Arboretum.

Soccer

Rec & Ed (994–2300, ext. 222) sponsors fall and spring soccer leagues for boys and girls in grades 1–6. Registration for the fall is held in late July and the season begins in early September. Spring registration is held in February and play begins in April. The fee for either league is $39 ($47). The Ann Arbor Youth Soccer Association (AAYSA, 434–6210) also offers competitive house leagues for ages 8–18 in the spring and fall, competitive boys' and girls' travel teams for ages 11–18, and an instructional league for ages 5–7 in the spring, summer, and fall. Registration is in late April for spring, late June for summer, and late August for fall. Call the AAYSA information line for registration and fee information. The Ann Arbor YMCA (663–0536) offers soccer instruction for ages 6–11 in the fall, winter, and spring. Softball

Rec & Ed (994–2300, ext. 222) sponsors summer slow- and fast-pitch softball leagues for elementary and middle school children. Registration is in late April, and the season begins the first Monday after school is out. Elementary slow-pitch fees are $55 ($66) per child; middle school slow-pitch fees are $63 ($75). Fast-pitch high school girls' softball requires a $150 sponsorship fee, plus a $54 ($65) fee per team member. The JCC (971–0990) sponsors softball instruction for ages 6–10 in the spring. Children's softball diamonds are available at Creal, Las Vegas, Maryfield, Wellington, and Wurster parks. See map, p. 143.

Swimming

The Department of Parks and Recreation (994–2780) maintains one indoor pool, Mack Pool, year-round. Outdoor pools are open from Memorial Day through Labor Day at Fuller, Buhr, and Veterans parks. For locations, hours, and open-swim times, see Recreation, p. 141. The Competitive Swim Program for ages 8–17 is offered at Fuller Pool during the summer. Preseason conditioning begins in June, and training runs through August. Fees are between $94 and $168, depending on group level. Register at the Department of Parks and Recreation or by mail. Neighborhood competitive swim teams for youths age 5 and up provide instruction and competitive meets for swimmers with little or no prior competitive experience. A second team has been added this year for swimmers with one or more years of team experience. The Buhr Park Sharks, the Veterans Park Dolphins, and the Mack Mantarays swim from mid-June through August. The fee is $35 and registration is through the Department of Parks and Recreation. The Synchronized Swimming Program is held at Mack Pool during June and July for swimmers age 7 and up. Swimmers are separated into beginning and intermediate levels for instruction. The fee is $49; register at Mack Pool or by mail to the Department of Parks and Recreation. Basic swimming instruction for ages 3–6 is available at Mack Pool from September to June and at Fuller Pool during the summer ($20 fee). The Ann Arbor YMCA (663–0536) offers swim classes year-round throughout the year for kids from infant beginners over 6 months (shrimps) to advanced swimmers (sharks). Youth synchronized swimming instruction is offered in the spring for age 6 and up. Lifeguard training is available for advanced swimmers. Call for fee and schedule information. Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation (971–6337) offers swim classes for all ages, including infants, year-round. Class fees are $31. The Jewish Community Center (971–0990) sponsors swimming instruction at the Ann Arbor YMCA for age 3 and up. Rec & Ed offers instructional swimming classes year-round for children 6 months and up. Fees are $22 ($26).

Tennis

Rec & Ed (994–2300, ext. 233) offers beginning and intermediate tennis instruction for youths in grades 4–9 during the spring and the fall ($17 fee). Instruction for youths in grades K–10 and competitive play for grades 6–9 are offered in the summer (fees $12–$33). Participants prepare for the citywide junior tennis tournament held in July.

Track

Rec & Ed (994–2300, ext. 237) sponsors a track program for youths in grades 3–5 in the spring, which culminates in a citywide fun run. The fee is $35.

Volleyball

The Ann Arbor YMCA (663–0536) offers instructional and competitive volleyball. Call for ages and schedule. ■

THERE ARE THREE TIMES AS MANY DOCTORS HERE.

AND HERE'S WHERE MOST OF THEM ARE.

Welcome to Ann Arbor. As a world-renowned health center, it's probably no surprise that there are three times as many doctors here as the national average. But what you may not know as a newcomer is that many of them are Care Choices HMO doctors. In fact, Care Choices has more doctors and hospitals in the Ann Arbor area than any other HMO.

And with Care Choices HMO, there are no claim forms, no deductibles and just a small copayment (if any at all) for office visits.

When it's time for you to choose a health care plan, go where most of Ann Arbor is. Care Choices HMO. Please call our Member Services at 1-800-852-9780.

Health Care

Ann Arbor's giant medical complexes are gearing up for change. Both the University of Michigan Medical Center and the Catherine McAuley Health System, parent of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, are swiftly building the comprehensive, integrated health networks needed to provide the kind of community-based managed care the Clinton administration favors. One result is that the hospitals are now positioning to take on traditional medical insurers in the competition for medical insurance dollars.

Care Choices, the health maintenance organization affiliated with Catherine McAuley, is the second-largest nonprofit provider-based HMO in the country, according to a 1993 survey in Modern Healthcare magazine. Current statewide membership is 137,700, and over 90,000 of them live in Washtenaw County. M-Care, the University of Michigan's HMO, also is growing rapidly: as of mid-1994 approximately 60,000 people were covered under an M-Care plan. New clinics and services become available all the time.

Many of the clinics and health centers listed below accept a wide variety of insurance coverage. Others accept only one kind, or none. In some cases, major credit cards are accepted for payment. Call ahead to find out what insurance and payment options are accepted.

For health-related support groups, see Community Services, p. 111. Emergency phone numbers are listed on p. 200.

Pediatric emergency care isn't child's play.

Our pediatric emergency specialists are trained to provide the best medical care.

Children require different emergency medical care than adults. C. S. Mott Children's Emergency Services, located at University Hospital's Emergency Department, has the specialists and unique medical equipment needed to treat children.

C. S. Mott Children's Emergency Services has been verified by the American College of Surgeons as a level one pediatric trauma center–one of only two in Michigan. Our pediatric emergency specialists have the most extensive training and experience in the Ann Arbor area.

Urgent care is also available for minor injuries and illnesses. Our emergency and urgent care services include follow up with your pediatrician or family doctor.

Our specialized children's emergency service is another example of our continued commitment to provide the highest quality emergency care–quickly and compassionately.

For your convenience, free parking is always available at the Emergency Department entrance.

Treating the Nation's Headaches Since 1978

Description: Catherine McAuley Health System is a comprehensive health care system that encompasses inpatient services, an outpatient care network, home care, senior services, and managed health care. CMHS units include St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, McPherson Hospital in Howell, and Saline Community Hospital, as well as outpatient facilities in Washtenaw, Livingston, and western Wayne counties. CMHS recently signed a joint operating agreement with Providence Hospital and Medical Centers, based in Southfield, that will expand the service areas of both organizations.

The main CMHS complex, between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, is the site of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, the Reichert Health Building, the Senior Health Building, the McAuley Family Birth Place, the McAuley Rehabilitation Institute, the Huron Oaks Building, and three recently opened facilities, the Robert H. and Judy Dow Alexander Cancer Care Center, the Michigan Heart & Vascular Institute, and the Michigan Orthopedic Center.

A private, not-for-profit institution, CMHS is a division of the Sisters of Mercy Health Corporation. As a Catholic affiliate, CMHS has policies that prohibit its staff from dispensing and prescribing contraceptives and performing vasectomies, female sterilizations, and elective abortions.

Parking and shuttle service: Parking at the Reichert Health Building and most other patient facilities is free. The visitor lot nearest the hospital tower charges a 50¢ exit fee. All lots have reserved senior and handicapped spaces.

Free shuttle buses circle the complex throughout the day, stopping at parking lots, shelters, and building entrances to pick up pedestrians. If you are inside one of the buildings and want to expedite transportation, dial extension 3344 on the in-house phone and a bus will be dispatched. Buses run Mon.–Fri. 8:30 a.m.–8 p.m. and Sat. & Sun. 9 a.m.–5 p.m.

Let our family take care of your family

Our doctors, nurses and other family health care professionals are available to meet all of your family's routine health care needs through University of Michigan Medical Center offices in your neighborhood.

If you've ever had a serious medical condition, there's been no question where you've gone for treatment — the U-M Medical Center. Then why settle for anything less in a family doctor?

We have family health care centers in Brighton, Chelsea, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor (Briarwood and Northeast). We'll also be in other locations soon.

Of course the centers provide the same quality, expert care that you would expect from any U-M Medical Center facility.

For more information, please call the center in your community.

Emergency Services: 936–6666
Pediatric Emergency: 936–4230
General Information: 936–4000
Patient Information: 936–4000

How to get there: The UMMC is located between the U-M Central and North campuses. It is accessible from Fuller Road, Maiden Lane, Glen Avenue, or Observatory Street. AATA bus routes #2 (Plymouth Rd.), #4 (Washtenaw Ave.), and #14 (Geddes Ave.–Stadium Blvd.) serve the UMMC.

Fuller Road intersects E. Medical Center Drive, which leads into the Medical Center from the north.

Signs on westbound Washtenaw Avenue in the campus area direct drivers to the UMMC via Observatory Street and Zina Pitcher Place.

Description: The UMMC includes the U-M Medical School, whose faculty serves as the hospitals' medical staff. The hospitals in turn provide educational and research facilities for students and faculty. UMMC researchers win more than $200 million in research grants each year. It ranks tenth in National Institutes of Health funding among all universities in the United States and second among public universities. As a research institution, the UMMC can offer new and experimental treatments not available elsewhere. Patients at a research hospital may also find themselves being scrutinized and discussed by medical students and faculty.

The Medical Center comprises a network of specialty hospitals and the adult general hospital; the Taubman Center, housing over 120 specialty outpatient clinics; several other outpatient clinics; the Taubman Medical Library; and many research facilities. There are over 1,500 physicians, including residents and interns, and more than 1,500 nurses on the UMMC's medical staff. They handle more than 800,000 patient visits each year. Numerous clinics affiliated with the UMMC are located throughout Ann Arbor and surrounding communities.

Parking and Shuttle Service: The Patient/ Visitor Parking Deck is next to the Taubman Center and the main entrance to University Hospital. An adjacent deck, also open to visitors, serves the new Maternal and Child Health Center. Decks are staffed 24 hours a day. Parking costs 60¢ for the first three hours, 25¢ for each of the next three hours, and $1 for each of the last two hours, with a maximum daily charge of $4.50. Parking decks are free to individuals with handicapped stickers. Valet parking is available at the main entrance of University Hospital from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. (ask at the desk). Cars may be retrieved anytime before 7 a.m. the next day. Cost for valet parking is $6 a day or fraction ($2.50 with handicapped sticker).

Free shuttle buses run between the many medical campus buildings. The North Ingalls Building–Mott/Women's shuttle runs every 20 minutes 6:45 a.m.–5:15 p.m. The Riverview–Kellogg Eye–Taubman–C.A.P.H. shuttle runs every 30 minutes 8 a.m.–8:30 p.m. The Main Entrance–V.A. Hospital shuttle runs approximately every 30 minutes 8:20 a.m.–5:15 p.m. All U-M buses running between North Campus and Central Campus make stops at the Kresge Medical Research Complex near University Hospital.

Note: Facilities are located on the Medical Center campus unless otherwise noted. For chemical dependency treatment facilities, see p. 105. For mental illness treatment, see p. 108.

Comprehensive Cancer Center. 936–9583. Diagnosis, consultation, treatment, and research for a variety of cancers. Multidisciplinary clinics throughout the Medical Center treat breast cancer, prostate cancer, skin cancer, head and neck cancers, and lymphoma, among others. Plans call for consolidation of all cancer clinics in a new building by summer 1996.

Huron Valley Visiting Nurses, 2850 S. Industrial Hwy., Suite 75. 677–1515. See Hospice and Home Health Care, p. 107.

Kellogg Eye Center, 1000 Wall St. 763–8122. Provides inpatient and outpatient eye care, as well as education and research. Patients typically are referred here by community ophthalmologists; nonreferred patients can make appointments in the eye clinic.

Maternal and Child Health Center. This center, which comprises four of the Medical Center's seven hospitals (in adjacent buildings), provides specialty care for women, infants, children, and adolescents. Child and Adolescent Psychiatric Hospital (764–7269) provides short-term treatment for mood and developmental disorders, autism, and depression. It also offers an infant and early childhood care program and an early adolescence clinic. (See also Mental Illness, p. 108.) Holden Perinatal Hospital (936–4000) provides care for newborns and infants. Mott Children's Hospital (936–4000) treats childhood diseases and illnesses. And Women's Hospital (936–4000) offers obstetrical care for normal and high-risk pregnancies.

MedSport, 24 Frank Lloyd Wright Dr. at Domino's Farms. 998–7400. Offers programs in sports medicine (998–7405), cardiac rehabilitation (998–7400), and executive health (998–7400). Comprehensive fitness assessments are also available.

Michigan Diabetes Research and Training Center. 763–4156. Primarily a research facility, this center also offers outpatient services to diabetics, including diagnosis, intensive insulin therapy, and treatment of illnesses associated with diabetes. A ten-part series of classes is open to the public and costs $260; call 936–8279.

Overseas Immunizations. 936–5491. Appointment line, 936–5580. Nurses are available Tues. & Thurs. 8:30–11 a.m. to provide travelers' health services; call any weekday for an appointment.

Taubman Center. 936–4990. This is the UMMC's primary outpatient facility. It houses more than 120 specialty outpatient clinics.

TeleCare. 763–9000 or (800) 742–2300. This service, accessible to those with Touch-Tone telephones, provides recorded information about the Medical Center 24 hours a day. During clinic hours, callers can be connected directly to staff of various clinics. Recorded info includes directions to the center, parking advice, information about specific hospitals, and descriptions of various health issues, programs, and services. (See the TeleCare directory ad on p. 100–102.)

Turner Geriatric Services Medical Clinic, 1010 Wall St. 764–6831. This outpatient facility for the U-M Geriatric Center provides comprehensive health evaluations, specialty and primary care, social work, and a number of outreach services to people over age 60. No referral is needed.

U-M Health Centers. See Health Care Clinics, p. 98, for health centers in Ann Arbor. Other centers are in Northville, Plymouth, Brighton, and Chelsea.

University Health Service, 207 Fletcher St. 763–8320. See Health Care Clinics, p. 98.

University Hospital. 936–4000. The UMMC's primary adult medical and surgical hospital, also referred to as the Main Hospital, has 558 beds. Viewed from Fuller Road, this is the huge white fortress-like building with the long horizontal windows. The hospital admitted 34,124 patients during the 1992–1993 fiscal year.

Visiting hours: General: 11 a.m.–8 p.m. daily. Intensive Care Unit: depends upon patient's status.

Veterans Hospital

Veterans Administration Medical Center, 2215 Fuller Rd. 769–7100. Provides medical, surgical, psychiatric, and rehabilitative care on an inpatient and outpatient basis to eligible veterans of U.S. military service who reside in southeastern Michigan and northwestern Ohio. A walk-in clinic, open Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–4:30 p.m., is located on the first floor near the ambulance entrance. Parking is free.

Description: In recent years, the VA medical center has been shifting its focus from inpatient care to outpatient services to keep up with the changing needs of its patients. An ongoing five-year expansion project will culminate with a new clinical building scheduled for completion in May 1997.

Urgent Care Clinics

The following facilities provide treatment for non-life-threatening illnesses and non-traumatic injuries on a walk-in basis. People needing emergency care at any time or urgent care after clinic hours should go to the 24-hour emergency rooms at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital (712–3000) or University Hospital (936–6666).

Family Care Associates (formerly Hewitt Medical Center), Hewitt Rd. at Packard Rd. 434–8900. Primarily a family practice clinic, the center also treats walk-in patients and provides urgent care. Mon.–Thurs. 9 a.m.–5 p.m.; Fri. 9 a.m.–3 p.m.; Sat. 9 a.m.–noon.

First Care Medical Clinic, 2755 Carpenter Rd. 971–7694. Urgent care and private general medical care for walk-in patients and by appointment. Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–10 p.m.; Sat. 9 a.m.–5 p.m.; Sun. noon–5 p.m.

McAuley Pediatric Urgent Care, next to the Urgent Care entrance at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. 712–2786. Mon.–Fri. 9 a.m.–11 p.m.; Sat. noon–11 p.m.; Sun. and holidays 9 a.m.–11 p.m.

McAuley Urgent Care. Two Ann Arbor locations. Just inside the emergency room of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital 712–3952. Daily 8 a.m.–11:30 p.m. And the Maple Health Building at the corner of Maple and Dexter roads 662–5222. Daily 8 a.m.–10 p.m.

Pediatric Emergency Service (formerly Pediatric Walk-In Clinic), just inside the University Hospital emergency entrance. 936–4230. Treats minor traumatic injuries and medical emergencies for children up to age 14. Free parking in the emergency lot. Daily 8 a.m.–11:30 p.m.

U-M Hospital Urgent Care, just inside the University Hospital emergency entrance. 936–5642. Patients are screened by emergency room staff; non-traumatic injuries and non-life-threatening illnesses are referred to this clinic. Free parking in the emergency lot. Open daily 9 a.m.–9 p.m. (This is the only urgent care location associated with the U-M Medical Center.)

Health Care Clinics

Clinics listed here are affiliated with area hospitals and universities. For other clinics, of private family practice physicians, see the Yellow Pages.

Henry Ford Medical Center, 2755 Carpenter Rd., second floor. 973–3090. This primary care clinic, a satellite of the Henry Ford Medical Center in Detroit, offers family practice, internal medicine, and pediatric services. Referrals for other care are made to local physicians and services. Mon.–Thurs. 9 a.m.–9 p.m.; Fri. 9 a.m.–6 p.m. (5 p.m. in summer); Sat. 9 a.m.–3 p.m.

Dawn Farm (Chemical Dependency)

Neighborhood Health Clinic. 201 S. Hamilton St., Ypsilanti. 482–9800. Supported by Catherine McAuley Health System, this clinic offers health services to Ypsilanti residents, including the economically disadvantaged. Appointments required. Mon. & Fri. 1–3:30 p.m.; Tues. & Thurs. 10 a.m.–3:30 p.m.; Wed. 9 a.m.–3:30 p.m.

U-M Health Centers. These clinics serve M-Care HMO members and are open to the public by appointment. Both have lab and X-ray capabilities, and both employ three to four nurse practitioners to facilitate care.

Briarwood Family Practice, 325 Briarwood Cir. 998–7390. A family practice clinic with outpatient surgery capabilities. Mon., Tues., & Thurs. 8:30–11:30 a.m., 1–4:30 p.m., and 5:30–7:45 p.m.; Wed. 1–4:30 p.m. and 5:30–7:45 p.m.; Fri. 9–11:30 a.m. and 1–4:30 p.m.; Sat. 9 a.m.–12:45 p.m.

Northeast Ann Arbor, 2200 Green Rd. 998–7485. Family practice, internal medicine, pediatrics, and ob/gyn care. All patients are seen by appointment. Mon. & Tues. 8:30 a.m.–8 p.m.; Wed., Thurs., and Fri. 8:30 a.m.–5 p.m.; Sat. 8:30–noon.

University Health Service (U-M), 207 Fletcher St. 764–8325 (appointments); 764–8320 (information line). For further information, call 763–1320. Provides medical services to current U-M students. Ex-students may join a prepaid health plan for up to a year after their last enrollment. Faculty and staff who are M-Care HMO members also may use UHS services without further fees. There are fees, however, for routine eye exams, immunizations, and pharmaceuticals.

UHS also sees alumni, faculty, staff, U-M retirees, and their spouses, significant others, and dependents over ten years old on a fee basis.

Appointments are encouraged, since walk-in visits frequently require a lengthy wait. Fall and winter term hours: Mon., Tues., Wed., & Fri. 8 a.m.–4:30 p.m.; Thurs. 9 a.m.–4:30 p.m.; Sat. 9 a.m.–noon. Spring and summer term hours: Mon., Tues., Wed., & Fri. 8:30 a.m.–4:30 p.m.; Thurs. 9 a.m.– 4:30 p.m.; Sat. 9 a.m.–noon.

HMO's and PPO's

Health Maintenance Organizations (HMO's) and Preferred Provider Organizations (PPO's) are alternatives to traditional health care insurance. A PPO offers health care from a network of physicians and hospitals. Members may seek care from outside the network, but must pay more if they do. HMO's provide more restrictive care: a patient is assigned to a primary care physician who coordinates care and must authorize referrals to specialists. On behalf of employers, HMO's and PPO's contract with physicians, clinics, hospitals, and other health care providers to supply health care for their employees. In Michigan, each HMO must must include a certain percentage of individual subscribers; see listings below for information on enrollment periods for individuals.

Care Choices, 2000 Hogback Rd., Suite 15. This HMO, a subsidiary of Mercy Health Services is affiliated locally with the Catherine McAuley Health System and with Chelsea, Saline, and McPherson hospitals. Other Michigan offices are in Brighton, Lansing, Troy, Muskegon, and Grand Rapids. Statewide membership as of the beginning of 1994 was 137,700; membership in Washtenaw County was 90,000.

Open enrollment for individual subscribers takes place at this office the last two weeks in November; call 971–7667 in early October for information. Businesses interested in information on Care Choices membership for their employees can call 971–7667. People who are already Care Choices members, or who are currently being offered membership through their employers, can call (800) 852–9780, Mon.–Fri. 8:30 a.m.–4:30 p.m., for information.

M-Care, 3601 Plymouth Rd. 747–8700. A managed-care organization sponsored by the University of Michigan, M-CARE offers an HMO and a Point of Service Plan (allowing visits to providers outside the HMO for higher co-payments) to businesses and individuals in Jackson, Genesee, Lapeer, Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, Washtenaw, Wayne, Saginaw, Shiawassee, and St. Clair counties. It is affiliated with 30 hospitals and has more than 2,000 doctors in its physician network. Approximately 60,000 people are covered under an M-CARE plan. Individual enrollment in M-CARE's HMO takes place during an annual Beyer is proud to offer Certified Nurse-Midwives as an alternative to traditional childbirth.

Wouldn't it be wonderful to be taken care of during your pregnancy and birth by someone highly educated and specially trained, who is as nurturing as a best friend?

• At Beyer, our Certified Nurse-Midwives help you create that relationship. They'll teach you about nutrition, prenatal care, and mother care. They'll be a friend - who can provide you with the help and support you need.

• And because they're affiliated with Beyer, you'll have the opportunity to deliver your baby in one of our birthing rooms. Plus, you'll receive full support from our obstetrics department, if needed.

• So come to Beyer and meet one of our Certified Nurse-Midwives.

• For more information on the midwife program at Beyer or to make an appointment, call 484-2475.
Most major insurances accepted.

Preferred Choices, 2000 Hogback Rd., Suite 15. 971–7667. This PPO, administered by Mercy Alternative, Inc., is affiliated locally with the Catherine McAuley Health System and the Huron Valley Physicians Association, and is part of Mercy Health Services. There are four basic PPO plans from which to choose: a fully administered PPO; PrePriced; direct contracting; and Preferred Choices Options, a PPO with care coordinated by a primary care physician. Preferred Choices is offered throughout Michigan and in parts of Iowa. Membership, including Iowa, was over 35,000 at the beginning of 1994.

Preferred Health Partners, 2000 Hogback Rd., Suite 9. 677–6790. Owned by the Allegiance Corporation, a company jointly owned by the Catherine McAuley Health System and the Huron Valley Physicians Association, this PPO currently offers coverage only to businesses and insurance carriers. Coverage includes all of Washtenaw and Livingston counties and parts of Oakland, western Wayne, and Jackson counties. Participating hospitals include CMHS, Chelsea, Saline, Herrick, and McPherson. Membership in mid-1994 was approximately 5,000.

Health Services

Washtenaw County Human Services Group, Health Services

The county's Health Services Group offers a wide range of medical and health-related programs at various locations throughout Washtenaw County. Some services are still free to county residents, but donations are now requested by many programs. For general information, call 484–7200.

Community Mental Health Services. Adult services by appointment at 2140 Ellsworth Rd., Ann Arbor, 971–2282. Child and adolescent services by appointment at 2940 Ellsworth Rd., Ypsilanti, 971–9605. Substance abuse treatment and prevention services, 484–6620. Assault crisis center (rape crisis services available 24 hours a day), 483–7273. For any other questions call Lucy Ann Howard, director, at 484–6620. Emergency 24-hour walk-in treatment is available at the University Hospital Psychiatric Emergency Service, 996–4747.

Public Health Clinics. 484–7200. Programs include communicable disease control and tuberculosis clinic, 484–7217; immunizations at walk-in clinics, 484–7219, and by appointment at two locations, 484–7200 (please note: no immunizations for overseas travel); influenza vaccinations, 484–7200; handicapped children's services and childrens' special health care services, 485–7215; family planning, infant mortality prevention, prenatal and postpartum care, maternal support services, infant support services, school and work-site health education, school hearing and vision testing, 484–7200; sexually transmitted diseases (STD) clinic and HIV/AIDS counseling and testing, 484–6760; well child clinic and Medicaid screening clinic, 484–7200; supplemental food program for women, infants, and children (WIC), Ann Arbor, 971–1300, Ypsilanti, 484–6770; and Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) education, 484–7200.

Washtenaw County Public Health Division (Children's Special Health Care Services). 484–7215. Offers financial assistance to families with chronically ill children, newborn through age 21. Also helps families process applications for these services.

Alternative Medicine

Birth Services. See also Childbirth, Family Planning, and Adoption in Community Services, p. 111. At the Nurse-Midwifery Service of the UMMC Obstetrics and Gynecology Department, six certified nurse-midwives deliver approximately 300 babies annually. This service is billed through normal U-M Hospital channels and thus is acceptable to many insurance companies; M-Care members also may use the service. For information, call 763–2311. Informed Birth and Parenting offers referrals to midwives, childbirth educators, and labor support. Also offers training and certification for childbirth educators and childbirth assistants. New this year is a bookstore with hard-to-find books and videos on pregnancy, birth, and early childhood. Call 662–6857, or write P.O. Box 3675, AA 48106. Trusting Nature, 128 N. Seventh St., offers lay midwifery services, including prenatal care and home birth. Also, classes in prepared childbirth and homeopathy, and a lending library. Call Patty Brennan, 668–0016.

Chiropractors. Call the Michigan Chiropractic Council, (800) 722–1513, for a referral anywhere in the state. The East Stadium Chiropractic Health Center (971–1777) answers general questions about chiropractic issues and provides referrals.

Directories—Alternative Therapies. Crazy Wisdom Bookstore, 206 N. Fourth Ave. (665–2757), maintains a list of "Health and Healing Resources in Ann Arbor." Kept in a binder available for use in the store, the list includes names of practitioners of old standbys like Rolfing and Acupressure and of such new methods as Reiki, Iridology, and Group Psychodrama. Seva, a health food market and restaurant at 314 E. Liberty St. (662–1111), sells a larger directory covering southeast Michigan, Michigan's Alternative Resource Guide, for $5.95.

Chemical Dependency

Only treatment programs are listed here. For support groups (such as Alcoholics Anonymous), see Substance Abuse Support Groups in Community Services, p. 111.

Chelsea Arbor Outpatient Services in Ann Arbor, 905 W. Eisenhower Circle, Suite 102. 930–0201. Most insurance accepted; sliding-scale fees available.

Dental Services

Community Dental Center, 406 N. Ashley St. 663–6626. A nonprofit clinic staffed by the U-M and co-sponsored by the City of Ann Arbor. Low- and moderate-income Ann Arbor residents are eligible for grant money to be applied toward their fees. Other funding is available to Washtenaw County residents, and discounts are offered to seniors. Open to new patients. Dental insurance is accepted. Open Mon., Tues., & Wed. 8 a.m.–5:30 p.m.; Thurs. 8 a.m.–7 p.m.; Fri. 8 a.m.–1 p.m.

U-M School of Dentistry, 1101 North University Ave. at Fletcher St. 764–1516. Every year the U-M School of Dentistry treats more than 18,000 people from throughout the state at a reasonable cost. Patients should recognize that, since the school is a teaching facility, appointments and treatment may take longer than in a private practice. Student dentists are supervised and evaluated by specialists. You should expect to spend a full half-day for each visit once treatment begins.

A patient is first evaluated (plan on two hours for this). If the patient is accepted, X-rays are taken and a complete dental exam scheduled. Before care begins, a cost estimate is provided. To arrange your first visit (including patients interested only in having their teeth cleaned), call 764–1516. Clinic hours are Mon.–Fri. 9 a.m.–noon. and 1–5 p.m.

The School of Dentistry emergency clinic operates on a walk-in basis and treats the most serious needs first. For emergency appointment information call 763–3374.

There is parking reserved for School of Dentistry patients in designated areas on the second and third levels of the Fletcher Street parking structure.

Washtenaw District Dental Society. 761–2445. Refers callers to dentists who practice in the Washtenaw County area. Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.– 5 p.m.

Family Planning

Planned Parenthood of Mid-Michigan, 3100 Professional Dr. Clinic: 973–0155; office: 973–0710. Nonprofit reproductive health care center providing gynecological exams and pap smears, birth control information and supplies, free pregnancy testing and counseling, natural family planning, abortions, vasectomies, testing and treatment for sexually transmitted diseases, anonymous HIV/AIDS testing and counseling, services for menopausal women; also, public speakers and peer educators in local high schools. Sliding-scale fees. Mon. & Fri. 8:30 a.m.–5 p.m.; Tues., Wed., & Thurs. 8:30 a.m.–8 p.m.; Sat. 8:30 a.m.–2 p.m.

Head Pain

Michigan Head-Pain & Neurological Institute (MHNI), 3120 Professional Dr. 973–1155. With its affiliated inpatient unit at Chelsea Community Hospital, this outpatient facility provides intensive treatment of headaches and related disorders. A referral is preferred but not required.

Hospice and Home Health Care

This section lists Medicare/Medicaid-certified hospice care providers for the terminally ill, as well as hospital-affiliated and nonprofit home health care providers for patients with non-life-threatening illnesses. Local hospice and home nursing agencies often share parent companies, facilities, and staff; in these cases, they are listed together. For additional listings, look under Nurses in the Yellow Pages; for nonmedical in-home and day care facilities, see Adult Day & Respite Care in Community Services, p. 111.

Amicare Home Health Care. 741–5700. Affiliated with the Catherine McAuley Health System, this agency provides in-home health care, therapy, and equipment for frail, ill, or disabled people.

Arbor Hospice and Personalized Nursing Service, 3810 Packard Rd., Suite 200. 677–0500. Arbor Hospice is a nonprofit organization assisting families with the home care of terminally ill patients. Registered nurses, health aides, clergy, and therapists on staff. The Bridge of Hope Resource Center and ongoing bereavement and grief recovery support groups (organized by age) are open to anyone free of charge. Personalized Nursing Service specializes in home care for seriously ill people.

Hospice of Washtenaw, 806 Airport Blvd. 741–5777. A branch of Amicare Hospice Services, Inc., a nonprofit organization affiliated with the Catherine McAuley Health System. Provides home care for the terminally ill and support for their families. Bereavement and grief recovery workshops are open to anyone free of charge.

Huron Valley Visiting Nurses, 2850 S. Industrial Hwy., Suite 75. 677–1515. Private, not-for-profit organization comprised of two home nursing agencies affiliated with the U-M Medical Center. Services include adult health care, maternal/child health services, and rehabilitation services. Visiting Care provides hourly private-duty care. The Visiting Nurse Association is a Medicare/Medicaid-certified agency providing skilled, regulated care.

Individualized Home Nursing Care, Inc., 3003 Washtenaw Ave., Suite 2. 971–0444. This agency provides visiting registered and licensed nurses, physical therapists, medical social workers, dieticians, and certified home health aides, as well as health care education for clients and their families. Individualized Hospice is an affiliated not-for-profit agency providing care for the terminally ill and bereavement support for families. Individualized Home Care, Inc., Suite 5, 971–4200, is a related agency offering 24-hour custodial care. Sliding-scale fees for all services.

Skilled Home Health Care, 118 S. Washington St., Ypsilanti. 483–1418. This nonprofit agency sponsored by Child and Family Service of Washtenaw provides registered nurses, psychiatric nurses, physical therapists, occupational therapists, speech therapists, medical social workers, and certified home health aides to assist ill, frail elderly, or disabled people. Medicare, Medicaid, and other insurances accepted.

Sexually Transmitted Diseases

AIDS/STD Clinic (Washtenaw County Human Services Group, Health Services Group), 555 Towner Blvd., Suite 149, Ypsilanti. 484–6760. Open four times a week, this clinic provides free (donations accepted) diagnosis and treatment of sexually transmitted diseases and anonymous and confidential HIV/AIDS testing and counseling. A Wednesday evening STD clinic, staffed by U-M and CMHS doctors, also offers HIV/AIDS counseling. On the first Wednesday evening of the month, the clinic treats women only.

HIV/AIDS counseling and testing is generally by appointment (walk-ins can't count on being seen). Appointments can be booked Mon. 9 a.m.–5 p.m. (usually two weeks in advance). Call early; slots usually fill up by noon. The STD clinic operates on a first-come, first-served walk-in basis Mon. & Thurs. 6:30–9 p.m.; Wed. 9–11:30 a.m. and 6–8 p.m. A one-hour marriage class is offered every Thurs. 6–7 p.m. The class offers the state-mandated counseling on HIV and STD's that Michigan couples must receive in order to obtain the health certificate required for a marriage license application. Call for an appointment; fees are $15/individual or $25/couple.

University Health Service, 207 Fletcher St. 763–4511. The U-M Health Service conducts an HIV/AIDS counseling and testing program. Individuals wanting to be tested are encouraged to attend a one-hour HIV/AIDS Education Session. Sessions are held during the week in the third-floor conference room, at times posted in the Nurse Clinic and included on the HIV testing information tape (764–8320). Those who are unable to attend one of the scheduled education sessions, or who are uncomfortable with a group format, can obtain an individual appointment with a counselor. Once the class is completed, patients can be tested anonymously (using an assumed name) and confidentially on a first-come, first-served walk-in basis. There's no fee for enrolled U-M students or UHS prepaid health plan members. The fee for staff, faculty, and community residents is $35. Call for hours.

For University Health Service hours see listing p. 103.

HIV/AIDS Resource Center (HARC), 3075 Clark Rd., Suite 207, Ypsilanti. 572–9355. The only agency of its kind in the county, HARC provides services to persons living with HIV and serves as a community clearinghouse for HIV-related information. Support groups, information and referral, a buddies program, housekeeping, a food bank, respite for caregivers, hospital visitation and transportation services, and emergency financial assistance. New this year is a Case Management Program staffed by professional social workers who help people to receive the services they need. HARC operates a speakers' bureau and offers educational seminars on HIV. Serves Washtenaw, Livingston, Jackson, and Lenawee counties.

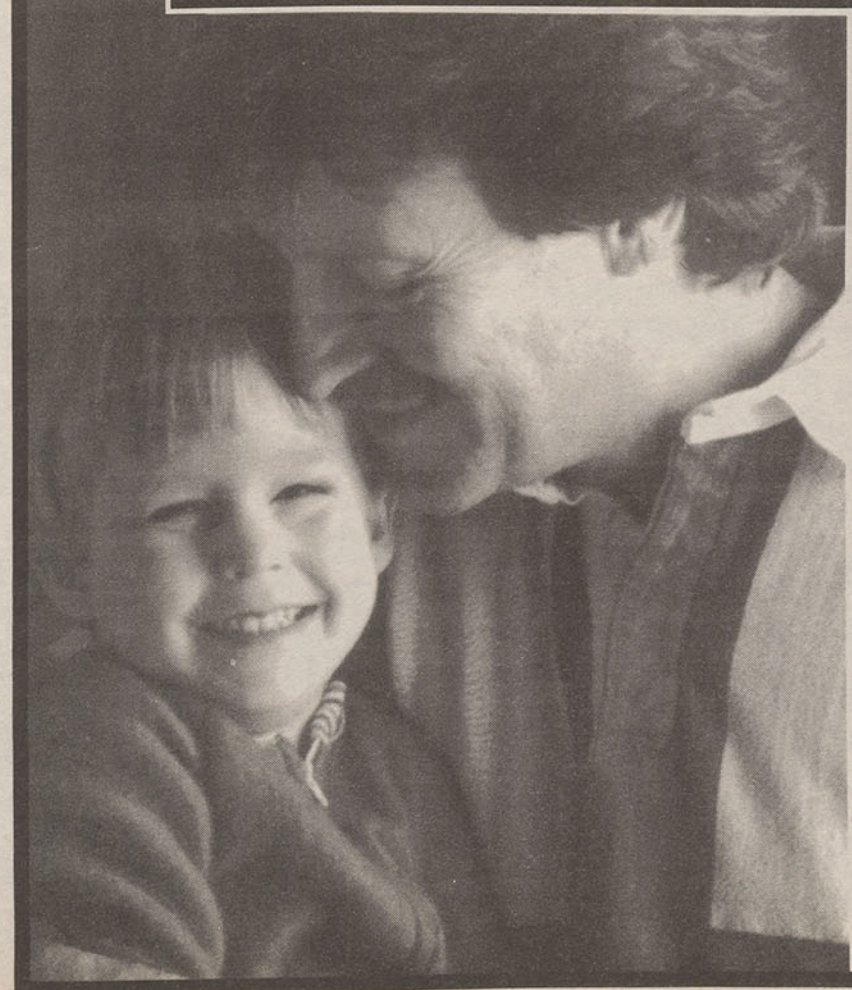
"I learned how to stop at one drink after work—just to stay on top of the things I care about."



"It's not like my life was falling apart. The warning was subtle. I woke up one Saturday with Jamie jumping on the bed — and realized I just didn't have the energy I once had for such things. I chose to change that by calling DrinkWise.

Unlike treatment services where abstinence is the rule — DrinkWise is an educational program that helped me choose a responsible level of drinking. They gave me tactics to meet that goal. So, now I have the energy to enjoy life. And my little 'bed bug.'"

ANN ARBOR AID FOR AIDS
WALKATHON

GET IN STEP...

And be a part of Ann Arbor's largest fundraiser for AIDS,
the Third Annual Aid for AIDS Walkathon on Saturday, June 10, 1995
Through Downtown Ann Arbor

Every 13 minutes someone in the United States is infected with HIV. More than 5,000 Michigan residents are living with AIDS, and another 10-15,000 are infected with HIV. Cases are rising fastest among teens and heterosexual women. You can help by participating in this important community event. Walkers, volunteers and sponsors are needed to make the 1995 walk another success story. Proceeds will benefit the Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan, HIV/AIDS Resource Center and the Midwest AIDS Prevention Project.

Together, we can make a difference... one step at a time.

Patrick Yankee

Making HARC a paradigm of HIV service groups

Patrick Yankee has so many stories to tell—stories of life and death and hope and humor—and there's so much passion, courage, and gentle conviction to his words, that it's not until interview's end that I notice a startling fact: his eyes are two different colors. But then, Yankee is a man of multi-hued vision.

A quietly outspoken man with a degree in social work, Yankee two years ago took the helm of Huron Valley Wellness, the local agency devoted to helping those with HIV infection and their families. Today, the organization has a new name—HARC (HIV–AIDS Resource Center)—a suite of new offices, increased visibility, and a lot more money. (HARC has recently been granted Title II funds under the Ryan White Care Act, the first time these funds have been made available in this area.)

The HARC office is a busy place. The phone rings constantly. ("No," says Yankee to one concerned caller, "you can't get AIDS from phone sex.") People drop by with donations for the food bank or gather for support groups. Volunteers prepare a mailing. On the night before one of our interviews, he has stayed late at the office, comforting an elderly man whose daughter had died the night before, helping him write her obituary. Under Yankee's leadership, HARC has become something of a paradigm for HIV/AIDS service organizations: it's an approachable group that serves its clients practically, medically, financially, and emotionally. But more than this, under Yankee's direction, HARC has developed a strong spirit of activism. Its annual Ann Arbor Aid for AIDS Walk-a-Thon and Out for AIDS benefits raise as much awareness as they do cash.

"People think about separating AIDS service providers from people who do activism," says Yankee, leaning forward thoughtfully. "But it's almost impossible to do AIDS work and not be an activist. You have to swim upstream. This disease crosses so many lines, it's so multilayered, and it's such a politicized disease. People hear what you do and they expect that you're gonna chain yourself to their desk!"

But that's not Yankee's style.

Born in Flint, the seventh of eight children, Yankee learned important lessons early. "The biggest influence in my family was my father—a bleeding heart liberal! Looking back, I remember learning a lot from him about politics . . . about how the world operates for people, and how the system works for some and not for others. I was raised with that kind of ethic—that truly all of us are one. Some feature of you does not make you bad or wrong."

Despite the tolerant atmosphere at home, Yankee still had to deal with the inevitable conflicts of growing up gay in the American Midwest. "I was a really different kind of trouper!" he says. "As a gay teenager, I learned to cope by developing my own creativity; that was my haven, and I thank God that's what happened. Creative thought really helps me in this whole process."

Yankee entered art school at EMU in 1978 but soon switched to social work. After graduation, he went to work for the Association for Retarded Citizens (now the Washtenaw Association for Community Advocacy) as an advocate for people with disabilities.

By the mid-1980's, Ann Arbor was experiencing the AIDS epidemic firsthand. Yankee found himself becoming more and more involved, volunteering for the organization he would one day run.

In 1990, two events converged in Yankee's life, together forming a turning point for him. A beloved older sister died of brain cancer. And a close friend was dying of AIDS.

Yankee recalls, "I got home from my sister's funeral and I was literally walking in the door and the phone rang. It was my friend's partner. He was calling to say, 'I think you should come over. He's not doing very well. He's not expected to live much longer.'

"I went over and spent the rest of the evening with my friend and his partner, eating lots of Haagen Dazs, I'll tell you what! We tried to keep ourselves on an upbeat note, but there was this tone in the room of total grief and not really trusting that it would ever stop at this point. We were just one story on one evening, and it's happening all over the place to so many people in my community."

One of the hardest parts of Yankee's job is convincing people that they need help. He points out a recent situation in which a longtime HARC client refused all assistance, locking friends and caretakers out of his apartment.

"He was very, very ill," recalls Yankee, "and would not see a doctor. We knew he had multiple opportunistic infections and weighed about eighty pounds. He couldn't move around his apartment or prepare food or do anything, but he could not admit he could use some help."

A friend let Yankee into the man's apartment. "Finally, with consistent, loving support, he allowed us to stay with him and to eventually take him to the hospital. He felt good about his decision, but he never came back home. He was thirty-two years old."

Yankee's life is filled with stories like this one, but he rarely appears beaten back by it all. In fact, he laughs a lot and relishes a good joke.

At HARC, he says, "we don't get into laughing about the people we serve, but we do change the subject an awful lot. . . . Doing this for the last two years has presented me with more growth and challenge than I ever thought I would have in such a short amount of time. Part of it is horrific and part of it is jubilant and it is really my honor to do it.

"But," he adds, "I would love it if we could just shut our doors forever."

"Hospice is the friend I needed...

"Six days after I retired from my job of 25 years, I found out I had an untreatable form of cancer. My hospice nurse, Rita, is like an angel sent down to us. Hospice is the friend everybody needs when they find out they are terminal ... it could save them from so much pain."

Ways to Help

Many local community service groups and civic institutions need volunteer help—from the Ann Arbor Summer Festival to the U-M's Matthaei Botanical Gardens. Whether you're a high school student or a retiree, you can find something useful and interesting to do as a volunteer.

The Washtenaw United Way's Volunteer Action Center (VAC) matches volunteers with organizations. Call VAC at 971–5852 to arrange to fill out their volunteer application. After reviewing the application, they'll give you a list of agencies and organizations looking for someone with your interests and skills.

A quick perusal of the Volunteer Opportunities Directory, published by VAC and updated monthly (call VAC for a copy), or of the listings here in this section of the City Guide (organizations looking for volunteers have a V at the end of their listings), will give you a sense of how rich the possibilities are for volunteers in the Ann Arbor area. VAC also publishes a Youth Volunteer Guide that lists volunteer opportunities at ninety local agencies for young people ages 12 through 17.

The Washtenaw County Department of Social Services has a brochure describing volunteer opportunities in that agency; or you can call Linda H. King, the Volunteer Services supervisor, at 481–8396.

Global Citizenship, a student-run organization dedicated to promoting volunteerism among high schoolers, publishes the Volunteers Resource Book. Funded by the Washtenaw United Way and the Ann Arbor Area Community Foundation Youth Council, the booklet is available in the career centers and guidance offices of Ann Arbor's high schools, at public library branches, or from the United Way. For more information call Hanna Miller at 663–6217. ■

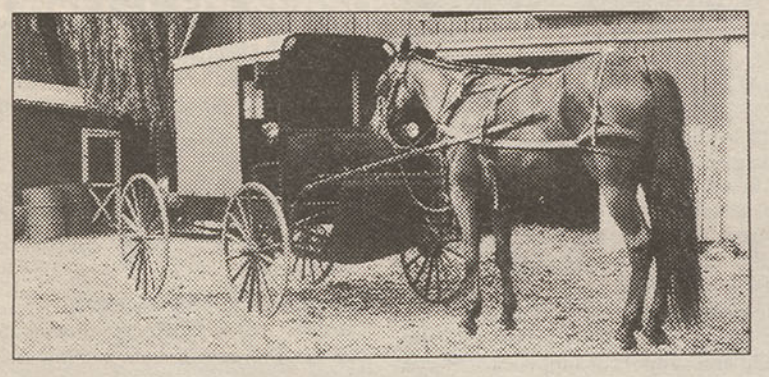
Ask Some Mennonites To Hitch Up A Horse And Buggy, And You'll Either Have A Confused Horse, Or A Very Strange Ride.



If you think all Mennonites look, think, and live the same, you better think again. Ask this poor horse what we mean He'll tell you all Mennonites aren't alike. You know us as the Mennonites, but do you really know us? This Sunday take a face-to-face look at a church that may surprise you.

University of Michigan

With its more than 36,000 students, the University of Michigan is virtually a city unto itself, and a pervasive influence in Ann Arbor. Economically, the university is the engine that drives the city, providing roughly one job for every three adults in the city.

The university hosts a wide range of cultural events, featuring both local and visiting artists, musicians, writers, and public figures, and most are open to the public. (For details, see Entertainment, p. 151, and the monthly Observer Events calendar.) The U-M's many museums and libraries, also accessible to outsiders, further enrich the city's cultural life. (For a detailed list, see Museums & Libraries, p. 126.)

Hour-long student-led tours of Central Campus leave the Alumni Center, 200 Fletcher St., 763–9754, at least twice each weekday and on Saturdays from September through April, except on university holidays. During peak recruiting season (Oct. 5–Nov. 23, 1994 and Nov. 29–Dec. 10, 1994) tours leave three times on weekdays and twice on Saturdays. Call for a tour schedule; reservations are not necessary. High school students can also attend one of the general information sessions offered year-round by undergraduate admissions counselors. Call the Office of Undergraduate Admissions, 1220 Student Activities Building, 764–7433, to reserve a space. Brochures for self-guided tours are available from the Campus Information Center on the first floor of the Michigan Union, 530 S. State Street.

Enrollment

The U-M has seventeen schools and colleges, twelve of which offer undergraduate degree programs. For information or application materials, call the Office of Undergraduate Admissions, 1220 Student Activities Building, 764–7433. The application fee is $40. Prospective first-year and transfer students face extremely competitive admission standards. Last year, there were over 19,000 applicants for only 4,900 openings. First- and second-year undergraduate (lower division) tuition and fees for the 1994–1995 academic year (two terms) are $5,200 for Michigan residents; $15,892 for nonresidents. Third- and fourth-year (upper division) in-state students pay $5,714; out-of-state students pay $17,018. Current rates represent a 6.9 percent increase over 1993 tuition for residents, and a 5 percent increase for nonresidents. Questions regarding residency should be addressed to the Residency Status Office, 764–1400.

To enroll for a graduate degree in the liberal arts, contact the Horace H. Rackham Graduate School, 915 E. Washington, 764–4415. Professional schools, such as business, engineering, law, and medicine, handle their own admissions and should be contacted directly. School phone numbers are available through the university operator: 764–1817.

Call the Office of Undergraduate Admissions, 764–7433, for undergraduate nondegree course information and applications. Prospective visiting students in the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts should request a "nondegree" application. Visiting undergraduate applicants to all other schools should request a "guest" application. Nondegree graduate students should contact the office of their individual program directly. Fees for nondegree students are steep. For Michigan residents taking lower-division classes, tuition is $437 for the first credit hour and $190 for each additional credit hour elected; upper-division tuition costs $458 for the first hour, $211 thereafter. For nonresidents, lower-division tuition is $882 for the first credit hour and $635 for each additional credit hour elected; upper-division costs are $929 and $682. Classes are available at half-cost to people age 65 and older (call 764–6280). Those who want to visit a single class are welcome at large lectures without prior permission. Visits to smaller classes, however, require the instructor's permission.

Contact the individual school or college to receive a catalog of course offerings. Time schedules for the entire university are available at 1419 Mason Hall (764–6810).

Employment

The University of Michigan and the U-M Medical Center are together Ann Arbor's largest employer, with a total workforce of over 20,000 for fall 1994. Job openings are posted on four campus job boards and are updated at noon every Monday. Job boards are located at the employment offices at the LS&A Building, 500 S. State St., 764–6580; Administrative Services, 1009 Greene St., 764–7280; and the Medical Center, 300 N. Ingalls Bldg., 747–2375. A fourth job board is located at North Campus Commons, 2101 Bonisteel Blvd. Prospective employees may submit a general application at any of the three employment offices and then may bid for particular jobs. Most job openings are also listed in the University Record (see Media, p. 129), and some are advertised in local newspapers. Job information is also available through the Merit Network to anyone with a computer and a modem. Just access Merit Network on one of its public dial-up numbers (2400 baud: 998–1302; 9600 baud: 998–1302); when asked which host, type in "um–gopherblue." You'll then see Jobnet "job postings."

Sports

U-M sports draw enthusiastic crowds of students, townspeople, and visitors. Downtown and campus Ann Arbor look like ghost towns on football Saturdays. People who live near the stadium can make a tidy sum letting football fans park on lawns; their neighborhoods are a sea of cars sporting maize and blue flags and pompons. State Street is empty and there's no line at Zingerman's.

Football tickets are hard to come by. Season tickets went on sale last spring for the 1994 season. They cost $150 for the general public; student season tickets are $77; faculty, staff, and students' spouses pay $120. Individual tickets are sometimes available through the ticket office, 1000 S. State St., 764–0247, because of late cancellations. The price is $25, plus $5 service charge per order. Scalpers in front of the Michigan Union and in the parking areas around the stadium may have offers too good for die-hard fans to refuse. (When dealing with scalpers, beware: you may be buying a student voucher and you'll need that student's U-M picture ID—and a similar face—to get in the door. Also, if the ticket you purchase was stolen, you won't be seated and police will investigate.)

Basketball tickets are harder to find lately, too, and individual games (especially Big Ten contests) usually sell out. Season ticket prices for the 1994–1995 season were not available at press time, but last year's tickets cost between $170 and $220 for general patrons, $136 to $176 for faculty and staff, and $88 for students. Individual tickets ranged from $12 to $15. Also, scalpers on and around the Crisler Arena steps have tickets for sale before popular games. (See caveat above.) Tickets for the underappreciated women's basketball team are much easier to get, and a much better deal—sold for individual games, they're just $3.

Hockey games (except against MSU) are still relatively accessible, though that may not last as more and more fans notice the team's reemergence as a national power. Last year, season tickets ranged in price from about $88 to $122 for general admission, $71 to $100 for faculty and staff, and $70 for students. Individual games are $6 or $8.

Spring baseball is another underappreciated sport at U-M. As of press time, the baseball schedule for 1994–1995 was not set. Individual tickets are a mere $3 for Big Ten games (other games are free), the level of play is high, and Ray Fisher Stadium is a great place to watch a game. The women's softball team plays at Varsity Diamond, adjacent to Fisher Stadium. All their games are free.

Washtenaw Community College, 4800 E. Huron River Dr., 973–3300, offers classes and associate's degrees in business, health and public services, humanities and social sciences, math and natural sciences, and technology. Students at WCC come from all age groups and all walks of life. Some seek practical job skills; others earn credits that will eventually be transferred to a four-year college or university. Many people attend WCC to develop basic skills in reading, writing, math, or computers. In addition to its main campus, set amid woods and a former apple orchard across from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, WCC has regional centers in Ypsilanti, Saline, Chelsea, and Brighton.

Prospective students should contact the Admissions Office, 973–3543, for a course catalog, a time schedule, and an application. The application fee is $18. Residents of Washtenaw County receive preferential enrollment if class space is limited. Tuition is $50 per credit hour for county residents and $71–$90 per credit hour for nonresidents. There is a $22 nonrefundable registration fee per semester for all students. To audit a class, students must register and pay the regular tuition, but no grade or course credit is given. County residents over age 65 can take classes free through the Emeritus Program, 973–3543.

For employment information, contact the business office, 973–3497. ■

Museums and Libraries

Museums

For locations of major museums and libraries, see the map on p. 151. For the U-M Museum of Art and local art galleries, see Visual Arts, p. 159.

Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum, 219 E. Huron St. 995–5439. A science and technology museum especially for kids, but with something for everyone, housed in Ann Arbor's 1882 fire station. Visitors learn about science, art, and culture through 250 participatory exhibits, including a toaster-powered hot-air balloon and a hand-cranked electric generator. The museum also sponsors numerous workshops, classes, and weekend demonstrations. See Children, p. 77, for more information. Hours: Tues.–Fri. 10 a.m.–5:30 p.m.; Sat. 10 a.m.–5 p.m.; Sun. 1–5 p.m. Admission: $4/adult; $2.50/child, student, senior; $2/person special group rate (for 20 or more people).

Artrain, NEW Center, 1100 N. Main St., Suite 102. 747–8300. Headquartered in Ann Arbor, this roving art museum travels within and outside of Michigan. The train appears at least once a year in Ann Arbor and frequently in the Detroit area. The train generally stays four days at each stop and primarily visits towns in conjunction with local festivals. The current theme is "The Romance of Transportation: Vehicle and Voyage in North American Art." Call for information regarding specific stops and admission prices (which vary among communities). Office hours: Mon.–Fri. 9 a.m.–5 p.m.

Cobblestone Farm, 2781 Packard Rd. 994–2928. This 1844 stone farmhouse is being restored by community volunteers to re-create the life of a farm family in the mid-nineteenth century. Frequent special events and living history demonstrations throughout the year. See Children, p. 77, for program information. Hours (May–Sept.): Fri. & Sun. 1–4 p.m. Special arrangements can be made for schools and other groups. Barn available for rental. Admission: $1.50/adult; $1/youth and senior; $5/family.

Kelsey Museum of Archaeology (U-M), 434 S. State St. 764–9304. This elegant Romanesque building houses an enormous collection of artifacts from ancient Greece, Rome, Egypt, and the Near East. This fall, a special exhibition of Byzantine artifacts marks the museum's reopening following a year-long renovation to provide a climate-controlled environment for the priceless antiquities housed here. Tours available upon request. Admission is free. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 9 a.m.–4 p.m.; Sat. & Sun. 1–4 p.m.

Kempf House Center for Local History, 312 S. Division St. 994–4898. This 1850's Greek Revival house has been lovingly refurbished with Victorian antiques and the mementos of the Kempf family, who lived here from 1890 until 1953. The Kempfs were music teachers who played an important role in the local arts community. The house still contains their grand piano, Ann Arbor's first. The house also has exhibits of domestic life in Ann Arbor during the period and serves as a center for local history, sponsoring many special events during the year. Hours: Sat. & Sun. 1–4 p.m. (Feb.–July & Sept.–Dec.); Wed. 10 a.m.–2 p.m. (Oct., Nov., & March–May); and by appointment. Brown bag lunch lecture series, 12:15–1 p.m. each Wednesday the house is open (see monthly Observer calendars for schedule). Admission: $1.

Matthaei Botanical Gardens (U-M), 1800 N. Dixboro Rd. 998–7060. This spacious indoor conservatory, a favorite midwinter oasis, harbors a variety of tropical, warm, temperate, and desert plants. Visitors can wander from the lily-pad-filled goldfish ponds at the entrance through the three rooms of the conservatory, which are divided by climatic regions. The first room is filled with tropical plants and trees and is home to a number of native Michigan birds, which fly in when the windows are open. The central greenhouse holds plants of warm temperate climates along with an orchid display and a case of insectivorous plants. A more austere collection of cacti and other desert plants fills the desert house at the rear of the building, which opens onto a formal outdoor perennial and rose garden. The conservatory is surrounded by 250 acres of woodland crisscrossed by four nature walking trails. Brochures provide self-guided tours of the conservatory, but docent-guided tours can be arranged. Outdoor trail maps are available. The conservatory sponsors classes and workshops, spring and fall plant sales, and the Ann Arbor Flower and Garden Show, held each March. Hours: daily 10 a.m.–4:30 p.m. (indoor conservatory and gift shop); 8 a.m.–sunset (outdoor gardens and trails). Conservatory admission $1; currently enrolled U-M students admitted free.

Museum on Main Street

Museum on Main Street (Washtenaw County Historical Society). 500 N. Main St. (at Beakes). 662–9092. This museum houses permanent and rotating exhibits pertaining to Washtenaw County and Michigan history. Due to open in the fall or winter of 1994.

Nichols Arboretum. Entrances at Geddes Ave., Washington Hgts., and South Medical Center Dr. 998–7175. "The Arb" is a forest preserve owned by the U-M and the city and operated by the U-M's School of Natural Resources and Environment. It's home to an array of exotic and native tree species. Pine forests, meadows, and grassy hills invite walking, picnics, and frisbee playing. During the winter, the Arb is a serene wonderland; sledding, which harms the land and plants, is not permitted. A self-guided tour brochure is available. For information on docent-led tours, call 763–6632. Hours: daily 6 a.m.–10 p.m.

Parker Mill, on Fleming Creek, east of US-23 on Geddes Rd. 971–6337. This restored nineteenth-century gristmill is named for the family that built it in 1873. One of the county's few remaining log cabins is on the grounds. The mill is completely functional and is open on weekends in September and October (call for further information on exact dates and times). Programs for school groups and others available by arrangement. Picnic sites in the area. Admission is free.

Stearns Collection of Musical Instruments, U-M School of Music, south wing, Baits Dr., North Campus. 763–4389. This collection of musical instruments from all over the world was begun in 1899 by Frederick Stearns, a pharmaceutical manufacturer and passionate musical collector who donated 1,400 instruments acquired in his travels. The museum now has over 2,000 instruments, including both exotic and antique pieces, a few of which can be tried by visitors or heard in a special audio-visual display. Lecture-demonstrations take place at 2 p.m. on the second Sunday of September, October, January, and February. Hours: Wed.–Sat. 10 a.m.–5 p.m.; Sun. 1–6 p.m. Guided tours by appointment (small donation requested). Admission is free.

U-M Exhibit Museum, North University at Geddes Ave. 764–0478. This big, popular natural science museum, a favorite destination of local school groups and families, features an astounding variety of exhibits. The Hall of Evolution shows the development of prehistoric life, including a large collection of fossils and those perennial favorites, dinosaur skeletons. The Michigan Wildlife Gallery has extensive collections of the plant and animal life of the state, and exhibits that highlight current environmental issues. The museum also has displays of Native American life and culture, and galleries focusing on such diverse fields as anthropology, geology, and human biology, featuring many interactive exhibits.

The Planetarium within the Exhibit Museum has shows on weekends, some suitable for children. Museum hours: Mon.–Sat. 9 a.m.–5 p.m.; Sun. 1–5 p.m. Admission to the museum is free, but groups of more than ten must reserve two weeks in advance and pay a $5 group fee; fee for the planetarium is $2.50/show.

Main U-M Libraries

The U-M library system is one of the largest research collections in the country and probably one of the most accessible (see U-M map, p. 123, for locations). Although use of the library system is free to all, borrowing privileges, when available at all, come at a high price for outsiders.

Harlan Hatcher Graduate Library, on the "Diag" behind Angell Hall. 764–0400. This is the largest facility in the system, primarily meant for research—specifically in the humanities and social sciences. The public catalog and the MIRLYN computer system on the second floor list all publications in the university library system. The Grad's stacks are open to the public for browsing. Hours: Mon.–Thurs. 8 a.m.–midnight; Fri. 8 a.m.–10 p.m.; Sat. 8 a.m.–6 p.m.; Sun. 1 p.m.–midnight (Sept.–April); Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–10 p.m.; Sat. 10 a.m.–6 p.m.; Sun. 2–10 p.m. (May–Aug.).

The Special Collections Library (764–9377), on the seventh floor of the Graduate Library, has rotating exhibits that usually feature works from the library's own collection of rare books and manuscripts, including the well-known Labadie Collection of social protest literature. Also houses the Papyrus Collection—the finest collection on the American continent of original papyri, including 30 leaves of the first known copy of the Epistles of St. Paul. The library sponsors guided tours of this collection, which attracts visitors and researchers from all over the world. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 10 a.m.–5 p.m.; Sat. 10 a.m.–noon. The Map Room (764–0407), on the eighth floor of the Graduate Library, has an outstanding collection of contemporary and historical maps from all over the world.

People who are not affiliated with the U-M who wish to check out books from the Graduate Library must purchase a user's pass for $250/year; less expensive group rates are available. The pass is also good at the U-M's many departmental libraries.

Undergraduate Library, 919 South University Ave. 764–7490. The Undergraduate Library (known also as the UGLi) offers books and periodicals, all listed on the MIRLYN computer system. These materials are geared toward the curricular needs of undergraduate students. There is also a small collection of leisure reading materials. The building is currently undergoing expansion and renovation scheduled to be finished by the spring of 1995. The expansion is to accommodate a central campus science library on the third and fourth floors of the building to include these departmental libraries: Chemistry (764–7337); Mathematics (764–7266); Natural Science/Natural Resources (764–1494); and Physics-Astronomy (764–3442). These libraries will be fully moved in by September 1995. The library is, however, open for the full range of services throughout the renovation. Hours: Mon.–Thurs. 8 a.m.–midnight; Fri. 8 a.m.–10 p.m.; Sat. 10 a.m.–10 p.m.; Sun. 1 p.m.–midnight. During the fall and winter semesters, the library is open daily 8 a.m.–5 a.m. from the third week to the end of each semester.

The U-M Film and Video Library, second floor of the UGLi. 764–5360. This library has a collection of over 10,000 titles on 16mm film and VHS cassettes, including foreign features and educational programs that aren't available elsewhere. Titles are listed on the MIRLYN computer system and in an in-house catalog. Collection is primarily intended for use by U-M faculty and staff for their classes and programs. A subset of the collection is available for rental through the Video Alternative for those with a U-M Library borrower's card. Fee is $2.50–$3. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 9 a.m.–noon and 1–5 p.m. (summer term hours: Mon.–Fri. 1–5 p.m.; or by appointment).

Departmental Libraries. The following schools and departments have their own libraries. Call for locations and hours. Art and Architecture, 764–0503; Asia, 764–0406; Dentistry, 764–1526; Engineering, 764–5298; Fine Arts, 764–5405; Information and Library Studies, 764–9375; Museums, 764–0467; Music, 764–2512; Public Health, 936–1391; Social Work, 764–5169.

Some school and departmental libraries have more specialized collections and/or more limited public access. These include the Center for Afro-American and African Studies, 764–5513; the Kresge Business Administration Library, 764–9464; the Taubman Medical Library, 763–3071; and the Law Library, 764–9322, a campus tour highlight by virtue of its magnificent pseudo-Oxbridge reading room and its remarkably hospitable contemporary underground addition.

U-M Historical Libraries

Bentley Historical Library, 1150 Beal Ave., North Campus. 764–3482. This library houses the Michigan Historical Collections of primary resource material pertaining to state and local history, as well as U-M archives. Librarians provide expert assistance with specific inquiries. Exhibits highlight material from the collections. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 8:30 a.m.–5 p.m.; Sat. 9 a.m.–12:30 p.m. (no Sat. hours June–Aug.).

Clements Library, 909 South University Ave. 764–2347. Outstanding collection of primary resource material on American history and culture from 1492 to 1900, including many rare books and manuscripts, prints, maps, and photographs. The library's resources are open to anyone with a serious historical interest, but visitors must apply and be interviewed before being admitted to the stacks. The Clements reopens this fall following extensive renovations. Guided tours by appointment. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 10:30 a.m.–noon and 1–5 p.m.

Gerald R. Ford Library, 1000 Beal Ave., North Campus. 741–2218. This library, built after Ford (a U-M grad) left the presidency, contains millions of documents, books, and audiovisual materials pertaining to his career. It is open to visitors, but individuals wishing to use the library for in-depth study of the thirty-eighth president must complete a brief application on-site. Hours: Mon.–Fri. 8:45 a.m.–4:45 p.m. (except federal holidays). ■

Cable Radio Service

Digital Music Express. 2505 S. Industrial Hwy. 973–2266. Columbia Cable, the compa- ny that provides Ann Arbor's cable television service, also offers a music service. Subscribers can rent receivers which, attached to their own stereos, give them access to 30 channels of commercial-free, disc jockey–free, CD-quality music. The receiver comes with remote control and a digital display that shows the channel, the song currently playing, the artist, the album, and the composer, if applicable. Cost: $7.95/month for residential service plus $20.75 for the initial hookup and a $10 deposit for the converter box.

Television

Cable

Columbia Cable, 2505 S. Industrial Hwy. 973–2266. This company supplies cable tele- vision to almost all of Ann Arbor and sur- rounding areas. Columbia Cable has two op- tions for flat-rate monthly service: Columbia Cable Lifeline offers the local broadcast sta- tions; community access channels; WTBS, an Atlanta superstation; WGN, Chicago's super- station; CNN Headline News; and message generator bulletin board services. Cost: $9.30/month. Columbia Cable Basic service has additional channels, including CNN, ESPN, C-Span, and the Black Entertainment Network—48 in all. Cost: $21.25/month (10 percent discount on Basic for heads of house- holds who are disabled or age 65 or older). Premium channels include HBO, Cinemax, Disney, PASS, the Movie Channel, Show- time, Bravo, and Encore. Cost: $7.95–$9.95/month each. Discounts are avail- able for two or more premium channels. Co- lumbia Cable also has three pay-per-view channels, each offering a different movie or special event (such as a concert or sports event). Movies are $3–4 each, and special events are individually priced. Current pay per view offerings are advertised on Channel 23 of the system. Choices may be ordered up to a month in advance and may be canceled as late as fifteen minutes after a program has started. Call the number above for subscription or re- pair information or to order a pay per view event. Initial hookup for all cable services costs $25. Simple cable activation costs $20.75. Add $10 for converter box if your TV is not cable-ready, and a $10 deposit for re- mote control, if desired.

Community Access

Cable Channels 8, 9, 10, 11 (on Columbia Ca- ble). 769–7422. With the motto "Real People, Real Television," Ann Arbor Community Ac- cess Television makes all facets of television production available to the residents of Ann Arbor. Local citizens and nonprofit organiza- tions produce the programs; AACAT provides the training and equipment free of charge. Monthly orientation sessions offer instruction on use of the studio, camcorders, and editing equipment. Once trained, Ann Arborites can produce their own shows or help others pro- duce theirs. Program schedules are listed on each channel and in the Ann Arbor News. Pro- gram hours: Mon.–Fri. 10 a.m.–midnight; Sat. 9 a.m.–5 p.m.; Sun. 2 –10 p.m. Public service announcements are posted on each channel's electronic bulletin board during non-program- ming hours. Ann Arbor nonprofit organizations are invited to submit announcements. AACAT also provides "Access Soapbox" and "Access Ann Arbor" for anyone interested in airing views or making announcements on the chan- nel. No orientation necessary. Call to schedule an appearance.

Channel 8. Educational and informational programs featuring local children in presenta- tions sponsored by the Ann Arbor Public Schools; local authors on the Ann Arbor Public Library's "Booked for Lunch" program; and televised college courses from Washtenaw Community College.

Channel 9. Citizens and community groups share opinions and ideas and display creative work in various programs.

Channel 10. Live, gavel-to-gavel coverage of Ann Arbor City Council, Board of Educa- tion, and many other government meetings. Public information programs include "For Your Information" and "At Issue."

Channel 11. A free interactive electronic bulletin board available Mon.–Fri. 6 a.m.–10 p.m. and 24 hours a day on weekends. To par- ticipate, tune in, pick up your Touch-Tone phone, and follow the instructions on your TV. Information on school lunch menus, City Hall, and community events information through AALINC, Ann Arbor's Local Information Channel.

AACAT Online. A free computer bulletin board system accessed with a modem by dial- ing 994–1743. Users chat with others, post and receive private E-mail, check city job postings, retrieve city council agendas, and take advan- tage of shareware files.

Clubs and Classes

Ann Arbor has an overwhelming number of clubs to join and classes to take. They range from the general to the highly specialized and include everyone from bridge players to entrepreneurs to stamp collectors to English country dancers.

The Ann Arbor YMCA and the Community Education and Recreation Department of the Ann Arbor Public Schools offer many types of adult enrichment classes:

Ann Arbor YMCA, 350 S. Fifth Ave. 663–0536. Classes in CPR, pre- and postnatal fitness, yoga, dance, and many other subjects. A catalog describing all YMCA classes offered during the year is published in September, and brochures specifying times and fees are mailed to members and anyone on the mailing list prior to each seven-week session. Fees depend on number of class sessions per week. Reduced class fees for YMCA members.

Community Education and Recreation, 2675 Boardwalk Dr. 994–2300. Classes are offered in business and finance, computers, health, languages, bridge, juggling, cooking, art, literature, dance, drama, music, science and outdoors, textile crafts, and woodworking and upholstery. Current schedule is published four times a year. "Rec & Ed" brochures are inserted in the Ann Arbor News in March for spring programs, mid-May for summer, late August for fall, and early January for winter; they are also available at the Ann Arbor Public Library, City Hall, and at public schools. All classes are held at locations within the Ann Arbor Public School district. Fees vary.

Other classes are listed under individual interest headings. Only a few exercise classes are listed here; for additional exercise classes or recreational sports, see Recreation, p. 141. For information on public and private schools and children's activities, see Children, p. 77.

An S at the end of an entry denotes clubs and classes especially for seniors or with discounts for them.

Ann Arbor Bonsai Society

WM. JORDAN

Achieving immortality in a pot

Bonsai—the oriental art of growing miniature trees or plants in a container—is booming locally. In the past four years, the Ann Arbor Bonsai Society's membership has grown from about sixty to 160.

The average bonsai collector nurtures some fifteen to twenty trees or shrubs—either inside the house or outside, says society president Andy Jartz. Jartz himself has sixty bonsai specimens, and a few members have over 300. The hard-core membership "eats, lives, and sleeps bonsai," he says.

Monthly meetings at the U-M Matthaei Botanical Gardens attract members not only from Ann Arbor but from throughout southeastern Michigan and even Toledo. At one recent meeting in the Matthaei Auditorium, a guest lecturer demonstrated how to prune a dwarfed pine tree. Meanwhile, outside the auditorium, a few club members worked on their own projects—"sculpting" the trees (which ranged in height from a few inches to three feet) by pruning or winding wire around the branches. Many newcomers to Bonsai Society meetings come to learn from the club's veterans, two or three of whom enjoy national reputations as experts.

Bonsai originated hundreds of years ago in the homes of Chinese and Japanese aristocrats, crossing the ocean to the United States earlier in this century. Some very old bonsai specimens are worth thousands of dollars, but "it's the type of hobby you can get into at any level," says Andy Jartz. "You can go to a nursery and buy stuff for five or ten dollars." (Almost any tree can be cultivated to be a bonsai.)

The bonsai's visibility in the three "Karate Kid" movies helps explain its current popularity, say society members. They say they enjoy the art of dwarfing and displaying the trees, which are often presented in carefully sculpted rock arrangements. Some bonsai specimens live hundreds of years—another attraction. A tiny dwarfed tree achieves heights of a special sort. Says local bonsai grower Bruce Baker, "It may achieve immortality in a pot."

Recreation

Ann Arbor offers a superb variety of recreational opportunities, and Ann Arborites take advantage of them in droves. Thousands of people take part in organized team sports—it's a rare Ann Arbor workplace that doesn't have a softball or basketball team—and hotly contested league games are rehashed in the city's taverns late into the night. Ann Arbor's numerous off-street trails and lightly traveled neighborhood streets pulse with joggers throughout the year, and gently lit summer evenings find legions of cyclists gliding along the winding Huron River or through the flat, sparsely settled farmlands west of the city. The U-M's large, modern recreation buildings, along with various city structures, the new county recreation building, and private health clubs, ensure the popularity of indoor sports. And Ann Arbor is blessed with an abundance of parkland, intelligently acquired and evenly distributed all over the city—see map, p. 143. For information on children's recreation and sports, see Children, p. 77.

Fees given are current as of July 1994.

Major Programs and Facilities

Ann Arbor Public Schools Community Education and Recreation (Rec & Ed). 2765 Boardwalk Dr. 994–2300. A complete class and program catalog is printed seasonally and is available in the Ann Arbor News and at area libraries and schools. Fees listed for Rec & Ed programs are for Ann Arbor Public School area residents; nonresident fees follow in parentheses.

The city's Department of Parks and Recreation is located on the fifth floor of City Hall (994–2780). The department's recreational facilities hotline is 769–9140. Scholarships for low-income Ann Arborites are available from Rec & Ed or the Department of Parks and Recreation, which both provide free or reduced-price passes to city pools, rinks, and classes.

The Ann Arbor YMCA, located at 350 South Fifth Ave., is a nonprofit, community-based membership organization. There are different membership plans available for different age groups, with a discount for seniors. Individuals who would like to take a class through the YMCA do not have to be members, although members receive significant discounts and priority enrollment. A catalog and time schedule that provides class fees, times, and locations is available each September. Schedules are also available prior to each new class session (six per year). Call the YMCA at 663–0536 to be put on the mailing list. Building hours are Mon.–Fri. 6 a.m.–10 p.m.; Sat. 8 a.m.–6 p.m.; and Sun. 11 a.m.–6 p.m. S

U-M students, faculty, staff, and alumni can use U-M facilities at the Central Campus Recreation Building (CCRB), 401 Washtenaw Ave. at Geddes Ave. (763–3084); the North Campus Recreation Building (NCRB), 2375 Hubbard St. (763–4560); and the Intramural Sports (IM) Building, 606 E. Hoover Ave. (763–3562). There is no charge for registered students. Department of Recreational Sports user passes are available to faculty and staff for $107 a year; passes for nonstudents sponsored by a currently enrolled student or currently employed staff member are $162 a year; passes for U-M alumni and for spouses of U-M faculty, staff, and students are also $162 a year. Passes for retired U-M employees and for children (up to age 17) of U-M faculty, staff, alumni, and students are $54 a year. Day passes for sponsored nonstudents are $5.

The U-M Adult Lifestyle Program (764–1342) offers over 60 classes, open to the public, in aerobics, aquatics, Tae Kwon Do, volleyball, weight training, and much more. Most of the classes are held at the CCRB, and their cost includes a facilities pass valid for the times your class meets. Class schedules are tied to the university calendar; 1994 fall classes begin September 12, and other series begin in January, May, and July.

U-M sports clubs (763–4560) offer a wide variety of activities. These clubs are free to U-M students, but nonstudents can take part by buying a user pass (see above), or by paying $5 a day to participate in club activities. Sports include: aikido, archery, boxing, cricket, cycling, fencing, figure skating, Frisbee (men's and women's), handball, kayaking, lacrosse (men's and women's), ninjutsu karate, rowing, rugby (men's and women's), sailing, shorin kan, shorin ryu karate, shotokan karate, skiing, soccer (men's and women's), synchro-swim, table tennis, tae kwon do karate, volleyball (men's and women's), water skiing, and the Wolverettes (a cheerleading dance team).

The Washtenaw County Recreation Center at County Farm Park, 2960 Washtenaw at Platt Rd. (971–6337), has a multitude of recreation facilities, including a track, gym, pool, exercise room, and several multipurpose rooms. Facility rates are $2.50 a day for adults and $1.25 a day for seniors and for children under age 17. Year-long passes are $100 for adults, $75 for children and seniors (age 62 and up), and $250 for families (up to four members). Hours: Mon.–Fri. 7 a.m.–10 p.m.; Sat. 8 a.m.–6 p.m.; and Sun. noon–10 p.m. Individuals do not have to pay facility fees in order to register for classes, which are open to all residents of Washtenaw County. The Washtenaw County Department of Parks and Recreation also publishes The Recreationist, which provides information on the County Recreation Center and various Washtenaw County parks.

Team Sports

Basketball

Rec & Ed (994–2300) organizes adult basketball leagues in the winter. Players must enter the league on already established teams; over 120 teams participate. The sponsor fee is $218 per team; the individual fee is $42 ($50 for nonresidents). The organizational meeting for the 1994–1995 season is October 19. Registration is November 2–4. Play begins in early December and ends in March.

Indoor basketball courts are available at the Washtenaw County Recreation Center (971–6337) and at U-M facilities, including the CCRB (763–3084), the NCRB (763–4560), the IM Building (763–3562), and the Sports Coliseum at Hill St. and Fifth Ave. (763–5195), for pass holders and their guests. Basketball hours at the U-M buildings change each semester. Call the specific building for schedule information. Numerous city parks have outdoor courts available for public use. See the parks facilities directory on p. 145.

The Ann Arbor Center for Independent Living (971–0277) sponsors the Ann Arbor Thunderbirds Wheelchair Basketball team. Pickup games every Thursday 8–10 p.m. at the Washtenaw County Recreation Center. League play October through March. Call Kevin at the AACIL for more information.

Field Hockey

The Ann Arbor Field Hockey Club plays on Sundays, 1–3 p.m., in September and October at Greenhills School, 850 Greenhills Dr. Men and women (age 18 and up) of all skill levels are welcome. The team also travels to tournaments throughout the Midwest. Call Jane Nixon at 677–0633 for more information.

Ice Hockey

Organized ice hockey, sponsored by the Department of Parks and Recreation, runs from mid-October through mid-March. About 40 teams participate in the various leagues. Leagues include the Masters 30-and-over draft, competitive adult men's programs at three different skill levels, and the Adult Never-Ever Program, a unique spring and winter league that stresses noncompetitive play and is designed for those who have never played organized adult hockey. Costs average $175 per person. Individuals who want to play organized hockey should call Veterans Park Ice Arena (761–7240) to receive a waiver releasing their names to team managers who need extra players.

EMERGENCY SERVICE COMPLETELY INSURED

The Department of Parks and Recreation maintains an outdoor ice rink at Buhr Park (971–3228) that offers drop-in hockey for players age 15 and over on two afternoons per week from November through March. The fee is $2.75. Drop-in hockey is available for players over age 30 on Sunday mornings at Buhr and on Wednesday evenings at Veterans Ice Arena (761–7240), in October and November only. Players must be preregistered to participate. On a more informal basis, the Burns Park rink (1620 Wells St.) also offers drop-in play during the winter. Call the Department of Parks and Recreation (769–9140) for more information.

Rugby

The Ann Arbor Piranhas Women's Rugby Football Club is new this year. The club practices once or twice a week and travels to local and regional tournaments on the weekends from September through May. No experience is necessary and players of all ages (over 18) and skill levels are welcome. Contact K. C. Bemish (668–4674) for more information.

Soccer

Soccer is second only to softball as the most popular participatory sport in Ann Arbor. The Ann Arbor Soccer Association's adult recreation program (994–KICK) offers open and women's leagues during the fall, spring, and summer. The AASA assembles teams of balanced ability levels. Each season lasts eight weeks; teams play two nights a week at Fuller Park. Twenty teams of twelve players each usually participate. There is a $43 fee.

The AASA also sponsors adult competitive leagues. Participants organize their own teams to enter league play. Call the AASA for more information.

Softball

Softball draws more participants than any other program offered by Rec & Ed (994–2300). Approximately 390 teams play in the summer season (organizational meetings held in February; play begins early May). 110 teams play in the fall season (organizational meetings held in early July; play begins early September). Watch the sports section of the Ann Arbor News or contact Rec & Ed for specific dates of registration.

Teams are divided into leagues of varying skill levels for men's, women's, and co-rec slow-pitch softball. All teams must pay sponsor fees and individual player fees. Cost of sponsorship in the summer is $163 or $378, depending on whether teams play one or two nights per week. Individual fees for the summer are $29 ($38) or $45 ($54) respectively. For fall softball leagues, the sponsor fee is $163; the individual fee is $29 ($38). Fees for summer fast-pitch, the fall co-rec central league, and other municipal teams are slightly higher. Softball players who are not on a team can have Rec & Ed release their names and phone numbers to managers or can join one of its Players Without a Team teams.

The Department of Parks and Recreation provides softball diamonds at Ann Arbor schools and parks for people who organize their own games. Approximately 60 diamonds are available to the public 9 a.m.–9 p.m. from early May through the end of August on a first-come, first-served basis. These and other diamonds may be reserved by calling Cathy Moore (994–2300, ext. 241). Make reservations one or two weeks in advance. (The parks department provides bases on request if reservations are made two weeks in advance.) The first 90 minutes are free, and there is a $6 charge for each subsequent 90-minute period. An additional $35 maintenance fee will be charged to organizations that use the fields intensively.

The Jewish Community Center (971–099 also offers summer softball teams for bo camaraderie and competition.

Volleyball

Close to 300 teams participate in Rec & Ed fall and spring volleyball leagues. An organ zational meeting for fall 1994 was held in ear August, and play begins in September; th 1995 spring organizational meeting is Januar 25, 1995, and play begins in early March. Ca Rec & Ed (994–2300) for details. Leagues a available for open, men's, women's, and co-re teams of varying skill levels. For the ope leagues, the sponsor fee is currently $160 fo the fall season and $124 for the spring seaso individuals pay $38 ($45) for the fall and $3 ($36) for the spring. For men's AA or leagues, the fall sponsor fee is $125; individu als pay $32 ($38). Spring men's AA or A spon sor fee is $98; individual fees are $26 ($31) For all other leagues, the fall sponsor fee is $9 and the individual fee is $27 ($32). The sprin sponsor fee for all other divisions is $72; indi vidual fees are $22 ($26).

Rec & Ed (994–2300) sponsors sand vol leyball outdoors during the summer. Teams o four people play at Forsythe or Slauson Middl School's new sand courts one evening pe week. Registration is in early June 1995, an play begins later that month. The team sponso fee is $50; individuals pay $12 ($14). Call fo rules and scheduling information.

The Department of Parks and Recreatio also sponsors sand volleyball leagues at Fulle Park (994–4263) during the summer. Orga nized teams of women's doubles ($30), men' doubles ($30), and co-ed fours ($40) begin pla in mid-June. (Prices are for the entire team. Games are held one evening per week. Call fo rules and scheduling information.

The Washtenaw County Recreation Cente (971–6337) organizes volleyball leagues Two-, four-, and six-person teams at all skil levels participate in a number of differen leagues year-round. Teams play one night a week at the County Recreation Center. Player must form their own teams; limited space is available. Players without teams can have thei names released to managers needing more players by calling the rec center.

Volleyball courts are also available fo pickup games. Interested players can use U-M courts at the CCRB and NCRB if they have a user pass or are guests of a student. Sand courts are available for public use at Elbel Field (U-M), located at Division St. and Hill St., and outside the NCRB. Indoor volleyball space is also available at the County Recreation Center. In addition, the Ann Arbor YMCA (663–0536) hosts pickup games each Wednesday from 12:30 to 2 p.m.

The U-M Adult Lifestyle Program (764–1342) offers volleyball instruction for adults, students, and nonstudents in the winter semester only. Call for more information.

Individual Sports

Aerobics and Weight Training

Community organizations offering aerobics and weight training classes include the Ann Arbor YMCA (663–0536), the Washtenaw County Recreation Center (971–6337), and Community Education and Recreation (994–2300). Classes are offered throughout the year for a fee. Ann Arbor also has many private fitness centers; see the Yellow Pages under "Health Clubs" for complete listings.

U-M offers the Adult Lifestyle Program (764–1342), open to students and community members. Aerobics (nine different programs), weight training, and a special Fitness Over Fifty program are offered each semester. The

Bicycling

Besides being an enjoyable form of recreation and exercise, bicycling in Ann Arbor is a recognized alternative means of transportation. The city has a well-marked network of bike routes and bike paths and—since 1970—a bicycle program within the Department of Parks and Recreation (994–2786). The office publishes a map of bike paths and recommended street routes in Ann Arbor and Washtenaw County (the city portion is summarized on the parks map, p. 143), and offers cycling courses, safety workshops, and maintenance clinics.

Bicycle registration (a onetime fee of $2.50) is required of all city cyclists over age 12. It can be done through most local bike shops or at the city clerk's office (994–2725) on the second floor of City Hall.

The mostly flat lands surrounding Ann Arbor are ideal for amateur cycling. Especially popular is scenic, winding Huron River Drive, running northwest out of the city, which maintains a 35-mile-per-hour speed limit all the way to Dexter.

There are seven bike shops in Ann Arbor and three active cycling clubs. The Ann Arbor Bicycle Touring Society (AABTS) organizes group day trips around the city and the surrounding area for its 500-plus members; see monthly Observer Events listings for details. Rides for both road and mountain bike enthusiasts. AABTS also plans out-of-state tours and publishes a bimonthly ride calendar and a monthly newsletter, both free to members. Annual dues are $10 (individual) and $13 (family). For more information, write: AABTS, P.O. Box 1585, AA 48106, or call the AABTS hotline at 994–0044.

The small Ann Arbor Velo Club, sponsored by the Cycle Cellar bike shop, focuses on racing and arranges numerous workouts and meets for its members. The $25 annual club membership fee includes a newsletter. For information, call or write Cycle Cellar, 220 Felch St., AA 48103, 769–1115; or Paul Alman, 642 Greenhills Dr., AA 48105, 761–1603.

The Potawatomi Mountain Bike Chapter of the Michigan Mountain Bike Association is an organization dedicated to safe and responsible mountain biking in local recreation areas. This group also works to develop and maintain mountain biking trails. Weekend trips and community service activities are planned. For monthly meeting information, call Reinhold Cordella at (313) 231–3725.

Single and tandem bicycles are available for hourly rental at the Gallup Park Livery, 3000 Fuller Rd. 662–9319. Cost for one hour is $5 (single) and $6 (tandem). Add 50¢ for each additional half-hour. A $10 cash deposit ($15 after 5 p.m.) and a driver's license are necessary.

Boating and Sailing

Ann Arbor Power Squadron (information: 662–9138; class registration: 994–2300) is a social and educational group for power and sail boaters that offers beginning and advanced classes twice a year. Would-be members should start by taking the basic seven-week boating class; classes start in October 1994 and in February 1995 at Clague School, 2616 Nixon Rd. $5 ($7) class fee; $25 fee for materials.

Ann Arbor Rowing Club, P.O. Box 3128, AA 48106. This not-for-profit organization provides a safe and affordable rowing opportunity to all those interested, regardless of age, gender, physical ability, or experience. Learn to Row classes for all ages, as well as programs for competitive and adaptive rowers. Members at all levels compete in sponsored regattas. Six-week sessions held May through September on Argo Pond. Write for dues and fees.

The U-M Sailing Club, 8010 Strawberry Lake Rd., Base Line Lake, 426–4299, provides a fleet of boats and sailboards for members, who include both U-M students and the general public. General meeting every Thursday (April through November), 7:45 p.m., 311 W. Engineering Bldg. Also sponsors intra-club racing.

Bowling at Colonial Lanes

Lessons available on Saturdays. Annual membership (April through Thanksgiving) is $95 for students and $125 for nonstudents. Summer membership (May through August) is $55 for students and $95 for nonstudents.

Barton Boat Club, 401 Barton Shore Dr. Call Bob Randolph, 973–0740. A sailing club for Snipe and Laser sailboat enthusiasts. The club sails every Sunday, May through October, at 2 p.m. at Barton Pond and sponsors regattas. Club members travel to other regattas as well, and should ultimately be willing to buy their own boat. Also sponsors a fast-growing junior sailing program. Membership fee $150 per year.

Bowling

Bel-Mark Lanes, 3530 Jackson Rd. 994–8433. Offers 40 lanes, a bar, pool tables, video games, and darts. Leagues bowl from September through May. Cost varies depending on time of day, day of the week, and age of the bowler ($1.50–$2.25 per game). Shoe rental is $1.25. Call for hours.

Colonial Lanes, 1950 S. Industrial Hwy. 665–4474. Offers 40 lanes, restaurant and lounge, dart room, video/pinball room, and batting cages in the summer. Bowling leagues are offered throughout the year. No reservations are necessary for open bowling ($1.60–$2.25 per game); cost varies depending on the time of day, day of the week, and age of the bowler. Group rates available. Shoe rental is $1.50. Call for hours.

Canoeing

There are three canoe liveries along the Huron River. Argo Park and Gallup Park liveries are run by the city, while Skip's, a private livery, operates out of Delhi Metropark. A canoe auction, a canoe show, and two instructional clinics are held every May and June at Gallup Park; call 662–9319 for more information.

Argo Park Canoe Livery, 1055 Longshore Dr. 668–7411. Rowboats, fishing poles and supplies, long-term and overnight canoe rental, cartop carriers, canoe package trips, and concessions. To rent a canoe or a rowboat, a $10 cash deposit ($15 after 5 p.m.) and a driver's license are required. Rental fees are graduated by the hour: for two hours, the cost is $8 (weekdays) and $10 (weekends & holidays). The maximum charge, for seven hours of canoeing, is $12.25 (weekdays) and $14 (weekends & holidays). Designated student and family days allow participants to canoe for half price. Scenic package trips, which allow you to travel downstream and return the canoe at a second facility, are also available by reservation. Hours: April 2–May 22 and Sept. 6–Oct. 30, Sat. & Sun. only, 9 a.m.–8 p.m.; May 23–Sept. 5, Mon.–Fri. 11 a.m.–8 p.m., weekends & holidays 8 a.m.–9 p.m.

Gallup Park Canoe Livery, 3000 Fuller Rd. 662–9319. Paddleboats, bikes, fishing supplies, and concessions. Paddleboat rental is $4.50 per half-hour (weekdays) or $5 (weekends & holidays). Deposit and discount information is the same as for Argo Park (see above). Hours: Apr. 2–May 27 and Sept. 6–Oct. 30, 11 a.m.–7 p.m. (opens at 9 a.m. Sat., Sun., & holidays); May 29–Sept. 6, 11 a.m.–9 p.m. (opens at 9 a.m. Sat., Sun., & holidays). Bike rental is also available; see listing under Bicycling.

Skip's Huron River Canoe Livery, Delhi Metropark, East Delhi Road. 769–8686. Open April through October. Offers package trips only. There is a $10 deposit for canoes. Trips, which leave on the hour, begin at Dexter-Huron Metropark ($12) and Hudson Mills Metropark ($20). Both end at Delhi. Hours: Mon. noon–6 p.m., Tues.–Fri. 10 a.m.–6 p.m., Sat. & Sun. 9 a.m.–1 p.m. Twilight trips are available Monday through Friday for groups filling six or more canoes. Reservations are required for weekend and twilight trips, one or two weeks in advance.

The Great Lakes Paddlers (481–1883) plans canoe and kayak trips and other social events. The group also conducts classes on technique and safety. Meets every Wednesday, April through October, 6:30 p.m., Canoesport, 940 N. Main St. Each meeting is followed by an evening paddle on Argo Pond.

Disc Golf

This popular new sport is played with Frisbees and other flying discs; the goal is to land the disc in a "pole hole" in the fewest shots. Players are awarded points each week based on their performance in comparison to their established average. The Ann Arbor Area Disc Induced Sports Club sponsors open play and weekly league play at Hudson Mills Metropark's 18-hole disc golf course May through September. $20 seasonal fee includes league shirt and discs; spectators free. Hudson Mills Metropark Activity Center, 8801 N. Territorial Rd. (between Dexter-Pinckney Rd. and Huron River Dr.), Dexter. 996–0212, 434–1615.

Fishing

On its journey through the city, the Huron River is repeatedly dammed to form serene ponds. According to the Fisheries Department at the Jackson branch of the Department of Natural Resources, the Huron River is in very good shape these days, particularly since its path takes it largely through state park land and avoids agricultural and industrial areas. The DNR recommends eating no more than one meal a week of fish from inland Michigan waters (one meal a month for children and women of childbearing age) because of widespread mercury contamination; within those restrictions, fish from the river are safe to eat. The Huron contains a variety of fish: largemouth and smallmouth bass, rock bass, crappie, bluegill, carp, pike, catfish, and even some walleye. Popular fishing spots include Barton Dam (off Huron River Dr. at Barton Pond), Gallup Park, and Argo Dam, with its adjacent spillway complex. Those who want to get away from civilization can rent canoes from either the Argo Park or Gallup Park liveries and fish upstream. Live bait is available at both facilities. Gallup Park offers a free youth fishing pond.

All anglers are advised to consult the state Department of Natural Resources' fishing regulations; a copy is available at the Gallup canoe livery. Anyone 17 or older must have a fishing license. Licenses cost $9.85 per year (plus $1 for a passbook) and are sold at Meijer, Kmart, and Dunham's Sports Outfitters.

Numerous small lakes, many only a short drive from Ann Arbor, offer good fishing. Call the Huron-Clinton Metroparks Authority at (800) 47–PARKS, or the Waterloo Recreation Area at 475–8307.

For guaranteed successful fishing without a license, check out Spring Valley Trout Farm (12190 Island Lake Dr., four miles west of Dexter). Popular with families and school and church groups, this trout farm offers two natural artesian-spring ponds, well stocked with trout and catfish. Poles and bait provided. Call 426–4772 for hours and prices.

Golf—Public Courses

Golf enthusiasts have several challenging and well-maintained courses to choose from in Ann Arbor. The city and the U-M each own two courses, and there are nationally ranked private courses in the area as well. Public courses include:

Huron Hills Golf Course, 3465 E. Huron River Dr. 971–6840. 18 holes, par 68. Overlooking the Huron River and Gallup Park, the city-owned Huron Hills provides some of the city's best scenery. The course is suited for both beginning and experienced golfers.

Reservations are taken daily. Walk-on play may be available depending on reservation schedule. Tee-time reservations are taken beginning at 7 a.m. Monday a week in advance of play for Ann Arbor residents (nonresidents must wait until 10 a.m. on Monday). Greens fees: weekdays $11 (18 holes), $8 (9 holes); weekends and holidays $12.50 (18 holes), $9 (9 holes). Special twilight rates: $6 flat fee. Call for current twilight hours. Junior and senior rates: $6 flat fee weekdays only (Ann Arbor residents only). Season passes available. Club rental: $5 a set. Pull cart rental: $2. Snack bar. Hours: generally sunrise to sunset. S

Leslie Park Golf Course, 2120 Traver Rd. 994–1163. This popular city-owned golf course is to be closed from October 1994 through May 1996 for a $1.8 million renovation.

Stonebridge Golf Club, 5315 S. Stonebridge Blvd. 429–8383. 18 holes, par 72. This new privately owned course, open to the public, was designed by Arthur Hills. Golf Digest magazine recently ranked it as the seventeenth-best public course in the U.S. Each set of tees has a USGA golf rating, and three PGA pros are on staff to provide golf lessons. Full-service restaurant on site. (See Restaurants, p. 165.)

Reservations are recommended. Greens fees: weekends or holidays without a cart: $35 (18 holes), $23 (9 holes); weekends or holidays with a cart: $45 (18 holes), $28 (9 holes); weekdays without a cart: $30 (18 holes), $18 (9 holes); weekdays with a cart: $40 (18 holes), $23 (9 holes). Twilight rates (6–9 p.m.): $20 with cart; $15 without. Hours: daily 7 a.m.–9 p.m.

Golf—U-M Courses

University Golf Course, Stadium Blvd. east of Main St. 663–5005. 18 holes, par 71. This course, one of five in the U.S. designed by Scottish architect Alister Mackenzie, was completely remodeled in 1993. It is open to U-M students, faculty, staff, alumni, and their guests. An extensive renovation of the clubhouse and snack bar was completed this spring.

Tee-time reservations are taken starting at 7 a.m. Monday for the following weekend. Weekday reservations should be made one week in advance from the date of play. Greens fees: students $15 weekdays, $18 weekends; faculty and staff $20 weekdays, $25 weekends; alumni $30 weekdays, $40 weekends; guests $40 weekdays, $50 weekends. Twilight rates (after 6 p.m.): $15 weekdays, $17 weekends. Golf cart rental: $22 (18 holes), $13 (9 holes). Pull cart rental: $2. Clubs available for rent at $10 a set. Clubhouse hours: 7 a.m.–dark.

Radrick Farms, 4875 Geddes Rd. 998–7040. 18 holes, par 72. Designed by Pete Dye, Radrick covers 260 acres and is reserved for U-M faculty and staff and their guests. (There is a five-year waiting list for faculty and staff. U-M alumni are also welcome to place their names on the 15-year membership waiting list.) No club rentals. Food cart available. Clubhouse hours: daily 7 a.m.–dark.

Golf—Private and Semi-Private Courses

Ann Arbor also has one semi-private and several private golf courses. Call each club for membership information.

Georgetown Golf Course (semi-private), 1365 King George Blvd. 971–5500. The golf course is the only part of the Georgetown Country Club open to the public. 9-hole executive course, par 28. Greens fees: $7.50 weekdays (seniors $6), $9.50 weekends (seniors $8). Second round an additional $3.50 (seniors $2.50). No golf cart rentals. Golf club rental: $5. Pull cart rental: $2. Hours: 8 a.m.–9 p.m. daily. S

Ann Arbor Country Club (private), 4699 E. Loch Alpine Dr. 426–4693.

Ann Arbor Golf and Outing Club (private), 400 E. Stadium Blvd. 663–4044.

Travis Pointe Country Club (private), 2829 Travis Pointe Rd. 662–2582.

The Huron Valley Women's Golf Club sponsors seven golf leagues (including a learning league) with a total of 200 participants. The club acts as a general network for women golfers in the Huron Valley area and works to promote opportunities for women in golf. Plans a monthly in-town golf event, a monthly trip to courses in northern and western Michigan, and yearly out-of-state trips (to Las Vegas in October 1994 and to Phoenix in March 1995). Also sponsors a charity golf outing each August to raise funds for Huron Services for Youth. Membership is $35 per year, including handicap. For more information call Janice Caldwell, 485–5683.

Golf Range (2815 W. Liberty Rd., 769–4536) is open daily 9 a.m.–9 p.m. Golf balls are $4.50 for a large bucket, $3.75 for a small one. Pat's Golfland (3113 Carpenter Rd., 973–9004) is open daily 9 a.m.–9 p.m. Golf balls are $5 for a large bucket, $4 for a medium one.

The Department of Parks and Recreation (994–2780) offers golf lessons from April to September. Classes are held at Liberty Golf Range and Huron Hills Golf Course ($58 per session). Golf clubs can be provided at no cost. Enroll in person on the fifth floor of City Hall or by mail. Classes fill up quickly.

Ice and Figure Skating

One of Ann Arbor's most popular recreational facilities is Veterans Park Ice Arena, the city's indoor skating rink. The city also runs an outdoor artificial rink at Buhr Park, and the public can use the U-M's Yost Ice Arena, giving ice skaters a wide choice of places to skate.

Natural ice rinks: When conditions permit, you can skate on the river at Gallup Park or on First Sister Lake at Dolph Park, though these activities are not sponsored or monitored by the city. In December the Department of Parks and Recreation (994–2780) offers a demonstration of how to build and maintain a backyard ice rink; assistance is also available for neighborhood groups wanting to construct a community rink.

Buhr Park, 2751 Packard Rd. 971–3228. Covered outdoor artificial regulation-size rink, open November through March (depending on weather conditions). Heated lobby, snack bar, skate rental ($1.75), lockers, video games, and skate sharpening. Open skating times vary, so call ahead. Fees are $3 for adults and $2.50 for seniors (60 and up) and youths (17 and under). Season passes are available. S

Veterans Park Ice Arena, 2150 Jackson Rd. 761–7240. Open October through May. It has a regulation-size rink (85 feet by 200 feet), seating for 2,000 spectators, skate rental ($1.75), skate sharpening, coin-operated lockers, and a snack bar. Fees are $3.75 for adults and $3 for youths (17 and under) and seniors (60 and up). Vets is home to all of Ann Arbor's organized hockey play. (This year's season gets under way November 19 with a special kick-off event featuring two high school hockey games, a demonstration game by 5-and-6-year olds, and precision skating by the Ann Arbor Figure Skating Club.) General skating on weekend afternoons and evenings. (Hours vary with hockey league play. Call for drop-in times.) Special hours over the holidays. Discounts available for avid users. The rink may be rented for private gatherings. S

Yost Ice Arena, 1000 S. State St. 764–4600. Open July through April. U-M's indoor regulation-size rink provides skate rental ($1 for all students, $1.50 for all others), skate sharpening ($3), and lockers. Hours for general public skating are Sept.–April: Mon.–Fri. noon–1 p.m. (Thurs. 8–10 p.m.); non-football Sat. 2–4 p.m.; non-hockey Sat. 7–9 p.m.; Sun. 2–4 p.m. Summer hours are 1–3 p.m. on weekends only. Entry fees are currently $4 for adults, $3 for U-M and other students, and $3.50 for U-M faculty and staff.

The Ann Arbor Figure Skating Club, P.O. Box 1082, AA 48106. 663–3076. A registered chapter of the United States Figure Skating Association, this club offers fall, winter, and spring lessons for skaters of all skill levels in freestyle, ice dancing, figures, and precision at Vets and Yost ice arenas. The first year of membership is $25 plus a required $10 USFSA fee. The subsequent yearly fee is $45. Instructional and rental costs vary with skill level and season. In addition to its regular programs, the AAFSA holds a popular winter show, "Melody on Ice," at Veterans Park Ice Arena as well as a springtime invitational competition.

In-line Skating

In-line skating (also called Rollerblading) has taken Ann Arbor and the rest of the country by storm. Unlike skateboarding, in-line skating is not prohibited or restricted, except by a few local businesses. For those who do not own their own blades or who would like to try out this exercise option, three downtown sport shops rent in-line skates: Ann Arbor Cyclery, 1224 Packard Rd., 761–2749; Eric's Action Sportswear, 419 E. Liberty St., 663–6771; and State Street Sports, 330 S. State St., 761–7615.

Martial Arts

Martial arts classes are offered by the Ann Arbor YMCA (663–0536) year-round in Tai Chi, Judo, Aikido, Karate, Choi Kwang Do, and Tibetan Martial Arts. The YMCA also offers a Karate Club and a Judo Club. Rec & Ed (994–2300) provides instruction in Aikido, Tae Kwon Do, and Tai Chi throughout the year. The U-M Adult Lifestyle Program (764–1342) sponsors beginning and advanced Tae Kwon Do classes for students and nonstudents at the CCRB. See "Karate and other Martial Arts" in the Yellow Pages for a listing of private studios.

Racquetball

Racquetball/handball courts are available at several public facilities. The Ann Arbor YMCA (663–0536) has two courts open to members and their guests. The U-M's CCRB (936–0627) has 13 courts; the IM Building (763–3562) has 12 courts; and the NCRB (764–2117) has five courts. Hours vary with the semester, and courts are in high demand. Reservations are usually necessary except on challenge or open courts, which change players on the hour. Most private health clubs have racquetball courts for member use. (See "Health Clubs" in the Yellow Pages.)

Running/Jogging/Walking

The city's plentiful parkland, including long stretches of scenic riverfront pathway, yields miles of off-road running. Many Ann Arborites don't even have to leave their own neighborhoods to find prime jogging space—the city abounds in residential nooks and crannies secluded from traffic, including a surprising number of zealously preserved dirt roads.

Ann Arbor offers a variety of running clubs, stores, and events for both advanced and beginning runners. The Ann Arbor Track Club (AATC) has become the major cohesive force for Ann Arbor's running population. AATC events include a weekly Speed Workout on Tuesday evenings throughout the year, held at Huron High School in good weather and at the U-M Track and Tennis Building during the winter. During the summer, the AATC holds many All-Comers Meets for runners of all ages and skills. For meet schedules and locations, call the AATC hotline at 663–9740 or pick up flyers at downtown running shops. The AATC also sponsors beginning runners groups and a youth program, and offers training sessions during the fall, spring, and summer.

AATC membership also entitles runners to a yearly picnic, seasonal meetings, a newsletter, and discounts at area running events and sports stores. Membership costs $10 a year ($15 for a family). For more information, write to the Ann Arbor Track Club, P.O. Box 7551, AA 48107, or call the hotline, 663–9740.

The Ann Arbor Hash House Harriers is a group that emphasizes creatively planned running events that runners of all abilities can enjoy. Harriers model their runs after the British fox or rabbit hunts, with a "hare" marking the trail (usually in white or colored flour) that the other members ("hounds") follow. "Turtle checks" are waiting points, often supplied with beer and refreshments, which allow slower runners to catch up. For information, call the hotline, 485–3298.

For more information on area running events and organizations, contact the Ann Arbor Track Club or one of Ann Arbor's two complete running centers: Tortoise and Hare, 213 E. Liberty St., 769–9510; or Running Fit, 200 E. Washington St., 769–5016.

For indoor running in the winter or during inclement weather, the U-M has indoor tracks at the CCRB (763–3084) and the NCRB (763–4560). The County Recreation Center (971–6337) also has a two-lane indoor track.

The Washtenaw Walkers' Club invites people of all ages and fitness levels to join its free walks for fun and health. Meet at County Farm Park, Washtenaw Ave. at Platt Rd. (summers and good weather). Walks Mondays and Wednesdays from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Call Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission, 971–6337 (Mon.–Fri. 8:30 a.m.–5 p.m.) for more information. Also, the Wednesday Walkers meet at 9:30 a.m. at the Gallup Park Canoe Livery, 3000 Fuller Rd., for a brisk morning walk every Wednesday, rain or shine. Call 769–5016 for more information.

Skiing

Ann Arbor has several scenic cross-country ski trails. There is no charge to ski the ungroomed trails at Bird Hills Park, Gallup Park, Buhr Park, Dolph Park, Saginaw Forest, and Fuller Park. See the map on p. 143 for park locations. For downhill skiing, the Ann Arbor Ski Club (see below) plans outings near and far.

Huron Hills Cross Country Ski Center, 3465 E. Huron River Dr. 971–6840. Open December through early March, weather permitting, this ski area (a city golf course in summer) has groomed trails of varying skill levels, equipment rentals, ski classes, a clubhouse, and a snack bar. Entry fee is $2.50 on weekdays, $3 on weekends and holidays for those with their own skis. Season passes are available. Ski rental (includes admission) costs $6 on weekdays, $7 on weekends. Youths under 17 and seniors over 60 pay $3.75 on weekdays and $4.75 on weekends and holidays. During ski season, Huron Hills is open Mon.–Fri. 10 a.m.–6 p.m.; weekends and holidays 9 a.m.–7 p.m. S

The Ann Arbor Ski Club (P.O. Box 3258, AA 48106, hotline info: 761–3419) plans Michigan and western U.S. ski trips for cross-country and downhill skiers over age 21. The club also provides lesson information and hosts social, athletic, and recreational events throughout the year. Regular meetings are held from September through May. Call the hotline for times, location, and dues.

Swimming

Ann Arbor's public swimming pools are crowded during the summer. The three outdoor pools, all built in 1967, are open from Memorial Day to Labor Day. Mack Pool, the only city-run indoor pool, is open year-round. For Buhr, and for Mack from mid-June to early September, adults pay $2 to enter; youths 17 and under and seniors 60 and over pay $1.25. There is no charge for children under three. For Fuller, and for Mack from early September to mid-June, adults pay $2.50; youths and seniors pay $1.50. At Veterans Pool and water slide admission is $2.50 for adults, $2 for youths and seniors. Reduced rates for families are available at each pool at specific times. Season passes are available at the Department of Parks and Recreation on City Hall's fifth floor, at Mack Pool, and at other pools over Memorial Day weekend. The city pools are:

Buhr Pool, 2751 Packard Rd. 971–3228. Buhr is a 25-yard pool with six training lanes, a diving area, a wading pool, a sunning deck, locker rooms, and a snack bar. Pool hours: From Memorial Day weekend through the end of school: general public swim Mon.–Fri. 1–7 p.m.; weekends & holidays noon–7 p.m. From the end of school through Labor Day: general public swim Mon.–Fri. 1–5 p.m. & 6:30–8 p.m. (until 9 p.m. during July, until 7 p.m. after mid-Aug.); weekends & holidays noon–5 p.m. & 6:30–8 p.m. (until 9 p.m. during July, until 7 p.m. after mid-Aug.); family swim Mon.–Fri. 5–6:30 p.m. Adult lap swim: Mon.–Fri. noon–1 p.m. S

Fuller Pool, 1519 Fuller Rd. 994–4263. Fuller is the area's only Olympic-size (50 meters) pool open to the public. It has eight lanes, including several training lanes open at all times, a large wading pool and children's sand play area, a large cement sun deck, two sand volleyball courts, locker rooms, and a snack bar. Pool hours: From Memorial Day through the end of school: general public swim Mon.–Fri. 1–7 p.m.; weekends & holidays noon–7 p.m. Adult lap swim: 11 a.m. (at least one lane remains open for laps throughout the day). From the end of school through Labor Day: general public swim Mon.–Fri. 1–8 p.m.; weekends & holidays noon–8 p.m. (noon–7 p.m. after mid-Aug.). Adult lap swim: Mon.–Fri. noon; weekends & holidays 11 a.m. S

Mack Pool, 715 Brooks St. (in Mack School). 994–2898. Mack is a 25-yard indoor pool with six training lanes, a diving board, and locker rooms. The pool has a handicapped access ramp. From September to the end of the school year, daytime hours are reserved for scheduled classes (no drop-in swimming). Open-swim hours vary, so call for current information. From the end of the school year to Labor Day: open swim noon–6 p.m. daily. Lap lanes available noon–1 p.m. daily.

Veterans Pool, 2150 Jackson Rd. 761–7240. Vets Park Pool, which underwent an extensive renovation in 1993, has a 25-yard pool with six lanes, a sunning deck, a shaded deck area, an exercise room, locker rooms, a snack bar, a zero-depth pool and interactive water play area for children, as well as Ann Arbor's only water slide. The pool has a handicapped access ramp. Pool hours are the same as those of Buhr Pool, above.

The Ann Arbor YMCA, 350 S. Fifth Ave. 663–0536. 20-yard pool with four lanes, a shallow, warm training pool for kids and arthritic swimmers, locker rooms, and a snack bar. Open-swim hours vary daily. Members only. Nonmembers can take swim instruction, aquatic fitness, or older adult classes, offered year-round; $5 day passes are also available. S

Washtenaw County Recreation Center, 2960 Washtenaw Ave. at Platt Rd. 971–6337. The center has a 25-yard indoor pool. It offers lane swimming, a wheelchair ramp into the water, and an underwater bench in the whirlpool area. Admission is $2.50 for adults, $1.25 for youths and seniors. Swimming instruction and aquatic fitness classes available. Year-round facility passes are also available. S

The U-M has three pools open to students, faculty, staff, and user pass holders. The CCRB pool (763–3084) is 25 yards long with six training lanes and locker rooms. The NCRB pool (763–4560) is 25 yards long with at least four training lanes plus locker rooms and a sun deck. The IM Building pool (763–3562) is 25 yards long, has six lanes (including four training lanes), a diving board with limited diving hours, and locker rooms. Hours of each pool vary with the semester. The Adult Lifestyle Program (764–1342) sponsors swimming instruction and aquatic fitness classes.

Rec & Ed (994–2300) offers instructional classes in swimming year-round for all ages. Classes are offered Saturday evenings and weekends.

Tennis

The Ann Arbor city parks, public schools, and the U-M all have tennis courts available. The courts are free for public use when they are not in use for classes or tournaments. The courts operate on a first-come, first-served basis. Unless otherwise noted, courts are not lighted.

Three of the busiest and largest concentrations of courts are at Huron High, 2727 Fuller Rd., 994–2076 (seven courts); Pioneer High, 601 W. Stadium Blvd., 994–2120 (ten courts); and the CCRB, 401 Washtenaw Ave., 763–3084 (16 courts). The CCRB courts, which are just north of the building at Palmer Field, are open to U-M user pass holders and their guests.

The lighted courts in town include four at Fuller Park, four at Buhr Park, three at Vets Park, and two at South Maple Park. See the parks map on p. 143.

Many of the city parks and public schools also have courts open for public use. See the chart on p. 145.

Rec & Ed (994–2300) offers instructional tennis for ages 7 to adult during the fall and spring and for ages 5 to adult in the summer. Tennis leagues are also available during the summer months.

People who want to play tennis in the winter or year-round during inclement weather can join one of several indoor tennis clubs in the area. These clubs have rosters of tennis pros who can be hired for private and group lessons, and they also offer numerous outdoor courts for summer play. Membership prices vary and change frequently, so call each club for details.

The clubs include: the Huron Valley Tennis Club, 3235 Cherry Hill Rd., 662–5514; Liberty Sports Complex, 2975 W. Liberty Rd., 665–3738; Chippewa Racquet Club, 2525 Golfside Dr., 434–6100; and Travis Pointe Country Club, 2829 Travis Pointe Rd., 665–8463.

Yoga

The yoga classes offered at the YMCA (663–0536) have made Ann Arbor something of a national center for the study of the B. K. S. Iyengar technique. In addition to Levels I, II, and III, there are classes in ageless yoga, yoga philosophy, yoga for pregnancy, and special workshops. Fees range from $5 (members) to $50 (nonmembers). Rec & Ed (994–2300) also offers yoga classes year-round at a variety of locations. Call for schedule and fees. ■

Thanks to the U-M and EMU, Ann Arbor has an abundance of performing artists. Their students, faculty, and alumni, and a general population that's well educated and culturally attuned, provide both the performers and the audience for an extraordinary variety of performing arts series.

Listings include each group's 1994–1995 schedule as of July 1994. For changes and additions, more information, or to verify dates, call the number listed or check the monthly Ann Arbor Observer Events listings.

Entertainment listings are organized in four major sections:

Performing Arts Series 1994–1995

General Arts Series

Ann Arbor Summer Festival, P.O. Box 4070, AA 48106. 747–2278. Held annually since 1984, the Ann Arbor Summer Festival features theater, dance, and music by national and local performing artists at the Power Center and Lydia Mendelssohn Theater, as well as free concerts and movies atop the Fletcher Street parking structure. The 1995 Summer Festival is tentatively scheduled for June 17 through July 9.

Hillel Foundation, 1429 Hill St. 769–0500. The center of the U-M Jewish community, Hillel and the several student organizations it houses produce a wide range of religious, political, cultural, and arts events for the general public. 1994–1995 guest speakers include writer and cartoonist Art Spiegelman (Mar. 27), fiction writer Max Apple (Jan. 23), fiction writer and lesbian feminist Melanie Kaye/Kantrowitz, (Oct. 23), and humorist Moshe Waldocks (Dec. date to be announced). A Jewish Film Festival is tentatively scheduled for March.

Michigan Theater Foundation, 603 E. Liberty St. 668–8397. The MTF presents repertory and first-run films in the historic, city-owned Michigan Theater (see Films, p. 156), and also sponsors two live performing arts series, Onstage at the Michigan and the Not Just for Kids family concerts (see below). Special events include a showing of F. W. Murnau's silent horror classic "Nosferatu," with live accompaniment by the Michigan Sinfonietta (Oct. 29 or 30), and a joint stage production with Chelsea's Purple Rose Theater of Dickens's "A Christmas Carol" (Dec. 9–11, 16, & 17).

1994–1995 Onstage at the Michigan tentative schedule: the Broadway touring production of Marsha Norman and Lucy Simon's "The Secret Garden" (Oct. 9), the Chenille Sisters's 10th anniversary concert (Nov. 4), the Broadway touring production of David Mamet's "Oleanna" (Nov. 11), jazz singer Mel Torme & His Quintet (Mar. 13), and a silent, subtitled version of Jean Cocteau's film "La Belle et le Bete," accompanied by Philip Glass's operatic score performed live by the Philip Glass Ensemble (date to be announced).

1994–1995 Not Just For Kids Series tentative schedule: Fred Penner (Oct. 2), the New York City–based Theaterworks children's theater troupe in an original adaptation of E. B. White's "Charlotte's Web" (Nov. 20), Theaterworks' original adaptation of C. S. Lewis's "The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe" (Feb. 5), and the New Jersey–based Arts Power children's theater troupe in its adaptation of L. M. Montgomery's "Anne of Green Gables" (Apr. 2).

Performance Network, 408 W. Washington St. 663–0681. This local nonprofit organization produces a wide range of political, experimental, and original drama. The Network's annual "Raise the Roof" fund-raiser (Dec. 10, Lydia Mendelssohn Theater) showcases many of Ann Arbor's best performing artists. The Network's 1994–1995 season opens with Michael Hastings's "Tom & Viv" (Sept. 8–25) and a revival of Ann Arborite Jay Stielstra's popular "Tittabawassee Jane" (Oct. 13–30). "September Dances in Exile" (Oct. 6–9) is an annual showcase of new work by local choreographers. The Network's 1994–1995 "New Work Series" (dates to be announced) features new work by a variety of local artists, including choreography by Whitley Setrakian and People Dancing, dance theater by Jesse Richards and Sister Earth, Hilary Ramsden in a one-woman show by Erika Block, and plays by Jay Stielstra, Malcolm Tulip, Al Sjoerdsma, and the Diversability Theater. Also, monthly multimedia shows by Ann Arbor's Flapjack Productions and other guest artist productions to be announced. The Network sponsors Goodtime Saturdays, a monthly series of Saturday afternoon programs performed by Ann Arbor's Goodtime Players and other children's theater troupes; and through its Goodtime Network, the Network also serves as a booking agency for several local youth- and family-oriented performance groups. Its facilities are also used by many local and out-of-town theater, dance, and performance art groups.

Films

Ann Arbor Film Festival

Ann Arbor Film Festival, P.O. Box 8232, AA 48107. 995–5356. This internationally recognized showcase of the newest in experimental, avant-garde, and independent 16mm films is held annually at the Michigan Theater. 33rd Ann Arbor Film Festival: Mar. 14–19.

Commercial Theaters

Ann Arbor Theater, 210 S. Fifth Ave. (between Liberty and Washington streets). 761–9700. The Ann Arbor Theater offers a mix of first-run Hollywood releases and more esoteric fare. Its conversion from one screen to two left it with one theater that is incredibly long and narrow with a very small screen. Plan on sitting near the front of this one. The second theater is unexceptional. Projection, sound (stereo surround sound in both theaters), and upkeep are good at both theaters. Two extra pluses here: the popcorn is the best in town, and in true Ann Arbor fashion, muffins, coffee, and hot cocoa are for sale along with the usual high-priced boxed sweets. There is a small parking lot next to the south side of the theater and two public parking structures on Fourth Avenue within a few minutes' walk. Admission: adults, $5.75; students with valid ID, $4 at all times; children and seniors, $3.50. Weekdays before 6 p.m., $3.50.

Fox Village Theaters, 375 Maple Rd, in the Maple Village Shopping Center. 994–8080. When this movie multiplex closed two years ago, apparently for good, west side moviegoers were distressed to find themselves without a neighborhood movie theater. Then the building was bought by the MJR Corporation, completely refurbished, and turned into a first-rate "subrun" theater that shows a wide variety of recent releases, art films, and family fare on its four screens. Its eclectic programming and $1.50 ticket price (all shows, all times) has made Fox Village a welcome addition to the local movie scene. The theater regularly offers "family film festivals," a family or children's movie to which all kids 14 and under get in free (until capacity). Needless to say, this has been enormously successful. Seats, with cupholders, are reasonably comfortable, if creaky. Popcorn is the usual price and popped in canola oil. The concession stand has regularly advertised specials on popcorn and pop combos. Plenty of parking. Admission: $1.50.

The Movies (United Artists), Briarwood Mall. 769–8780. The Movies sports seven screens, in theaters ranging from 135 to 350 seats. After years of a bare-bones approach to moviegoing, this complex underwent a full-scale renovation in 1994. With an expanded lobby, completely new seating (with cupholders), ultra-Dolby sound, assisted-listening devices, and improved handicapped access, the Movies at Briarwood is much improved. Programming is mostly mainstream, but management says they'll be adding more "artsy" films during the off-months (Jan.–April.). Projection and upkeep are fine and the concession stand recently introduced air-popped popcorn. Ample parking. Admission: adults, $6 ($4 before 6 p.m.); children and seniors, $4.

Showcase Cinemas, 4100 Carpenter Rd. (Pittsfield Township). 973–8380. This 14-screen megaplex, which opened in 1988, is big in every way, beginning with its awe-inspiring parking lot. Efficient crowd control seems to have been the main concern of the interior designers and rightly so: the lobby, with its art gallery, penny candy stand, and video games, is packed on weekends. Buying tickets and refreshments, despite the long lines, is relatively simple. The theaters themselves are the nicest in town, with large, comfortable seats, good viewing angles, and wide aisles. Programming is firmly anchored in the middle of the road, but lately has made darting forays into more sophisticated fare. The sound system and projection are generally excellent. Admission: adults, $6.25 ($4.25 weekdays before 6 p.m.); children and seniors, $4.25.

State Theater, 233 S. State St. 994–4024. The bottom floor of the once-grand State Theater now houses Urban Outfitters, but upstairs, the top half of the old screen yields two small theaters, with each audience sitting in half of what used to be the balcony. Moviegoers (mostly U-M students) forgive the severely cramped seating at an angle to the screens because the shows (mainly just off first runs) are a lot closer to campus than the mall or Showcase, and at $5 per ticket ($3 with student ID), a bit cheaper. There are $3 bargain matinees daily, plus special $1 showings periodically through the week. Popcorn (popped in corn oil) and concessions are relatively inexpensive. Parking is available in two nearby public parking structures, on Maynard and E. Washington streets.

Nonprofit Film Societies

Ann Arbor Film Cooperative, U-M Michigan League, 911 North University Ave. 769–7787. This group was formed in the late 1960's, originally to support the work of local filmmakers with income from screenings. Gradually, production efforts dwindled, and the organization evolved into an exhibition-only group. Current offerings span the spectrum of high quality art and commercial films. Admission: $3; double feature, $4.

Ann Arbor Silent Film Society, Sheraton Inn, 3200 Boardwalk Dr. 677–1359. Monthly showings of classic films include a feature and usually a couple of shorts. Admission: $3.50.

Cinema Guild, Michigan League, 911 North University Ave. 994–0027. The oldest of all student film groups at the U-M, Cinema Guild has been showing since 1950. Cinema Guild began by showing Chaplin, Eisenstein, Welles, and other film pioneers. Today, films are chosen by group members with an emphasis on foreign cinema. Under financial pressure from rival groups and the VCR revolution, Cinema Guild has lately begun showing more contemporary films, but the orientation toward quality remains. Admission: $3; double feature, $4.

Hill Street Cinema, Hillel Foundation, 1429 Hill St. 769–0500. An off-campus film group housed at the local center for Jewish students, the Hill Street Cinema screens a wide variety of films in the Irwin Green Auditorium, which seats 500 and is air-conditioned. Programming foruses on films of interest to the Jewish community. The group also sponsors guest speakers. Admission: $3–$5.

M-Flicks, University Activities Center, U-M Michigan Union. 763–1107. The only film group with university funding, M-Flicks, originally called Mediatrics, was founded within the University Activities Center in the mid-1970's. In the past, selections have tended toward commercial fare, but recent programming has become more interesting and original. Admission: $3; double feature, $4.

Michigan Theater Foundation, 603 E. Liberty St. (at Maynard). 668–8480. The Michigan Theater, an ornate relic of a much grander era of film exhibition, is indisputably the city's most handsome theater. Programming is eclectic, with a varied schedule of foreign and domestic films forming the core of screen offerings. Occasional silent films are accompanied by the thundering harmonies of the theater's restored organ. The reinstallation of 70mm projectors allows big screen masterpieces like "West Side Story" and "Spartacus" to be shown in their full glory. Every March, the theater is the location of the Ann Arbor Film Festival, a week-long binge of selected avant-garde and student films from across the country and around the world. Parking is available in two nearby public parking structures, on Maynard and E. Washington streets. Admission: adults, $5; students and seniors, $4; members, $3.

U-M Center for Japanese Studies, 108 Lane Hall, 204 S. State St. 764–6307. For the past several years, Japanese Studies has sponsored a series of classic Japanese films by noted directors such as Akira Kurosawa and Kon Ichikawa. This year's films, to be shown in the U-M's Lorch Hall Auditorium Fridays at 7 p.m., include a fall series of classical Japanese films and a winter series to be announced. Admission is free.

Russ Collins
The man behind the Michigan

After twelve years on the job, Michigan Theater executive director Russ Collins still sometimes gets goose bumps. "I'll be walking into my office and I'll go, 'Wow, this is a movie palace! This is really great!' "

Collins was only twenty-six when he became director of the Michigan in November 1982, a couple of years after the city bought the endangered vintage theater to keep its owners from turning it into a shopping mall. He works for the Michigan Theater Foundation, the private nonprofit group that runs the theater for the city.

Longtime Michigan Theater organist and MTF trustee Henry Aldridge recalls that Collins was "like a kid in a candy store" when he started. What impresses Aldridge and lots of other people is Collins's refusal to become jaded on a job that's not exactly a night out at the movies. After two years of losses on both of its series of live productions, the MTF had to undertake an aggressive fund-raising campaign to finance the 1994–1995 season (see schedule, p. 152). The theater is "moving from adolescence to adulthood," says Collins. "And we're suffering some of the anxieties and the difficulties of that period of life."

Tall and lanky, Collins works out of a small second-floor office. The Michigan relies much less on donations than do most community-owned auditoriums. So selecting which films and performances to schedule is a tension-filled gamble, Collins acknowledges. He says Ann Arbor theatergoers are reluctant to pay the price to see first-rate theatrical productions. "They will pay fifty or sixty dollars to go see something in New York or Toronto. But if you bring the same thing to Ann Arbor, they have a hard time deciding to pay more than thirty dollars for it."

Films ($5 regular admission, $3 for Michigan Theater members) remain the Michigan's bread and butter. The restored movie palace's niche is first-run art films such as "Like Water for Chocolate" and "The Piano." The Michigan also brings back classics like "The Wizard of Oz" and presents annual benefit screenings of silent classics, accompanied by an orchestra or the music of the Barton theater organ that still rises magically up from the orchestra pit.

Collins went to movies at the Michigan as a kid. He's a graduate of Pattengill Elementary, Tappan Junior High, Huron High, and the U-M. While a U-M graduate student in theater management, he started his own successful summer dinner theater. Then, at age twenty-five, he became a producer-entrepreneur: he brought Hal Holbrook in "Mark Twain Tonight" to the Michigan, selling the tickets by phone from his father's dental lab. "It was insane!" he says. "I didn't have money. But it turned out very successfully."

The next year, Collins was appointed director of the Michigan. While volunteers launched a successful $2 million fund-raising drive to restore the interior to its former gilded glory, Collins concentrated on developing programs. He praises the community volunteers for the rebirth of the Michigan; many return the compliment, saying that he has provided both stability and vision.

Collins shows up for most live performances and many films, and he is often on hand during weekends. But he did not totally check his personal life at the Michigan box office. A divorced single father until his recent marriage to Debra Polich, he is active in eleven-year-old Alan's Boy Scout troop. During vacations, he is more likely to take hiking trips with Alan than to attend movies or plays. —Eve Silberman

Lane Hall, 204 S. State St. 764–6308. This student group offers a film series whose popularity has grown by leaps and bounds. Features range from People's Republic realist tales to hyperkinetic Hong Kong sock-'em-ups. Films are shown intermittent Saturdays at the U-M's Lorch Hall Auditorium; call for fall schedule. Admission is free.

U-M Program in Film & Video Studies, 2512 Frieze Building (105 S. State St.). 764–0147. The Film Classics Series, featuring great movies from the silent era to modern times, runs during the school year on Sundays at 7 p.m. in the U-M's Natural Sciences Auditorium. Admission is free.

Campus Auditoriums

Angell Hall Auditorium A, concourse between Angell, Haven, and Mason halls. Enter the glassed-in "fishbowl" directly west of the U-M Grad Library front steps and proceed straight ahead into the concourse. Recently remodeled, this theater has approximately 385 comfortable theater-type seats, a decent-sized screen, fair to good sound, slightly shallow seating angle. Equipped to show 35mm films and Cinemascope. Parking in the U-M's structure on Thayer St.

Lorch Hall Auditorium, Tappan St. at Monroe St. Entering Lorch Hall from Tappan Street, you will find the auditorium at the left rear corner of the building. The longest operating film auditorium on campus, Lorch Hall has about 350 seats, good acoustics, and a long, narrow rectangular shape that's good for viewing films. A recent renovation, which included air-conditioning and cushioned seats, makes this the best place on campus for film viewing. Unfortunately, the Economics Department, headquartered in Lorch Hall, discourages public film showings, so most films shown here require the co-sponsorship of a U-M department. Parking in U-M structures at Hill St. near Tappan St. or at Church St. near South University Ave.

MLB 3 & 4, Modern Languages Building, corner of Thayer and Washington streets. MLB 3 seats about 500 people in theater-type seats and is air-conditioned. It has a smallish screen; the few side seats in front are at a sharp angle to it. Sound is fair at best. MLB 4 seats 350 people in theater-type seats and is also air-conditioned. This smaller auditorium has about the same sound and relative screen size. Parking in the U-M Thayer St. structure across the street.

Natural Sciences Building Auditorium, Natural Sciences Building, 830 North University Ave. at Thayer St. The auditorium is at the back of the building, on the Diag. This steeply sloped lecture hall offers a good view from all seats. The picture and sound in this theater are excellent, after an extensive 1991 renovation, and the newly padded seats are much better than the old wooden ones. Unfortunately, the leg room remains minimal. Parking at the U-M Thayer St. structure.

Visual Arts

The Ann Arbor Art Fair put Ann Arbor on the visual arts map. The four-day event, actually three separate simultaneous fairs, draws artists from across the country and visitors from throughout the Midwest. But long before the fair began, the city had a healthy population of both artists and art lovers. For the 361 days a year when the Art Fair isn't in town, Ann Arbor has a diverse and growing art scene, from rotating exhibits in coffeehouses to the U-M's ambitious and increasingly popular Museum of Art.

This section includes information on the Art Fair and on both private and nonprofit art galleries in the Ann Arbor school district.

Ann Arbor Art Fair

The annual Art Fair is the biggest event of the summer, attracting an estimated half-million visitors over four days. The draw is actually three separate fairs: the original Ann Arbor Street Art Fair (994–5260) on South University, the State Street Area Art Fair (663–6511) in the State Street shopping area, and the Summer Art Fair (662–3382), with sections on State Street next to the U-M campus and on Main Street. In addition to displays by more than a thousand artists, the fairs feature a variety of outdoor entertainment and related events. 1995 Art Fair dates: July 19–22.

The fair-gallery connection

Cross-pollinating the arts

GREGORY FOX

It's been ten years since Helen Welford ran an art fair, but the memories are still strong. "I still look at the sky at nine a.m. on the first day of the fair," says Welford, who now coordinates art and programs at the U-M's North Campus Commons, "and I say, 'Is it going to rain?' "

When most people think about the visual arts in Ann Arbor, their first thought is of the annual Ann Arbor Art Fair. The annual four-day extravaganza is so overpowering it sometimes obscures the city's art galleries—a fact that always irritates some gallery owners, who feel that they labor year-round educating Ann Arborites about art, only to be eclipsed by a gaudy carnival of uncertain artistic merit.

You certainly couldn't find more different settings for seeing art: on one hand, the serene, contemplative, and sparsely populated environment of most museums and galleries, and on the other, the artists' tents jammed shoulder to shoulder, the packed streets, and blazing sun, or—almost always at some point in the fair—the pouring rain. The fair's brief life and hurly-burly tone do affect the kinds of work sold there—it's a venue that favors work with moderate prices and a quick aesthetic impact. But there's no truth to the canard that the fair is too popular to be real art. Helen Welford, who went from running what is today the Michigan Guild's Summer Art Fair to an academic gallery space, is just one of scores of people who comfortably bridge the worlds of fair and gallery.

Just ask Marilyn Gouin, the Michigan Guild's special projects coordinator. When Gouin walks into the Ann Arbor Art Association's Art Center on Liberty Street, she typically finds work by four or five artists she knows from the Art Fair. At the ArtCafe on Washington, the number is more like a dozen. Another Guild member, jeweler Vicki Schwager, sells her work next door at Artful Exchange. And that's not counting the artists whose work Gouin sees daily at the Guild's own gallery on Fourth Avenue.

"There's a tremendous amount of crossover," says Art Association head Marsha Chamberlin. Association members helped launch the first Street Art Fair in 1960, and the connection has remained strong. Susan Froelich, the Street Art Fair's coordinator for many years, previously ran the Art Association's gallery, and Chamberlin herself once sold pottery at the Guild fair. The long list of Art Center exhibitors and teachers who sell at the fair includes photographer Chris Coffey (State Street Area Art Fair), printmakers Laura Strowe and Allan Reid and potters Stefanie Samuels and I. B. Remsen (Street Art Fair), and clothing maker Terry O'Toole, jeweler Joe Cyberski, potter Stan Baker, and toymaker Tom Dowling (Summer Art Fair).

If you missed Richard Aerni's ceramics, Lee Marricini's jewelry, or Michael Jaross's glass at the Street Art Fair, you can find them year-round at Selo-Shevel's Main Street galleries. Jerry Berta (State Street) sells his wacky ceramic sculpture there, too. Down the block, Jill Damon, who once co-chaired the Street Art Fair Acceptance Committee, now has her own gallery, 16 Hands, where her artists include Street Art Fair glassmakers James Wilbat and Gary Gienetti and potter Paul Eshelman and sculptor Michael Burns from the State Street Fair. Trish DeBoer's eponymous gallery in the Market Place carries Jon Michael Route's pewter, Chris Roberts-Antieau's T-shirts and cards, Richard Kooyman and Barbara Browning's wood, and Deborah Banyas's intriguing sewn figures; for four days in July, you can find Route and Roberts-Antieau in the Street Art Fair and Kooyman, Browning, and Banyas at the State Street Area Fair.

The list goes on. Half of the dozen potters collectively represented at the Clay Gallery in Nickels Arcade also sell their work during the fair, at the Potters Guild booth. One Michigan Guild potter, Kay Yourist, maintains her own year-round studio-gallery on Packard; another, Jeri Hollister, offers her amazing ceramic horses at the city's newest gallery, the Spotted Bear on State Street. Alexa Lee shows no Art Fair artists at her ambitious new gallery in Nickels Arcade, but she works nonetheless to build bridges between the academic-oriented fine arts and more populist private galleries. Lee collaborates with the U-M Art Museum and School of Art and also chairs the New Art League, which sponsors the annual Art Walk to promote the city's diverse art spaces. "We're trying to be more of a community than we have been in the past," explains Lee. "The more we are known as an arts community, the better for everybody."

"The Art Fair's not a museum, and it shouldn't be," comments Helen Welford of North Campus Commons. "The museum's the museum." And though Welford no longer has to worry that a sudden windstorm might sweep her galleries away, she still wants to maintain something of the fair's accessibility.

"The Art Fair brings art into the community, and one of the things I feel very strongly about my gallery areas is that they're plumped in the middle of places people walk," says Welford. "You can't walk from the College of Engineering through the Commons here on your way to lunch without going past an exhibit." Welford entices her casual connoisseurs with work by U-M art students and by local artists—many of them people Welford met through the art fairs. —John Hilton

Restaurants

Eating out is one of Ann Arbor's favorite pastimes, and the restaurant industry is booming. The number of restaurants has more than doubled in the past twenty-five years, and new ones open every month. The best-known cluster is on South Main Street, where two dozen are packed into four city blocks; but there are good restaurants all over town, from Paesano's on Washtenaw to Siam Kitchen in the Westgate shopping center. To simplify the search, this list of restaurants is divided by type—see the list of headings below.

Blimpy Burger

For four decades, U-M students weary of dorm food at the West and South Quadrangle residence halls have walked one minute west to the corner of Division and Packard to join the Blimpy fraternity.

Like a fraternity's, Blimpy Burger's rituals can mystify an outsider. Ann Arbor's oldest hamburger stand has a unique regimen, and first-time visitors may want to take a regular with them for guidance. There are no servers; you enter the small, low-ceilinged room on the side, proceed to the back to pick up a tray and help yourself to a beverage, and join the queue along the long, narrow counter that runs the length of the room. Here you order your food, watch it being cooked not three feet away, and then pay for it at the end.

When the busy cook or his assistants ask you what you want, be prepared to bark your order quickly and concisely, and at just the right time for each item. Orders for items from the deep fryer are usually taken first. As you move closer to the grill area, you will be asked what kind of burger you want—double, triple, quad, or quint—and whether you want cheese and/or grilled toppings such as peppers or onions. Later still you will be asked to specify what kind of bun you prefer, and then what condiments. The assembly-line ordering, cooking, wrapping, paying process is amazingly efficient: it could have been a prototype for Japanese car makers' "just-in-time" techniques.

The basic Blimpy premise is one of multiple beef patties—single burgers are not even on the menu—piled high with your selection from a list of toppings that includes onions, peppers, sauteed mushrooms, and even fried eggs. (A mathematician once calculated that there are 245,760 possible combinations.) The individual burger patties are small (1.6 ounces), which allows for quick cooking on the large grill; they come off thin, fragile, tender, and aromatic, with charred edges. The multipurpose grill also serves to saute onions and peppers, fry bacon, and warm buns.

For lunch I enjoyed a quad burger with cheddar on an onion roll ($3.02) and an order of fries (96¢). Blimpy burgers are not for the weak of heart or artery. Grease—very tasty grease—is the order of the day, and several napkins are required for eating. With four patties, cheese, and piled-on condiments, my burger was sloppy to eat, with grease and ketchup dripping onto the waxed-paper sheet all Blimpy burgers are wrapped in. But the mess is worth it: as always, the burger was delicious.

On another visit, I tried the marinated grilled chicken tarragon sandwich ($3.95). The chicken, a boneless, skinless breast, was nicely charred, flavorful, and moist, if a little small in comparison to its large kaiser bun (30¢ extra). It certainly would provide a respectable alternative for those not interested in beef—if they ever ventured into Blimpy's in the first place.

The usual accompaniments are deep-fried vegetables—potatoes, zucchini, onion rings, and cauliflower (all $1.54). All are handcut and breaded on the premises, and the extra effort is apparent. The breading, although not the lightest, does not mask the crispness of the fresh cauliflower and the zucchini sticks, and the french fries are wide, thick, and crunchy. All are cooked in canola oil. Soups, salads, and a few specialty sandwiches round out the menu; many of these items are good, but they clearly are secondary to Blimpy's namesake burger.

Legendary founder "Krazy Jim" Shafer refused for years to serve soft drinks, but new management has relented and offers a self-serve cooler full of soft drinks as well as milk, fruit juices, and flavored teas. Potato and other deli-type salads are frequently available. Cookies and brownies are more notable for their large size than for their moistness or flavor.

A typical weekday lunchtime finds a good number of U-M students, a few utility or city workers and downtown office types, and perhaps some high school students sitting at the tall, uncomfortable rotating stools in front of the tall, olive-green plastic tables. More comfortable seating is available at a lower counter in the front of the room, which also affords a bird's-eye view southwest toward the busy three-way intersection of Division, Packard, and Madison streets.

GREGORY FOX

The Gandy Dancer

It's been twenty-five years since the Gandy Dancer, Ann Arbor's Richardsonian-Romanesque train station/seafood restaurant, was the hot new place in town. Yet on a recent Tuesday evening in summer, with many locals vacationing and the student population at its yearly low, the restaurant was still bustling. Its lovely dining rooms were nearly filled with couples of all ages, families, and businesspeople intent on impressing their out-of-town colleagues.

For sheer atmosphere, it is difficult to top the Gandy Dancer. Everything about the place—the old brick street out front, the train tracks in back, the massive stone walls, the simultaneously cavernous and cozy dining spaces, the wonderful train memorabilia all about—conspires to make it work. Add good food and competent, unobtrusive service (the annoyingly perky, intrusive waitperson seems to have faded with the 1980's), and you've got all the makings of a classic restaurant.

My husband and I and three friends sat in the fern-filled garden room—my favorite spot in the Gandy Dancer, because of the way the light comes in through the long wall of glass that overlooks the train tracks and the bank of trees beyond. We might have been far out in the country, in Michigan or in France. During our dinner, an Amtrak train appeared, heading west, and a long freight train dashed past, heading east.

A small crock of cape bluefish pate with matzoh arrived at our table as we sat down—a nice touch. One friend, intrigued by a mysterious appetizer called "hot rocks," promptly ordered it. The small, lightly breaded shrimp, vinegary and spicy, were a hit all around. We also ordered deep-fried calamari, which exhibited none of the sins often committed with calamari (like cooking it to the rubber stage); it came with a honey dijon sauce for dipping. Maryland crab cakes were moist, delicate, and loosely put together, as crab cakes should be. The accompanying fresh salsa (pineapple, cilantro, ginger, green and red pepper, mango, and lime juice) was exceptional.

Salads appeared next. A Caesar salad and a bibb lettuce concoction with pine nuts, blue cheese, and a raspberry vinegar–maple syrup dressing were worthy examples of the genre. Restaurant coleslaw can be dreadful, but not the light, vinegar-based Gandy Dancer version that we passed around. A taste of their famous chowder was next on the agenda, prompting the obligatory conversation about how good it always is. I am a diehard New England chowder fan, so the tomato-based Charley's fish chowder is not my favorite, but this evening it was at its savory best.

My favorite main course was my husband's chargrilled sea scallops: sweet and tender, lightly marinated in a raspberry and honey sauce, with a fleeting from-the-grill flavor. The three-grain rice and fresh green beans on the plate with the scallops made a pretty presentation. Jambalaya over rice was a spicy blend of seafood and sausage. The friend who ordered it was off to New Orleans a few days later, where he planned to order jambalaya again and compare. The only disappointment among the entrees was his wife's bouillabaisse, which was salty and overly suffused with saffron. My shrimp fettuccine verde with cream, basil, sun-dried tomatoes, and goat cheese came in a dauntingly large bowl and was a bit rich, but I liked the combination of flavors and may try to recreate it at home without the cream.

We felt a moral obligation to investigate the desserts. Since it was summer, we selected Michigan cherry pie (which arrived in a small frying pan), white chocolate mousse with a raspberry sauce, and a custard tart with almond-flavored crust, topped with raspberries and blueberries. All were good, the mousse even a rave. When I make a cherry pie, I like to let the tartness of the cherries shine through, so I found this one too sweet; but the frying pan presentation was memorable.

As we staggered out onto the brick pavement of Depot Street, we knew we would be back. The popularity of individual restaurants in Ann Arbor waxes and wanes, but the Gandy Dancer, as Ben Jonson once said of William Shakespeare, is "not of an age, but for all time."

PETER YATES

The Kosmo Deli

The Kosmo Deli at Kerrytown, a restaurant confined to a 21-foot, heavily shellacked wooden counter and eleven vinyl-covered metal stools, is the place I would recommend to a lonely, hungry newcomer to Ann Arbor in search of solace. At the Kosmo, you can always depend on the kindness of strangers. The Kosmo has a loyal and diverse following of friendly regulars, and even when the customers of the moment are self-absorbed, white-shirted businessmen hurriedly washing down burgers and potato chips with Pepsi, the Korean owners, Kay and Henry Park, can be counted on to take an interest and brighten your day.

Our lonely newcomer needn't have much cash on hand when he arrives at the Kosmo. Ask Community High School students, a rabid, hard-core subgroup of Kosmo regulars, why they like to eat there: after telling you how fond they are of Henry and Kay, and how good the food is, they inevitably mention that the menu is easy on a high schooler's budget. At lunchtime on school days, the counter is three-deep with the Community High crowd, chatting amiably among themselves or bantering with Henry and Kay as they churn out grilled cheese sandwiches ($1.00), pizza bagels ($1.25), and BLT's ($2.50).

After a few trips to the Kosmo, our newcomer will likely turn into a regular. You know you are a regular at the Kosmo when you sit down, nod at Henry or Kay, and they begin to prepare your usual order—even if it is something not on the menu, concocted to your specifications.

Paul Anderson, an affable retired Ford engineer, is the Kosmo regular par excellence. Last year when the Parks bought the Kosmo, Anderson frequently sat at the counter telling Henry how many pieces of bacon the customers expected and how to make all the sandwiches. "After all," he pointed out, "I have eaten more sandwiches at the Kosmo than Henry has yet to make." Anderson's own usual order—not on the menu—is a sandwich of raw onion with yellow mustard on whole wheat toast. He says the raw onions keep him young and claims to be eighty-five (an exaggeration by several decades).

Anderson is clearly the leading outside expert on the Kosmo's menu. He praises the freshness of the food, loves the breakfasts (especially the chapchay omelette, available only on Saturdays), the egg rolls (never greasy and arguably the best in Ann Arbor), and the hot and sour soup. "It is especially good in the winter—cleans out your sinuses," he says. I tried the hot and sour soup, and found it thick with onions, tofu, carrots, pork, and mushrooms—I've never had better. My mouth burned pleasantly for a long time afterward.

The food at the Kosmo is straightforward, affordable, and good, and the Korean specialties are well worth checking out. But Henry and Kay and their devoted customers are what sets this place apart. Sandra McDevitt brings her two adopted Korean daughters regularly. Katie (age nine) likes the kimchee with rice, and Annie (age eleven) the vegetable tempura. They look forward to speaking Korean with Kay, who adores them.

A Community High sophomore, Heather Wiggin, told me with great seriousness that she was recently featured on the front page of the Ann Arbor News. "I'm 'Gifted but Forgotten,' " she announced dramatically. She called the food at the Kosmo "yummy" and breathlessly confided that Henry makes her friend Joy a pizza bagel with tomato: "Henry likes Joy; he won't do that for anyone else!"

One Friday at lunch I met Aliza Shevrin and her granddaughters, Ariel (age seven) and Susie (age four). The girls recently moved to Columbus, and were back for a nostalgic trip around town. Grandma used to pick them up from school every Friday and whisk them off to the Kosmo for lunch. Ariel always had a burger, Susie the curried tuna sandwich. Shevrin said visiting Kay was at the top of their long list of things to do that day.

Henry is smart and funny, and he communicates superbly, despite his struggles with his new language. He is also a sweet and friendly joker who teases everybody. "That'll be ten dollars," I heard him tell a Monahan's Seafood employee who had ordered only a Pepsi. He and Kay are wonderfully well matched, and their interest in the Community High kids, and in all of their customers, is genuine. The hungry newcomer to town can find good cheap eats and lively new friends at the Kosmo. In fact, the small world of the Kosmo is a community in itself, and can ultimately be a gateway into the larger community, a first step in becoming a part of it.

GREGORY FOX

The Prickly Pear

After twice waiting for close to an hour to eat at the Prickly Pear, I began to wish it had a larger dining room. But having recently happened upon times when it's not so crowded, I have to admit that the scale of the place has a lot to do with its charm.

The Prickly Pear's single narrow room is decorated in a funky southwestern motif. The side walls are lined with wooden booths whose partitions reach to the ceiling; if you are lucky enough to get one, you'll feel closed off from the commotion around you, almost as if you had a private room. From there you can focus your attention on your dining companions and the unusual dishes on the menu.

The Prickly Pear serves southwestern cuisine, a creative tweaking of Tex-Mex standbys with exotic ingredients—sort of a nouvelle Mexican. Take for instance the blue corn sweet potato cakes appetizer ($5.50). Two plump fritters, crispy on the outside from the fried blue corn, arrived with a generous portion of sour cream and guacamole. The sweet potato filling was wonderfully seasoned, and a small dollop of guacamole brought the flavor into full bloom. Another appetizer, grilled pizza ($5.95), delicately balanced several flavors—sweet (red mole sauce) and savory (cheese, pepper, and herbs)—atop a substantial wheat crust that had a soft, pita-like texture. The corn chowder, imbued with the essence of the poblano chili pepper and loaded with chunks of carrots and potatoes, was the best I've ever eaten. Neither starchy nor bland, it had a sophisticated texture and quite a kick to it.

By the time you get around to your entree after enjoying several generous and filling starters (not to mention the chips and salsa that preceded them), you will probably wish you had ordered light. Each meal comes with beans and rice so tasty in their own right that it's hard to brush them aside to leave room for the main course. The skillet fajitas (beef, chicken, or shrimp, $10.95) are enough for two people, and the fixings—lettuce, chopped tomatoes, and sour cream—are enough for four. It was a shame to smother the flavorful sirloin with so many other ingredients, but the meat was so tender that it made this sometimes difficult-to-eat dish easy to handle. Black bean Anaheim rellenos ($8.75) is a tasty vegetarian entree; but the chicken empanadas ($9.75), served with a novel toasted pumpkin seed cheese sauce, were simply too doughy and heavy after an opening round of appetizers.

Against our better judgment, my friends and I capped off one evening of heavy eating with two selections from the Prickly Pear's dessert tray: a chocolate chunk cheesecake and a blueberry cobbler. Even at the end of a large meal, the richer dessert was our favorite; the cheesecake was so light and creamy we couldn't stop eating it until every last crumb of the chocolate cookie crust was gone.

Tables in a garden area behind the restaurant expand the seating capacity in good weather. With a fence surrounding the half-dozen umbrella-topped tables, you'd never know Kline's parking lot was just on the other side. One late summer evening last year, my mother, brother, and I sat at a corner table, sipping cool drinks, fussing over the many tempting choices on the menu, and enjoying the southwestern flavor of the atmosphere—warm, laid-back, and far away.

Although Ann Arbor has more than its share of intellectual anti-materialists, its shopping offers big-city quality and diversity. It's a shopping draw for all of southeast Michigan and northwest Ohio. Downtown, campus, and Kerrytown area stores cater to exuberant students, their happy visiting parents, and campus and corporate visitors, as well as local residents. Add in the out-on-the-town high spirits of customers drawn by the area's many good restaurants (see p. 165), and you have the makings of an unusually festive shopping atmosphere.

Shopping information is organized into three sections:

Campus and Downtown
Major Malls
Strips and Boulevards

Campus and Downtown

Main Street and its east-west allies, Liberty and Washington streets, make up a commercial mosaic of the old and the new, the staid and the radical. Ehnis & Son, on West Liberty, offers sturdy, utilitarian shirts and shoes, recalling Ann Arbor's days as a salt-of-the-earth farming community, while just around the corner on Main, Peaceable Kingdom sells delicate mirrors festooned with grinning, hand-painted lizards. Restaurants and cafes abound, meeting every taste and budgetary bias. Unlike many small cities, this one still has its very own downtown department store, Kline's, which offers frequent deep-discount sales on clothes and housewares. Shopping downtown can be quaint and cozy, as when browsing for used books in the warren of stacks at West Side Book Shop, or delightfully overwhelming, as when confronted with chest-high piles of colorful carpets in the brightly lit showroom of Mir's Oriental Rugs.

Good news in recent years is the rebirth of Fourth Avenue between Liberty and Huron, which once held the distinction of being Ann Arbor's very own—albeit comparatively tame—red light district. Today the street's offerings include an elegant vintage clothing and furniture store, a running gear store, two bookstores, a rubber stamp store, a yarn shop, and several small restaurants. On Ashley Street, one block west of Main, interesting shops have been springing up where Hertler Bros. continues its reign—selling tools and gardening and home supplies—and where people congregate for breakfast at 3 a.m at the famed Fleetwood Diner. Art galleries flourish all around downtown: see Visual Arts, p. 159, for a full listing.

Many of the traditional stores still keep traditional hours. But as downtown's restaurant renaissance has lured more and more evening visitors to the area, many stores are staying open later to coax strollers inside for before- or after-meal browsing. Main Street's Falling Water Books and Collectables, for example, stays open until midnight on Fridays and Saturdays, selling everything from jewelry to drums to books on spirituality and self-awareness. Certainly the cafe boom has aided in the revitalization of downtown. Espresso Royale and Sweetwaters have become late-night destinations for students cramming for exams and lovers engaged in intense conversation. And Friday night "Midnight Madness," sponsored several times a year by the Main Street Area Association, provides block-party festivities while the public shops late at special sales.

The Kerrytown area, on North Fourth and Fifth avenues and Detroit Street, increasingly rivals downtown as a destination dining and shopping area. The two are close enough that as each grows bigger, they may eventually touch.

The Kerrytown complex was at the vanguard of the trend toward conversion of old urban warehouse and factory buildings into prime retail spaces. It first sprang up in the late 1960's to take advantage of crowds drawn to the Ann Arbor Farmers' Market next door. After a recent renovation, the Farmers' Market is now spiffed up with its own office and public restrooms. In the summer, the stalls are piled high with sweet corn and perfect tomatoes. In the fall and winter, pumpkins and Christmas wreaths fill the market with color and aroma. The Farmers' Market is open from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Saturdays year-round and on Wednesdays (same hours) from May to December. On Sundays from May to December, handmade arts and crafts are available at the Ann Arbor Artisan Market from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

In the mid-1980's, amid much controversy, the matching old houses on Braun Court across Fourth Avenue from Kerrytown were converted from rental housing to restaurants. Subsequently, the former White Swan Laundry (built in 1853 as Moses Rogers's agricultural implement works) was renovated and expanded into Market Place, whose commercial tenants include the popular Sweet Lorraine's restaurant, Hill O' Beans, and Of Gothic Proportions, a purveyor of gargoyles and stone statuary.

Kerrytown itself consists of three buildings that together house nearly 30 shops, businesses, and restaurants selling everything from foodstuffs to cruises to plants, candles, and children's toys. The center's largest stores are Workbench Furniture and Kitchen Port. Food shops that dot the ground level include a bakery, a gourmet carryout, a wine shop, and meat, produce, and seafood markets. During the school year, students from Community High School, across the street, compete for spots at the counter of the tiny Kosmo Deli (see review, p. 175). Hours vary, but the shops generally close at 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and at 5 p.m. on weekends.

Fun and interesting shops and galleries continue to spring up in the Kerrytown area alongside stalwart urban-pioneer retailers who've been at it for decades. North Fourth Avenue boasts the long-lived People's Food Co-op (which recently moved several doors down into a vastly improved space), alternative book and shoe stores, and cozy eateries. At the corner of Detroit Street and Kingsley resides a true Ann Arbor institution, Zingerman's Deli, and its next-door coffeehouse. And farther north on Detroit is the Treasure Mart, a beloved consignment/resale shop that stocks everything from 80-year-old postcards to first-rate antique furnishings.

Campus Area—State Street. The area just northwest of the main U-M campus (including South State Street, Maynard, and nearby cross streets) attracts throngs of shoppers, especially on weekend afternoons. Students and townsfolk mingle in these shops, where the university meets downtown Ann Arbor.

To many local minds, bookstores are part of the lifeblood of this city. In that respect, this area has a lot to offer. Though it was purchased in 1992 by Kmart, Borders Book Shop has retained its renowned academic depth and commitment to its community. In the summer of 1994, Borders vacated its home of two decades on State at Liberty and marched 350,000 books a block west on Liberty to the old Jacobson's department store. The new and vastly expanded Borders now includes a comprehensive music section, a wide selection of videos and new media (CD ROM's), and an in-house espresso cafe. Despite the presence of this market giant, smaller bookstores hold their own in this area, including the soothingly intellectual Shaman Drum (which, after years in its second-floor home, now occupies a freshly renovated State Street storefront) and the eclectic Kaleidoscope Books and Collectibles, where one can find old toys, collectors' editions of children's classics, Beatles cards, and used books on any subject. David's Books, at the corner of State and Liberty, specializes in used, rare, and out-of-print volumes.

The State Street area is home also to an astonishing collection of well-stocked recorded music outlets. Of note is Schoolkids' Records, home of the Schoolkids' Records label, which specializes in rock, folk, jazz, world music, and just about every other form of popular music. Last year, it completed a major expansion that united it with SKR Classical, its more genteel sister, and opened Schoolkids' Annex, which sells used tapes and CD's as well as obscure alternative and independent releases.

First-rate men's and women's clothing stores are dotted throughout this area. Midwest Baggage and Boots has a Santa Fe–style decor, hundreds of pairs of cowboy boots, and leather handbags and briefcases. Marti Walker has for decades catered to the sporty-but-fashionable tastes of female U-M students, while across the street, in the ground floor of the old State Theater, Urban Outfitters mixes trendy flannels and velvets with fun housewares and gift items in a vaguely industrial setting for alternative-minded youth. The stores on the upper floors of the State Street buildings are a funky enclave in themselves, selling vintage clothes, Grateful Dead paraphernalia, used records, and old movie posters.

Nickels Arcade has been around since the early days of the century. This block-long (State Street to Maynard) glass-roofed assortment of shops, offices, and galleries has a quaint European air; in bad weather it offers a respite from rain and snow. (In many ways, it's the area's first enclosed mall.) The Alexa Lee Gallery, a relative newcomer to the Arcade's second floor, features prints and sculpture by Midwest artists and a comprehensive framing service. The aromatic Maison Edwards tobacconist is one of the oldest Arcade stores. The year-old Chris Triola gallery sells striking handknit sweaters with ethnic patterns.

Campus Area—South University Avenue. If Martians landed on the South U strip, they could learn a lot about U-M student life from the stores that line this street. Ulrich's, a long-established textbook, computer, and art supplies outlet, anchors the corner of South University and East University. Along South U are stores devoted to jewelry, T-shirts bearing outrageous slogans, software, fast food, bikes, condoms, and six-packs. The newly expanded Tower Records/Video/Books lures many non-students to the area, as does Middle Earth (known for its inventive window displays), with its dazzlingly zany gift goods and knick-knacks from around the world. Village Corner, at the corner of South U and Forest, is a curious hybrid—part convenience store, part first-rate wine collection.

Major Malls

Arborland Mall, Washtenaw Avenue just west of US-23 (information: 971–1825). Ann Arbor's first genuine shopping mall is announced by a giant red "A" that towers over the entrance to its parking lot. Its stores are mostly outlets of discount chains, including Marshall's, Service Merchandise, Burlington Coat Factory, Toys R Us, and F&M Distributors. Smaller shops offer everything from kitchen supplies to shoes. There are more than 40 stores, plus a food court offering pizza, burgers, and Mexican, Chinese, and Greek food. The mall is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

Briarwood Mall, off State Street between Eisenhower Parkway and I-94 (information: 761–9550), almost singlehandedly triggered the suburbanization of Ann Arbor's south side. A 130-store giant, Briarwood draws shoppers from a 40-mile radius and from various demographic niches, although it tends toward more upscale offerings. Anchor stores Sears, J. C. Penney, and Hudson's were joined last year by a classy Jacobson's, which relocated from the campus area to the more sedate mall. Other recent additions include the flamboyant new Warner Bros. Studio Store, World Bead, and a Coach leathergoods store. In the past year, the Briarwood experience has been enlivened by the Common Market, a collection of pushcarts scattered throughout the mall selling everything from jewelry to baseball cards to aromatic oils. Briarwood also incorporates a United Artists multiscreen movie complex that recently underwent a thorough renovation (see Entertainment, p. 151). Mall hours are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m to 9 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Strips and Boulevards

Ann Arbor–Saline Road at I-94, which a decade ago passed through old farm fields on the city's south side, is now densely lined with new offices, apartments, and shopping centers. Busch's Valu Land is the huge but surprisingly manageable grocery store that anchors Woodland Plaza (Ann Arbor–Saline Road at South Main Street). It's joined by video and software stores, the Great Harvest Bread Company (which hands out delicious samples of fresh, buttered bread), and Children's Orchard, a well-stocked resale store for kids. Around the corner, YES Yogurt sells great, rolled-up lavash sandwiches. Cranbrook Village (Ann Arbor–Saline at Eisenhower) hosts a Mervyn's, Pier 1, Lerner's, and the classy Blue Heron Wine Shop and Deli. Across Eisenhower stands the imposing Colonnade, an architecturally brave semicircle of stores whose offerings include fine china at Heslop's, furniture at Newton, flea collars at the Parkway Animal Clinic, and country music at the popular Lonestar Steakhouse.

The commercial growth on the south side of I-94 has been particularly striking in the last five years. There's a vast Meijer superstore with an equally vast parking lot; to one side, a new McDonald's sits like a sentry on a hill. Waters Road, until recently a lovely dirt road that meandered through cornfields, now bisects the Oak Valley shopping center—home to Target, Office Max, JoAnn Fabrics, the Sveden House Buffet, and a massive Best Buy appliance store, as well as many smaller food and discount clothing stores.

Carpenter Road from Washtenaw Avenue to Ellsworth Road used to be one of the perimeters of Ann Arbor, back when there was actually farmland to be passed through before reaching Ypsi. Now, it's a bona fide strip peppered with businesses. A Sam's Club discount warehouse looms at the corner of Michigan Avenue and Carpenter Road, while a Meijer hypermarket sprawls across the corner of Carpenter and Ellsworth. Farther north, in what was just months ago a field, a vast new HQ (Home Quarters) superstore caters to the needs of local do-it-yourselfers (and competes with Builders Square nearby on Washtenaw). There are big changes under way at Carpenter Plaza (corner of Carpenter and Packard), where a huge new Kroger supermarket will be finished by spring 1995, and Minnesota Fabrics will be expanding. Also on Carpenter: Future Sound (a high quality mobile audio emporium) and several restaurants.

The seasons of the Farmers' Market

It's loveliest of all in August

A few years ago I feared I was about to make my last trip to the Ann Arbor Farmers' Market. The company my husband worked for closed. Because he worked as a computer hard-drive engineer, we were faced with the prospect of pulling up our deep midwestern roots and heading for California, home of the computer hard-drive industry. Job offers came in, hideous California house-hunting expeditions were undertaken, and we began to try to imagine the actual moment we would leave behind much-loved friends and family, our beautiful house in Ypsilanti, concerts at Hill Auditorium, sailboating on the Great Lakes, and August mornings at the Farmers' Market.

I don't remember my first trip to the Farmers' Market. Likely it was around the time I graduated from the U-M in the early 1970's, after seven years of waitressing on ocean liners, ski bumming in Colorado, traveling in Europe, and occasionally completing two consecutive semesters of school. All of a sudden I was a resident of Ann Arbor instead of a transient student. It was then that some of the places that defined Ann Arbor as a city apart from the university first came into focus for me: the Treasure Mart, the Del Rio, the Farmers' Market.

In those post-college days, the market taught me the logic and joy of cooking according to the seasons. I ate what I bought at the market: the delicious spinach of early spring, the tiny leaves such a pain to wash; tomatoes, real only if purchased from farmers in the summer; early apples, much anticipated harbingers of fall. I patronized the market fifty-two weeks a year. On a day in January in the early 1980's with the wind chill 53 degrees below zero, I was there buying eggs and apples from the few lonely farmers. They resembled bundled-up Russians from the worst moments in "Dr. Zhivago" as they made change quickly with briefly bared hands.

Although my love for the market extends year-round, no other time compares to a perfect morning in August or early September. Because everything here is grown by the person selling it, the market reflects the particular rhythm of growth and harvest in southern Michigan, and late summer finds everything at its peak. At 7 a.m., the air is fresh and pleasant, and the crowds an hour or two away. The aisles are a sensory jolt: red, yellow, and green peppers heaped high; tiny, shiny purple eggplants; melons; green beans; blueberries; late summer raspberries; pattypan squashes; peaches. And flowers—everywhere you look, glorious cut flowers—asters, cosmos, zinnias, snapdragons, dahlias, baby's breath, delphiniums. It is overwhelming, achingly lovely, a definitive Ann Arbor experience. I never for a moment believed that California's charms (Pacific coastline, San Francisco, $400,000 tract houses) could compensate for never again spending a Wednesday or Saturday morning at the Farmers' Market.

We didn't move. Just as we were putting our house on the market, a new career fell into my husband's lap. I am again looking forward to late summer at the market. Take note, fellow Ann Arborites: sleeping in on Saturday mornings in August and early September is overrated. Get to the market early. You won't be sorry—although you don't want to make the mistake a friend of mine once made. She was so excited about getting to the market early that she arrived before the farmers.

Welcome to Ann Arbor

We are proud to be celebrating our eighteenth year in Ann Arbor. Schoolkids' has been rated one of the top twenty music stores in the country. Here's a sample of what folks are saying about us:

"Schoolkids' has been my favorite store in America for almost 18 years. Schoolkids' is a genuine 'record store' in the classic sense; its atmosphere and its regard for the music it sells is clearly unique in the business. It does not underestimate the taste or intelligence of its customers. It carries the widest spectrum of music—all sorts of music—that I've ever seen anywhere. Its employees are helpful, knowledgeable fans of music rather than mere button pushers. Aside from the obvious hits, the store goes out of its way to carry titles that, however obscure, are genuinely GOOD—a trait which customers respect and appreciate."

The Colonnade on Eisenhower Parkway

Jackson Road, bisecting fast-growing Scio Township from east to west, has sprouted a series of small strip centers in recent years. They cater mostly to the needs of residents of the new subdivisions leapfrogging their way westward and of city dwellers hunting for a shopping ambience that's not quite mall, not quite downtown. A cruise down Jackson Road offers everything from garden supplies to dance lessons. At Jackson Centre, the union of the Elite Bakeries with Uptown Coney Island (two separate eateries with no wall between them) makes for an unusual hangout. Slightly farther out, Parkland Center hosts Jonathan's Restaurant, a reincarnation of the sorely missed Manikas restaurant on Main Street that closed last year. Across the street, Independence Plaza is home to the vastly expanded Garage Sale Gallery, the Arthur Murray Dance Studio, and Ann Arbor Bedding. Even before the strips' arrival, Jackson Road was lined with auto dealerships and garages; their number is growing with the arrival of an auto mall on the former site of Mercywood Hospital.

Plymouth Road is the main artery of Ann Arbor's north side. Its proximity to hospitals and student housing results in a higher-than-average percentage of shoppers wearing surgical scrubs. Near US-23, the Plymouth-Green shopping center is anchored by Arbor Drugs and a new Busch's Valu Land supermarket. Several gift shops and restaurants dot the plaza. Farther west, two impressive neighborhood shopping centers occupy opposite corners at the intersection of Plymouth and Nixon roads. Plymouth Mall is home to the Merchant of Vino Warehouse, which draws customers with unusual gourmet items plus first-rate produce from the Produce Station. The mall also houses the Flim Flam Family Restaurant and Deli for unpretentious good eating, the terrific new Antiques Mall of Ann Arbor (35 dealers in a pleasant maze of stalls), and a fascinating oriental grocery with cheerful window signs that invite shoppers to "Experience Different Food Culture Here!" Across Nixon Road, Traver Village boasts a massive Kroger, Webster's Books, Crown House of Gifts, White Rabbit Toys, a

The Courtyard Shops, off Plymouth at Murfin Drive, have recently become a destination for shoppers from all over the city. Lookinglass Quilt Shop and Pastimes Beadery & Crafts Supplies draw the craft-conscious. Blue Dahlia sells fine women's clothing; Ancient Formula sells health food, and A-1 Electronics fixes broken TV's and VCR's. Upstairs is The Shops Above, a charming, brick-floored corridor lined with Victoriana, cards, soaps, antique jewelry, and more. And the restaurants just keep popping up here. Exotic Bakeries has been at the plaza since 1991. It's been joined by a Subway, Ben's, Cafe Marie, Lucky Kitchen, and Michigan's only Turkish restaurant, Ayse's Courtyard Cafe.

Washtenaw Avenue from Platt Road east to US-23 is home to two regional appliance chains, ABC Warehouse and Fretter's, as well as Frank's Nursery, auto dealerships, locally owned and chain restaurants and motels, and stores selling hardware, floor coverings, and other domestic merchandise. Simon's Farm Market is a welcome recent addition, bright with fresh produce during the summer, redolent with the smell of fresh-cut Christmas trees during the holidays. Right next door is a huge new Barnes & Noble superstore, complete with an attached software store and in-house coffee shop. Arborland is at the top of the hill, just before US-23.

West Stadium Boulevard between Pauline Boulevard and Jackson Road is the west side counterpart of Washtenaw, displaying the mix typical of classic American arterial retailing. This area once marked the western edge of urban Ann Arbor, but there's little sense of that now. Businesses concerned with cars and food, including locally owned and chain restaurants, dominate a scene spotted with sporting goods, appliance, photo, clothing, and hardware stores. Stadium merges with Maple Road just south of Jackson Road, and the street that separates the two major shopping centers of the strip: Westgate and Maple Village. Maple Village houses a Kmart, Dunham's Sporting Goods, a new Montgomery Ward Clearance Center, Fox Village Theater (see Entertainment, p. 151), and an assortment of smaller businesses and restaurants. Westgate offers discount clothing stores such as T. J. Maxx and Clothestime, along with a newly expanded Barry Bagel's, the magnificent Siam Kitchen, the Little Professor bookstore, and a big Kroger store. Just north of Liberty is Arbor Farms, Ann Arbor's original natural foods supermarket.

Finally, Ann Arbor's neighborhood shopping strips run the gamut from funky to fashionable. The assortment of stores at the foot of Broadway boasts two thrift shops, a travel agency, and a local landmark—Broadway Gifts, a Hallmark store that has comically bedecked the towers of an old church with a party hat and a giant gift box. The intersection of Packard and Platt roads, once the center of the independent town of East Ann Arbor, features unpretentious shops in older buildings. Lamp Post Plaza, where East Stadium and Washtenaw merge, has a new Whole Foods grocery store, one in a growing Texas-based chain that concentrates on current ecological concerns. The plaza also houses Charlotte's Corner, a children's book and toy store with its own play area, a florist, a floor-coverings store, a jeweler, an optician, a women's used-clothing shop, and several service businesses. South Main Market, on Main Street just south of Madison, is home to six excellent small food stores where owners greet regulars by name. A Chinese restaurant, copy shop, and drugstore round out the plaza. The Georgetown Mall on Packard is a neighborhood strip with a Kroger, a drugstore, a gift shop, and several service stores. The Maple-Miller shopping center, though small, has an upbeat set of stores, including a friendly butcher shop, a dry cleaner, a travel agent, and the elegant Lagniappe Gourmet Foods and Catering. ■

Emergency Help

J. ADRIAN WYLIE

Emergency 911

For emergencies in Ann Arbor and all of Washtenaw County, dial 911. This emergency number connects callers with the nearest police communications center or the Washtenaw Central Dispatch. These centers are linked directly to Huron Valley Ambulance and local fire departments. After dialing 911, give the dispatcher your name and the phone number and address at which emergency aid is needed. Do not hang up until the dispatcher terminates the call. Pay phones don't require coins for 911 calls.

U-M Campus Emergency Telephones. There are 70 emergency freestanding blue light telephones scattered around the U-M campus. They connect directly to the U-M Office of Public Safety (24 hours), which contacts police, fire, or ambulance services. On-site response within five minutes. In addition, there are approximately 190 emergency telephones scattered through campus parking structures and in the elevators of newer campus buildings.

Regional Poison Control Center. (313) 745–5711 (24 hours). Give poison emergency staff the patient's name and phone number, patient's symptoms, any available information on the toxic agent ingested or inhaled, and time elapsed. If possible, have the poisonous product with you when you call. Poison emergency staff will make referrals and follow-up calls if necessary.

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital General Emergency. 712–3000.

Animals

Animal Control (City of Ann Arbor). 994–2865 (Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–4 p.m.; after hours call 994–2911). Responds to complaints about loose dogs, dog bites, and dangerous wild animals.

Animal Emergency Clinic of Washtenaw County, 4126 Packard Rd. 971–8774. After-hours emergency veterinary care for dogs and cats. No routine veterinary care. Open Mon.–Fri. 6 p.m.–8 a.m.; Sat. noon–Mon. 8 a.m.; holidays, 24 hours.

Bird Rescue of Huron Valley. 996–5600 (24 hours). Rescue and rehabilitation of injured, sick, and orphaned wild birds.

Humane Society of Huron Valley, 3100 Cherry Hill Rd. 662–2375 (24 hours). Humane Society personnel assist in emergencies involving injured or trapped wild animals or birds, abandoned animal babies, and the like.

Assault/Mental Health

Assault Crisis Center, 1866 Packard Rd., Ypsilanti. 483–7273 (24 hours). Sexual assault crisis counseling for adults and children living in Washtenaw County. Referrals for medical treatment.

U-M Hospitals Psychiatric Emergency Services. 996–4747 (24 hours). Suicide and emotional crisis counseling by phone or walk-in. Psychiatric emergency room for immediate crisis counseling (go to U-M Hospitals emergency department). Emergency outreach service sends crisis team to psychiatric emergencies within Washtenaw County.

Washtenaw County Protective Services. (Michigan Department of Social Services). 481–9110 (24 hours). Emergency investigative response for people in neglect or abuse situations, including those with physical or developmental disabilities; those suffering from mental illness; children; or the frail elderly.

Disasters

American Red Cross Disaster Line. 971–5300 (Mon.–Fri. 8:30 a.m.–5 p.m.; after-hours answering machine directs messages to on-duty staff). Information on the following emergency services: the Michigan Consolidated Gas heat bank program (preventing winter utility shutoff) and the Ann Arbor assistance fund (preventing housing eviction). Food, clothing, and shelter relief for victims of natural disasters, and information to families with relatives in disaster areas. Emergency worldwide communication and financial assistance for families with members in the military.

Disaster Preparedness. 761–2425 (Mon.–Fri. 8 a.m.–4:30 p.m.). Provides information about severe storm systems, technological disasters, and hazardous material spills or leaks within Ann Arbor. The Washtenaw County Center for Emergency Management (971–1152) handles the same concerns for areas outside the city limits and also fields questions about the 911 surcharge on phone bills.
